INTRODUCTION.

THE manuscript from which the following work has been printed, is a folio, $10\frac{7}{8}$ by $6\frac{1}{2}$ inches, containing 162 leaves of parchment. It is an undoubted original, and is now preserved in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, among the manuscripts formerly belonging to Archbishop Ussher, and presented to the University by King Charles II. The writing begins on the second page of the first leaf. The first page was originally blank, and contains now only some idle scribbling, of no importance, together with the old class marks by which the volume was distinguished in former arrangements of the Library. These are "II. 4, 2, 7."—"P. 15."—"I. 126." By the last of these this manuscript is referred to in the printed "Catalogi Librorum MStorum Angliae et Hiberniae^a." The volume consists of two parts, which may be distinguished as the Book of Obits of the Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity, Dublin, and the Martyrology. These parts are of different dates, the Martyrology being evidently the older. They were therefore originally distinct, although now bound together in the same volume, and may fitly be treated of separately.

THE

THE BOOK OF OBITS.

The first part of the manuscript, viz., the Mortilogium, Obitarium, or Book of Obits, occupies the first fifty-nine pages of the present volume; foll. 1–50 of the original.

I. It begins (on the back of fol. 1) with the curious list of relics which will be found in pages 3 and 4 of this publication. This list is in the original, i.e., the oldest hand found in this part of the manuscript.

Upon this catalogue of relics, as it contains some articles of historical interest, it will be necessary to make some remarks.

The CRUCIFIX, “que bis verba sonasse legitur, &c.,” is mentioned by Giraldus Cambrensis; and the word legitur in the entry, is very probably an allusion to his treatise De mirabilibus Hiberniae (Top. Hib. dist. ii. cap. xliv.), where the following miracle is recorded:

“Nunc ea quæ circa moderna contigerunt tempora explicemus. Dubliniaæ in Ecclesia S. Trinitatis, est crux quædam virtuosissima vultum preferens crucifixi. Hæc non multis annis ante aduentum Anglorum (Ostmannorum scil. tempore) pluribus audientibus sacrum os in verba resolvit. Contigerat enim quendam civium super contractu quodam eam solam testem et quasi sponsorem invocasse: processu vero temporis, eo, cum quo contraxerat, pactum penitus inficiante, et pecuniam, quam eius fidei crediderat constanter abnegante, de censura civium ironica magis tamen quam seria, astantibus ad hoc in Ecclesia predicta multis et audientibus, crux adulata et obtestata testimonium perhibuit veritatib.”

This, however, is only one instance of words miraculously uttered by the crucifix, and the catalogue says, “bis verba sonasse legitur;” if

^b So old was the custom of making bargains and paying money in churches; and it continued to a late period, as appears from an engagement in the Chapter Book of St. Patrick’s Cathedral, dated the 18th of May, 1697, between the Dean and Chapter and Renatus Harris, contracting on the part of the former to pay Harris “att Strongbow’s tomb in Christ Church in the countie of Dublin,” the sum of £350, by instalments, at stated times, for additional stops to the organ in St. Patrick’s.

if a second case is on record, it has escaped the research of the writer of these remarks. But the crucifix (as indicated by the et cetera, in the entry above quoted) was said to have been honoured with other miracles; these are also enumerated by Giraldus, whose words will be found below^c; It is evident from his testimony, that this crucifix was in possession of the Cathedral, and held in great veneration before the twelfth century^d.

The

^c Gir. Cambr. ibid. cap. xlv. “De eadem Cruce immobili facta. Comite Ric. primo Dubliniam cum exercitu veniente: Ciues, mente malorum plerunque presaga, easun ciuitatis metuentes, et de defensione diffidentes, eum fugam iam navigio machina- rentur, crucem illam secum ad insulas asportare volebant. Quod cum omni con- namine et diligentia effectui mancipare tentassent, totius ciuitatis populus nec vi, nec ingenio, eam à loco movere potuerat.” And cap. xlvi. “De denario cruci oblatu- bis resiliente, et tertio post confessionem re- manente, et ocreis ferreis miraculose resti- tutis. Capta vero civitate, cum sagittarius quidam inter alios denarium ad crucem obtulisset: revertens eundem statim post se volantem à tergo suscepit. Cui iterum eundem resumenti, et a crucem reportanti, videntibus, et admirantibus multis idem evenit. Tum vero coram omnibus confessus est, se domos Archiepiscopi intra ecclesiæ illius septa eodem die spoliasse: et sic pecunia super hoc ei injuncta, redi- ditisque uniuersis, quæ ei obvenerant: tertio denarium eundem cum timore magno et reuerentia ad crucem retulit, qui et ibidem tum demum sine motu permanxit.

Item Reymundo Comitis Rich. tunc con- stabulario, cum juvenis quidam de familia sua ferreas ocreas furto sustulisset: tota eiusdem familia in Ecclesia Sanctæ Trini- tatis super crucem prefatam se ab hoc facinore sacramento purgavit. Nec multo post, juvenis ille reversus ab Anglia, quo secesserat, nemine de ipso hoc suspicante, ad pedes Reymundi macilentus et miser se prostrauit, de scelere perpetrato et sa- tisfactionem offerens, et veniam querens. Confessus est etiam palam et publice se tantau à cruce persecutionem perpessum esse, nt post perjurium, semper ei in collo gravi cum pondere jacuisse videretur, ita ut nec postmodum dormire, nec requiem ullam habere potuisset. His igitur aliis- que virtutibus et signis variis in primo nostrorum adventu, crux ubique vene- randa, se venerabilem hic exhibuit.”

^d Giraldus Cambr., in recording the fu- neral of Strongbow, says: “Corpus co- mitis Dubliniae in Ecclesia Sanctæ Trinitatis in ipso reverenda Crucis pros- pectu, procurante Laurentio sedis ejusdem Archipræsule, celebratis solenniter exequiis, est cumulatum.” Hib. Expugn. lib. ii. c. xiv. p. 792.

The BACULUS JHESU, “quem angelus beato Patricio conferebat,” stands next on the list, and is of still greater celebrity. St. Bernard mentions it in his life of St. Malachy, as one of those insignia of the see of Armagh, which were popularly believed to confer upon the possessor a title to be regarded and obeyed as the successor of St. Patrick; so that some who had no other claim to the Primacy than the power or fraud which gave them possession of these reliques, were received by the more ignorant of the people as the true bishops. Speaking of Nigellus, the intruding prelate, who was finally driven out by St. Malachy about the year 1134, St. Bernard says :

“ Porro Nigellus videns sibi imminere fugam, tulit secum insignia quædam sedis illius, textum scilicet Evangeliorum, qui fuit beati Patricii, baculumque auro tectum, et gemmis pretiosissimis adornatum, quem nominant baculum Jesu, eo quod ipse Dominus (ut fert opinio) eum suis manibus temerit, atque formaverit. Et haec summæ dignitatis et venerationis in gente illa. Nempe notissima sunt celeberrimaque in populis, atque in ea reverentia apud omnes, ut qui illa habere visus fuerit, ipsum habeat episcopum populus stultus et insipiens^d. ”

Thus it appears, that the Baculus, in St. Bernard’s time, was adorned with gold and precious stones. It was therefore most probably a crozier (still always called bacall, in Irish^e), and having been held in such veneration in the twelfth century, there is no reason to doubt its great antiquity. It is mentioned also by Giraldus Cambrensis, who tells us, that in his time it was removed by the English, perhaps for greater security, from Armagh to Dublin^f:

“ Inter

^e Baculus Pastoralis was the usual name given to a crozier all over Europe in the middle ages; see Du Cange in voce. That the Baculus Jesu was a crozier is evident from the circumstance recorded Vit. Trip. part. iii. c. 30.

^f Armagh was burned in 1178, with its churches and sanctuaries. (Colgan, from

“Inter universos Hiberniae baculos,” he says, “ligneæque naturæ Sanctorum reliquias, virtuosus ille et famosus (quem baculum Jesu vocant) non immerito primus et præcipuus esse videtur. Per quem, vulgari opinione, Sanctus Patricius venenosos ab insula vermes ejecit. Cujus siquidem tam incertus est ortus, quam certissima virtus. Nostris autem temporibus et nostrorum opera, nobilis thesaurus ab Armachia Dubliniam est translatus^{g.}”

Two different accounts of the manner in which this relic became the property of the prior and convent of the holy Trinity, are to be found in the existing records of the cathedral. The first agrees with the statement of Giraldus, that the baculus was translated by the English from Armagh to Dublin, and is contained in the following entry, in a hand of the early part of the sixteenth century, in the Black Book of Christ Church, fol. 214, a:

“Memorandum quod Anno Domini M°. C. octuagesimo, filius Aldelmi, et tam milone quoque goganenti quam Stephani per conquestum baculum virtuosissimum quem baculum Jhū vocant, et Sanctus Patricius semper in manu portavit, et altare lapideum, ab Armachia Ecclesie Sancte Trinitatis Dublin transferre curaverunt, et restant in Ecclesia prædicta. Et data fuerunt in tempore domini Laurencii Archiepiscopi Dublin^{h.}”

This statement is confirmed by another passage of Giraldus Cambrensis, where he says of William Fitz-Adelm, or Aldelm, above-mentioned: “nihil egregium in Hibernia gessit, praeter hoc solum quod

^g Topogr. Hib. part iii. c. xxxiv. For the story of St. Patrick banishing the reptiles with the staff of Jesus, see Jocelin, e. 170 (Tr. Th. p. 102).

^h A fac simile of this passage has been given in the 2nd Report of the Irish Record Commission. Suppl. Plate xiii. No. 6. The words “et tam milone quoque goganenti quam Stephani,” are, perhaps, intended to represent the names of Milo de Cogan and Robert Fit-Stephens; and seem taken from Cambrensis Hib. Exp. l. ii. c. 18, who says: “Revocato interim in Angliam Aldelmi filio, et tam Milone quoque Coganensi quam Stephanide. &c.” The Record Commissioners have altogether omitted these words in their fac simile.

quod baculum virtuosissimum, quem baculum Jesu vocant, ab Armachia, Dubliniam transferri procuravit." And the event is also recorded under the year 1180, in the manuscript annals of Inisfallen, in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin :

"Daċall Paořag oo ħpreż o Apro-Maċa go h-Orġe-cluż le h-William Mac Cœlm."

"The staff of Patrick was brought from Armagh to Dublin by William Fitz-Adelm."

And Ware, in his Annals of Ireland, has adopted the same statement.

The other account, therefore, must be rejected as fabulous : although it is to be found in the White Book of Christ Church (fol. 56, b), and in Archbishop Alan's Register^j. It represents the baculus as having been given to the Cathedral by Strongbowe himself : and seems to say, that it was taken, not from Armagh, but from Ballibogħall, a parish church now in ruins, in the county of Dublin, four miles from Swords, which is supposed to have derived its name from the possession of some crozier, or baculus, of St. Patrick^k. This account is as follows :

"Quando

ⁱ Hib. Expugn. lib. ii. c. xviii. For an account of Fitz-Adelm, see Archdall's edit. of Lodge's Peerage of Ireland, art. De Burgh, Earl of Clanrickarde, vol. i. p. 118.

^j P. 226 of the transcript preserved in the Library of Trinity College : fol. 58, b, of the original.

^k Ware (Bishops, p. 61) tells us, that about 1180, the town of Ballybogħal was given to the Abbey of St. Mary, near Dublin, by Gilbert O'Caran, Archbishop of Armagh : and Archdall (on the authority of Ware's manuscripts) states, that in the year 1200, Thomas O'Connor, Primate of Armagh, granted to the Abbey of St. Mary "the lands of St. Patrick, called Ballybachel;" Monast. Hib. p. 135; although just before (p. 134) he had quoted a charter of Henry II., from Dugdale's Mon. Ang. vol. i. p. 783, by which it appears, that the Abbey was in possession of the lands of Ballibachel as early as 1174.—Lanigan doubts whether Ballibogħall could have had its name from the celebrated staff of Jesus. Eccl. Hist. vol. iv. p. 249, 2nd ed. But St. Patrick appears to have left more than one staff. In the list of reliques preserved in the monastery of St. Alban's are mentioned, reliques "De Sancto Patricio, et baculis ejusdem sancti." Dugdale's Monasticon (by Caley, Ellis, and Bandinel), vol. ii. p. 235.

“Quando comes Ricardus Strangbowe cepit Ballibaghille per conquestum et Robertus filius Stephani cum eo, tunc ibi manebat vir prepotens nomine Macgoghdane, et predictus Macgoghdane acriter pugnabat contra comitem bene per iiiij. dies et occidit plures de gente comitis. Deinde comes suscepit eum et fecit eum decollari. In illo die Dominus comes per consilium et assensum dicti Roberti filii Stephani dedit illum locum cum omnibus sibi pertinentibus ecclesie Cath. Sancte Trinitatis Dublin. et sancte crueis, et dedit Portraglim, Kynsali, una cum baculo Jhs qui vocatur baculus Sancti Patricii quem semper solebat portare in manu sua, et data fuerunt omnia ista tempore domini Laurencii Archiepiscopi Dublin. Anno Domini Millesimo Centesimo octagesimo.”

This account, it will be observed, assigns the same date to the translation of the baculus as the former had done, namely, A.D. 1180; and thus betrays a manifest inconsistency; for Strongbowe died in June, 1176¹.

The lives of St. Patrick all speak of this celebrated staff, or erozier. They tell us that he received it from a hermit in an island of the Tyrrhene sea, to whom it had been given by our Saviour Himself, with an injunction to deliver it to Patrick, when he should arrive at the island. Colgan has collected all the authorities^m; but it must suffice to quote here the story as it is given in the Tripartite Life of the saint :

“S. igitur Patricius accepta sui sancti præceptoris [scil. S. Germani] benedictione, cum novem sociis conseedit navem, navigavitque per mare Tyrrhenum, donec divina preordinatione pervenerit ad quandam insulam, ubi in quadam æde, quasi nova, reperit florentis ætatis conjuges cum quadam vetula decrepita,

¹ Hanmer. Grace. Dr. Lanigan doubts whether the translation of the staff ought to be attributed to Fitz-Adelm, who never got possession of Armagh; he supposes it, therefore, more probable that the staff was taken to Dublin in 1184, “when Philip de Worcester entered Armagh with a great army, and extorted there much money and

que non nisi rependo et manuum innisa adminiculo, incedere potuit : cuius senio confectæ ætati, et imbecillitati cum vir sanctus condoleret, didicit a patre-familias viro juvene et robusto, illam suam esse ex filia neptem, ejusque matrem longe magis decrepitam et debiliorem adhuc vivere. Et cum vir sanctus tantæ novitatis causam inquireret ; respondit se suamque uxorem operibus misericordiæ jugiter intentos fuisse : eorumque ædes et mensam, viatoribus et peregrinis victualia vel hospitium pro Christi nomine petentibus semper patuisse. Unde, inquit, quadam vice Christum Salvatorem sub specie peregrini, baculum in manu gestantis, hospitio collegimus, omnique qua potius humanitate et charitatis officiis exceperimus, qui antequam discederet, nobis nostroque domicio benedixit, dicens se Christum Dominum esse : cuius benedictio nos in pristinæ ætatis flore continuo retinet : sed cum soboles nostra nondum nata, non meruerit eadem benedictione ditari, hinc communi carnis legi subiecta, annis crescentibus, senio conficitur. Reliquit etiam nobis baculum quem in manu gestabat, præcipiens, ut illum peregrino cuidam, hue post tempora multa transituro, et Hibernicam gentem conversuro asservemus. Unde et eundem baculum a Domino JESU tibi relictum, tuæ sanitati offerimus. Sed Patricius noluit illum baculum acceptare, nisi ab ipso Domino JESU suam donationem confirmante illum denuo reciperet.

“ Postquam autem ibi moram trium dierum contraxisset, venit ad vicinum montem Hermon appellatum, in quo indulgentissima dignatione placuit Christo ei apparere ; qui et præcepit ut ad gentis Hibernicæ conversionem se accingeret : eique ibi, tanquam alteri Moysi, tradidit jam laudatum baculum, qui passim baculus JESU nuncupatur : quem et prædictum futurum in lubrico baculum, in adversitate præsidium, et contra obstinatiam, et ad conversionem occidentalis Ægypti ad instar virgæ Moysis magnorum prodigiorum futurum operatorem mirificum : uti et esse probavit eventus. Virgæ enim Dei in manu primi Moysis fuit hic baculus JESU in manu secundi Moysis in multis persimilis. Sicut enim illa virga in manu Moysis coram Pharaone rege obstinatissimo Ægypti, ejusque Magis aliquando in colubrum vertebatur, et mox in propriam naturam redibat ; dracones a Magis formatos in flexibilium virgarum mutabat formas, grandinem, tonitrua, fulmina, tenebras aliasque multas inducebat et abigebat plagas, antequam Pharaonem fleetere potuerit ad Israelitici populi dimissionem ex Ægyptiaca servitute ; ita baculus hic JESU in manu secundi Moysis coram altero Pharaone, obstinatissimo nempe Leogario Hibernicæ rego, ejusque

cjusque Magis et populis in superstitionibus et idololatria longe pertinacibus, aliquando colubri indebat naturam, sua mirifica vi vindicandi, maleficis et idololatris mortem et exitium inferendo; saepe, quos Magi et aruspices suarum ineantationum et maleficiorum veneno intoxiceabant, et quasi in dracones et serpentes vertebant, sua mirifica virtute sanabat, et in mites homines, quasi flexibiles convertebat virgas; nunc nivibus in medio aestu obduecbat campos, nunc sudo eculo obsfundebat tonitrua et fulmina; nunc dies tenebris et lumine noctes adspargebat, aliasque innumeras poenas et plagas infligebat, et ab inflictis sanabat, antequam induratum in malo cor Leogarii regis potuerit inclinare ad permittendam Evangelii predicationem, populique Hibernici e servitute Aegyptiaca et diaboli potestate eductionem: ut in sequenti narrationis decursu luculententer patebit^{n.}

Frequent notices of the Baculus JESU are to be found in Irish history. In the ancient Irish poem by St. Fiech, which Colgan has published as the first life of St. Patrick, mention is made of St. Tassach, from whom the saint received the holy viaticum on his death bed. Tassach was of Rathcolptha, now Raholp, near Down, and is said in some of the lives to have been a bishop when he administered the communion to the dying Patrick^o: he was skilled in the art of a goldsmith^p; and in the ancient notes to Fiech's Hymn it is particularly stated, that the Baculus JESU was by him first adorned with a precious covering: "Thassachus fuit faber aerarius S. Patricii. Fuit primus qui baculum JESU pretioso tegumento obcelavit. Ecclesia ipsius est Rath-Colptha juxta Dunum ad Orientem^q."

ⁿ Vit. Trip. lib. i. c. 36, 37. Jocelin tells us, that the name of the hermit, whose youth was so miraculously preserved, and from whom St. Patrick received the staff, was Justus: see also the Office of St. Patrick, lect. 5. Colgan, Tr. Th. p. 191.

^o Vit. 3^{ta}, c. 89. Vit. 5^{ta}. seu Probi, lib. ii. c. 35. Tripart. lib. ii. c. 71. He is also called a bishop in the Martyrology of ^p Vit. Tripart. part iii. c. 100. In part ii. c. 39, Assicus, first Bishop of Elphin, is called "faber aeris S. Patricii." One can hardly help suspecting that Assicus and Thassachus were one and the same: especially as the former is not mentioned in the ancient Martyrology of Aengus.

^q Colgan, Tr. Th. p. 6.

Two obscure notices of the Baculus are to be found in the Annals of Tighernach. The first of these is entered under the year 1027, in the following words, bacall lpa da r̄apuḡað, which Dr. O'Conor renders: “Baculum Jesu sacrilege raptum^r.” And in the year 1030, we have a record of another similar act of sacrilege:

“Bacall lppa da r̄apuḡað, um t̄ri cap- tib, agur po m̄arbað a c̄mo t̄ri la in þep po r̄apuḡað.”

“The Baculus Jesu was profaned in a matter relating to three horses, and the profaner was killed three days after^s.”

In the Annals of the Four Masters, at the year 1080, there is the following mention of this relic:

“Sloigearó la Torphoebla ñam-Óriam go h-Æcliað, agur go riopa Mohe, go o-tamic Maoileachlau in a theacá la bacall lpa, agur la Comarba Þuorairg, agur la cleircib Munster.”

“A hostile expedition undertaken by Torlogh O'Brian to Dublin, and to Meath, when Maoileachlau came into his tent, with the baculus Jesu, and with the successor of Patrick, and with the clergy of Munster.”

Again in the same Annals, at the year 1143, the Baculus Jesu is mentioned, ^r Rer. Hib. Script. vol. ii. p. 279.

^s Dr. O'Conor takes the word r̄apuḡað in both these notices to signify, that the baculus was sacrilegiously stolen. But the word does not necessarily signify stealing. Cill do r̄apuḡað means to profane a church by any act of violence, such as shedding human blood within it, or taking out of it one who had fled there for sanctuary. See Annal. IV. Mag. anno 1224, where we read: “Seachnasach, son of Giolla na naomh O'Shaughnessy, was slain by the Clann Cuilen [Mac Namara], and the Bachall mor [large crozier] of St. Colman of Kilmacduagh (do r̄apuḡað) was profaned by the deed.” Hence, when the word is applied to such reliques as the Baculus Jesu, it implies that the vow made before them, or the covenant entered into in their presence, was broken or violated, or that they were treated with some indignity. The words of Tighernach are extremely obscure. In the second instance, especially, it does not appear what was done to the horses: they may have been stolen from some place which was sacred in consequence of the presence of the baculus, or from the keeper of the baculus, whose property was considered sacred; or else, perhaps, some contract relating to three horses, which was made in presence of the baculus, was violated.

mentioned, amongst other relics, as having been called in to witness a treaty of peace between two chieftains. The words of the annalist are as follows :

“ Μυριέναχ ον Διοβέλιος απ την παρο- εκφυς, τηγερνα Κοναέτ, αγυρ α τοιρίδ, κομάρβα Ραορινος αγυρ βασιλ Ιορα, βοβαν Καιοιμγιν, πο βασιρ τρα γιν υλε, ειττηρ Τοιρρόελβας αγυρ Μυρέαδ,

“ Muiredhach O'Dubhlthaigh, the Archbishop [of Tuam], the Lord of Connacht, and his chieftains, the successor of Patrick, and the baculus Jesu, the successor of Fechin [i. e. the Abbot of Fore], and the bell of Fechin, and the Boban of Caoimhgin [Kevin], all these were pledges between Tordhelbhach [O'Conor, King of Connacht] and Murchadh [O'Maoileachluinn, King of Meath], &c.”

In Anglo-Irish history also, the staff of Patrick is frequently mentioned. Thus, Campion in his “ Historie of Ireland,” makes O'Kelly, A. D. 1316, swear by St. Patrick's staff, in his attempt to seduce one of Sir Richard Birmingham's followers from his allegiance : “ But come and serve me at my request, and I promise thee by St. Patrick's stafe, to make thee a lord in Connaght, of more ground than thy master hath in Ireland^s. ” In the bag marked “ Ireland,” in the Chapter-house, Westminster Abbey, there is a paper, No. 53, containing “ an examination of Sir Gerald Mackshayne, Knight,” sworn 19th March, 1529, “ upon the Holie Masebooke, and the great relike of Erlonde, called Baculum Christi, in presence of the Kynges Deputie, Chancellour, Tresoror, and Justice^t. ”

In Archbishop Alan's Register, fol. 21, there is a confirmatory grant from John, Earl of Moreton, to John Comyn, Archbishop of Dublin, where amongst other possessions, the earl grants and confirms to him and to his successors, “ foedum militis quod assensu meo datum fuit baculo Jhesu apud Instioche^u. ”

These examples are sufficient to prove the high veneration in which this relic was held, up to the period of the Reformation, when it was publicly burned, A. D. 1538, as an instrument of superstition. This event is thus recorded by Sir James Ware in his Annals of the Reign of King Henry VIII. p. 99 :

“ Also, about the same time, among the famous images whereunto pilgrimages were designed, the statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary was burned, then kept at Trim, in the Abbey of the Canons Regular, and the gifts of the pilgrims were taken away from thence. The image of Christ crucified, in the Abbey of Ballibogun, and St. Patrick's Staff, in the Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity, at Dublin, which William, the son of Aldeline, brought from Ardmagh, and gave it as a gift to that church in the year 1180, underwent the like fate.”

A valuable manuscript volume of Annals preserved in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin^v, gives the following curious account of this destruction of images and of the staff of Patrick at the year 1538 :

“ Dealbh Muire po miophbuiligh do b'i a m-áisle a'chá Tíruiim, doar crennseoir Eí-pennuig uile le cian s'aimpír pojme rím, do fílanaigéas doill, 7 boðair, 7 bacair, 7 gac' amceir apóena, do lofcaid le Saxonéin. ^v This volume was anciently lettered Tighernaci Continuatio, and in a paper read before the Royal Irish Academy, by the writer of these remarks, was supposed to have been the same as the Annals of Kilronan, quoted by the Four Masters. This opinion he has since found some reason to doubt, and therefore has withheld that paper from publication, until further research should enable him to speak more decidedly. It seems certain, however, that these Annals, whether they be the Annals of Kilronan or not, were in the hands of the Four Masters, and made use of by them in the compilation of their great work.

which was in the hand of Christ himself, was burned by the Saxons in like manner. And not only that, but there was not a holy cross, nor an image of Mary, nor other celebrated image in Ireland over which their power had reached, that they did not burn. Nor was there one of the seven orders which came under their power that they did not ruin. And the Pope, and the Church in the East, and at home, was excommunicating the Saxons on that account, and they not paying any heed or attention unto that, &c. And I am not certain whether it was not in the above year that these relics were burned.”

The Four Masters have also recorded the burning of the Baculus JESU, in the following passage, which is here quoted at length, as a curious specimen of the light in which the Reformation was regarded by a native Irish writer of the reign of Charles the First :

“A.D. 1537. A heresy and a new error broke out in England, the effects of pride, vain-glory, avarice, sensual desire, and the prevalence of a variety of scientific and philosophical speculations, so that the people of England went into opposition to the Pope and to Rome. At the same time they followed a variety of opinions, and the old Law of Moses, after the manner of the Jewish people, and they gave the title of head of the Church of God, during his reign, to the king. There were enacted by the king and council new laws and statutes after their own will. They ruined the orders who were permitted to hold worldly possessions, viz., monks, canons, nuns, and brethren of the Cross; and the four mendicant orders, viz., the Minor order, the Preachers, Carmelites, and Augustinians. The possessions and livings of all these were taken up for the king. They broke the monasteries. They sold their roofs and bells, so that there was not a monastery from Arann of the Saints to the leelian Sea, that was not broken and shattered, except only a few in Ireland, which escaped the notice and attention of the English. They further burned and broke the famous images, shrines, and reliques of Ireland and England. After that they burned in like manner the celebrated image of Mary, which was at Ath-Truim, which used to perform wonders and miracles, which used to heal the blind, the deaf, the lame, and the sufferers from all diseases; and the Staff of Jesus which was in Dublin, performing miracles from the time of Patrick down to that time, and which was in the hand of Christ while he was among men. They also made archbishops and sub-bishops for themselves; and although great was the persecution of the Roman Emperors against the Church, it is not probable that so great a persecution as this ever came, even from Rome hither. So that it is impossible to tell or narrate its description, unless it should be told by him who saw it^{w.}"

^{w.} There seems some reason to doubt whether the date of 1538, assigned to the destruction of the images, &c. in the Irish annals, is quite correct: for in the State Papers (vol. iii. p. 35) there is a letter from Archbishop Browne (the great promoter

To complete the history of the Baculus, the following document, recording its miraculous preservation in the year 1461, is here given from the Black Book of Christ Church, fol. 214, a:

“ Memorandum, quod Anno Domini M^o.cccclxj, in vigilia Sancte Margarete virginis corruit magna fenestra in parte orientali ecclesie Sancte Trinitatis Dublin, ex grandi tempestate quae ea nocte fieri contingebat. He says: “Theise shalbe to advertise you, for that I endevor my self, and also cause others of my clergie, to preache the Gospell of Christe, and to sett forthe the Kinges causes, there goithe a commen brewte amonges the Yrish men, that I intende to ploke downe Our Lady of Tryme, with other placees of pilgramages, as the Holy Crosse, and souch like; which in deade I never attempted, although my conscience wolde right well serve me to oppresse souche ydolles.” Another letter, dated 10th August in the same year, from Thos. Allen to Cromwell, speaks of the image of Trim as still standing, “They thre” [viz. Abp. Brown, Mr. Treasurer, and the Master of the Rolls] “wold not come in the chapell, where the Idoll of Trym stode, to thintent they wold not occasiou the people; notwithstanding, my Lord Deputie, veray devoutly kneeling befor Hir, hard thre or fower masses.” Ibid. p. 103.

It is not easy to reconcile these statements with the Aunalists; especially as it is evident from all the State Papers of the time, that the Lord Deputy, Lord Leonard Grey, was far from being favourable to the Reformation. On the 5th of April, 1538, Agard wrote to Cromwell: “For excepte it be the Archebyschope of Dublin, whiche dothe here in preaching sett forthe Godes Worde, with dew obeyence to ther Prynce, and my good Lorde Butler, the Master of the Rolles, M^r Thezaurer, and on or 2 now, whiche are of smalle reputacions, here is ellys noon, from the hyeste, maye abyde the heryng of hitt, spirituall, as they call them, nor temperall; and in espechiall, they that here rewle all, that be the temperall laweers, which have the Kinges fee.” State Papers, vol. ii. part iii. p. 570.

The next relic described in the catalogue is the SUPERALTARE MARMOREUM SANCTI PATRICII "super quo leprosus a Britania ad Hiberniam miraculose natando erat translatus." This Superaltare was evidently a portable altar, or slab of marble, to be laid upon an un-consecrated altar, whenever it was necessary to celebrate in a journey, or when access to a consecrated place could not be obtained^y. The miracle ^x A copy of this charter is preserved, fol. 32, b, of the Black Book.

^y Du Cange quotes a synod of Exeter in 1287, which enacts: "Nec Missæ nisi in altaris et superaltaris consecratis aliqualiter celebrentur." Dict. in roce. Superaltaria are frequently found in the inventories of English churches, and were often adorned with gems and gold. See, for example, the inventory of York Minister, Dugdale, tom. iii. p. 174. (Savoy, 1673). "Item unum superaltare pretiosum de jaspide, ornatum in circumferentiis cum argento et auro ac lapidibus pretiosis operis subtilis.

"Item unum superaltare de rubeo jaspide ornata in circumferentiis, cum capro deaurato.

"Item duo superaltaria de rubeo marmore, ornata cum argento, quorum unum stat super quatuor pedes argenti, et alterum sine pedibus, super quem Sanctus Johannes celebravit quando sibi apparuit Spiritus sanctus, ut in sua legenda patet."

Du Cange quotes other instances from the inventory of St. Paul's, London, and miracle of the leper alluded to in the description of it, is thus recorded in the Tripartite Life of St. Patrick, part i. c. 40.

“ S. ergo Patrieius valedieens Domino Apostolico, suscepto itinere versus Hiberniam, venit ad fines Britanniæ; ubi in Hiberniam trajecturus, cum vellet navem condescendere, venit ad eum quidem leprosus obseerans et obtestans in nomine Jesu Christi, quatenus vellet ipsum in navem assumere, et in Hiberniam transvehere. Vir Dei cum audiret nomen Salvatoris allegatum, visceribus charitatis motus, ejus precibus annuit, petiitque ut in navem admitteretur. Sed nautæ et ipsius sancti viri socii resistebant, allegantes navem esse nimis onustam, et personam talem fore omnibus horro. Sed vir sanctus, confidens in nota Domi [sic] sui clementia, altare lapideum quod a Domino Papa consecratum, Roma secum attulerat, et super quod sacrosancta mysteria celebrare consueverat, projecit in mare, mandans, ut super illud sedeat leprosus. Sed ecce rem prodigo uno vel altero plenam! tabula enim illa lapidea naturâ invitâ non solum undis supernatat, insidentemque hominem sustinet, sed navem comittatur, parique cursu cum ea concertat, et collateraliter adhæret, donee in eodem portu cum Patricio et nautis, Deum in suis mirificis prodigijs magnificantibus, in Hibernia appulerit.”

It would seem from the following passage in the same Life of St. Patrick, that this relic was originally preserved in the church then concludes: “Ex quibus omnibus confici videtur superaltare idem esse quod tabula itineraria seu altare portatile, quod altari non dedicato superponatur.” In the Capitula Hincmarii Remensis, anno 12^{mo} episcopatus superaddita, c. iii. it is enacted: “Ut nullus Missam celebret in altari non consecrato, vel sine tabula ab episcopo consecrata.” Opp. tom. i. p. 732. Paris, 1645. See also the constitutions of John Comyn, Archbishop of Dublin, made in 1186; of which Harris has given an abstract (Ware's Bishops, p. 316). The first, he says, “Prohibits priests from celebrating mass on a wooden table, according to the usage of Ireland; and enjoins, that in all monasteries, and baptismal churches, altars should be made of stone; and if a stone of sufficient size to cover the whole surface of the altar cannot be had, that in such case a square, entire, and polished stone be fixed in the middle of the altar, &c.”

of Domnach Padruic, now Donoughpatrick, about four miles N. W. from Navan, in the County of Meath :

“ Posthæc sanctus Antistes reflexit iter versus Temoriam [Tara], et dum transiret per Domnach Padruic, Conallum Principem unice dilectum, benedictione sua muniendo revisit; et in ecclesia prædicta, quasi quoddam memoriale et pignus suæ specialis dilectionis, reliquit altare suum portatile, ob signorum mirificam virtutem summe tunc et postea venerabile. Sed cum inde pergens suscepimus continuaret iter, lapis ille altaris, nemine portante, per aera motus, eum secutus est ad usque locum ubi nunc erux apud molendinum juxta fluvium posita est. Lapideum autem illum portatile, sive potius volatilem, retulit collocavitque vir sanctus fixum, et ab inde importabilem reliquit in ecclesia de Domnach Padruic, apud quosdam e discipulis. Et prædicens multas virtutes et signa per eam in isto loco dispensante lapide angulari Christo Jesu fore patranda, præmonuit ut sub dierum vitae breviandorum intermissione nemo eum inde moveat, vel confluentibus ad ejus tutelare asylum, violentiam vel injuriam inferat.”

Notwithstanding this, however, it appears that the “ altare portable” found its way afterwards to Armagh, if it be true that it was taken from thence (according to the authorities already quoted) by William Fitz-Aldehn, and deposited in Christ Church, Dublin. Of its subsequent history nothing is known. No mention is made of it in the account of the destruction of the charters and reliquies by the fall of the east window in 1461^b.

In the Glastonbury version of the Legend of St. Patrick, published by Dugdale, Monast. vol. i. p. 11, the saint is made to cross the sea himself from Ireland to Cornwall on the superaltare. “ Ab eo [Coelstino] Patricius Hiberniam, in opus evangelii missus, anno Domini quadragesimo vicesimo quinto, datus est illis gentibus Doctor et Apostolus. The only other Irish relics in the Christ Church Catalogue, are those of St. Brandon; some bones of St. Patrick and of St. Bridgit: and “plures reliquie de sancto Laurencio archiepiscopo,” i.e., of St. Laurence O’Toole, Archbishop of Dublin.

The remaining reliques, as they are not specially connected with Irish history, do not call for any particular notice. Similar reliques may be found in all similar inventories; of which numerous instances may be seen in the lists remaining among the records of the English monasteries, published by Dugdale in the Monasticon Anglicanum.

Before quitting the subject of the reliques of Christ Church, the two following documents, never before published, may be here inserted. Both relate to the protection of pilgrims visiting the reliques and sacred images of the Cathedral: and they prove, that even then, at the close of the fifteenth century, some of the feelings, which afterwards found vent at the Reformation, had begun to shew themselves. The first is the exemplification of an Act of Parliament, made in 1493 (9 Henr. VII.), in a Parliament held in Dublin, before Walter [Fitz-symon], Archbisshop of Dublin, Deputy of Jaspar, Duke of Bedford, Lord Lieutenant^c.

^f The words within brackets are in a recent hand.

II. The next page (fol. 2, b) of the manuscript was originally blank, and contains now, only the following note, in the handwriting of Archbishop Ussher :

“ Mortilogium et Martyrologium Ecclesiae Cathedralis
S. Trinitatis Dublin.

[^{} Sic appellant librū obituū, seu defunctorū, seu anniversariorū :
qui confratrum sc. et potissimum benefactorum dies anniversarios continet.]”

The authority of this note has been followed in the title-page of the present publication.

III. Next follow (fol. 3-48 of the manuscript) the Obits, which will be found pp. 5-59 of the present work. The entries in this part of the volume are of various ages and hands, the oldest being of the fifteenth, and the latest of the sixteenth century. There are four days on each page of the manuscript, at equal intervals, the intervening spaces having been left for subsequent entries ; these spaces, many of which are now filled up, are something more than two inches in length, ruled generally in twelve lines, between the commencements of each day. The golden numbers, Sunday letters, and days of the month, are in a different ink, and in a more regular and careful hand than any of the obituary notices. Many of the obits are evidently copied from some older document of the same kind ; for example, the entry on the first of January is all in a hand, or rather in two hands (for the last obit is evidently later than the rest), of the fifteenth century ; and yet it contains the obit of Malachy, Bishop of Kildare, who died in the year 1176. A similar instance will be found at the 12th of August, where we have, also in a hand of the fifteenth century, the obit of the Prior Gervasius, who died in 1177. See also 2 Non. Maii, where the obits of Donatus, the first Bishop of Dublin, who died in 1074, and of Fulco, Archbishop of Dublin, who died in 1271, are entered in a hand of the same century. And innumerable other instances might be given.

It is evident, therefore, that this book was prepared for use, from some older, and probably less regular register of the same kind: the ancient obits being all entered in their proper places, and room left for fresh entries to be made as occasion might require.

To render intelligible this part of the volume, it will be necessary to remind the reader, that the object of the obituary notices which it contains was not so much to record the death of the individual so commemorated, as to mark the day of the month on which his name was annually remembered, and prayers offered up on his behalf in the devotions of the convent^g. It will be observed, that many of the names are distinguished as “frater (or soror) nostre congregacionis;” such parties having received letters of fraternity, which admitted them to a participation in the prayers, the alms, and suffrages of the monks^h. Very often an individual is described as “Conversus noster,” i.e., a lay brother of the monasteryⁱ: and sometimes the term

^g See Du Cange, who thus defines the word OBITUS: “(1.) Anniversarium, dies obitus quotannis recurrens, officium ecclesiastium: Gallis vulgo, obit. (2.) Alia, ut videtur, notione, scilicet annum vel perpetuum pro defuncto sacrificium.” See also Nares’s Glossary, in vœc. Obit, who quotes from Warner’s Alb. Engl. b. iii. p. 84:

“ My-selfe, my trutchie friends, will with my dearest blood,

Keep obite to your happie ghostes.”

And from the Death of Rob. E. of Hunt.
I. i.:

“ Will not my bitter bannings and sad plaints,

To cause thee keep an obit for their soules,
And dwell one month with the Antipodes.”

^h See Du Cange, Glossar. in voce Fraternitas, 5; where he has given examples of letters of fraternity: “Fraternitas (he says) de laicis dicitur, qui in participatiōnem orationum suffragiorum et beneficiorum monachorum, ab iis admittebantur.” See also ibid. Beneficium, 2.

ⁱ “Conversi, in Monasteriis, dicuntur laici Monachi, laicis exercitiis et monachorum obsequiis addicti, vulgo Freres-conversi.” Du Cange, sub v. Conversio.

“canonicus ad succurrendum,” or “frater noster ad succurrendum,” occurs^j, denoting one who had assumed the religious habit on his death-bed^k.

It is further to be observed, that the regular Calendar (pp. 5–56) contains the names of those whose obits were celebrated on the same fixed day in every year. It is followed (p. 57) by a list of those whose annual commemorations were celebrated on Sundays, or on days depending on the moveable feasts, in a more solemn manner, with a special mass, “Cum campanis pulsatis et luminibus circa eos luminatis, &c.”

Sometimes the same individual was commemorated both in the ordinary series of obits, and in the more solemn way with bells and candles, and a mass for the dead. This was at all events the case with John Savage, Mayor of Dublin, who is said (p. 59) to have died 5 Id. Sept. 1499: his ordinary obit, however, was fixed for the 2 Non. Sept. (see p. 40), and his more solemn exequies, in conjunction with his wife Jenet Phillip, and Richard Fyche, for the Sunday next following the Feast of the Nativity of the blessed Virgin Mary. The ordinary obit of Jenet Phillip also, who died in the year 1495, was celebrated on the 5 Kal. Oct. (p. 43), and that of Richard Fyche, who died 1482, on the 8 Kal. Jul. (p. 29).

It appears from these instances, that the more solemn exequies were performed in honour of those who had made gifts of considerable value to the convent. Thus, John Savage, the Mayor of Dublin above mentioned, gave a set of vestments of red velvet^l, with a cope cope to match (p. 59). His wife, Jenet Phillip, bequeathed "plura bona" (p. 43): and Richard Fyche gave £3 3*s.* 4*d.* to the prior and convent, 10 marks to the buildings of the church, erected a pulpit, and conferred many other benefits on the society, "multa alia bona nobis fecit" (p. 29).

We have also an entry (p. 59) stating that the prior and convent were bound to celebrate in a solemn manner, and at their own expense, the obit of John Morwylle, citizen of Dublin, on the Sunday next following the day of his death; and at other convenient times to pray for his soul and for the souls of his ancestors: in consideration of his having bequeathed for the use of the high altar, a good gilt chalice, besides having left money by which his executors paid for the glazing of the great west window, "magnam gabulam, vocatam Westgabyll^{m.}" This was probably the same John Morwyle, whose ordinary obit was celebrated 2 Kal. Aug., who died in 1438, and gave to the convent a house in St. Michael's lane (p. 34).

It is plain also, from the foregoing examples, that the day of the obit was not always or necessarily the same as the day of the death

deacon of Kildare (2nd May, p. 23), who is recorded to have bequeathed to the convent fourteen pounds of silver, "ad emendam unam capam de blodio velveto," in the year 1510.

^m An instance of the destruction of the great west window by a storm in 1461, has already been quoted (see p. xix). Another similar event is recorded in the Proctor's accounts of Sir Peter Lewis, chantor of Christ Church, preserved among the manuscripts of Trinity College, Dublin (E. 3, 21). Under the date of "Firyday last of Aug." 1565, he has the following memorandum: "Not. this day I made a bargain wth. an Englyse boy, a glayssor for the chapter house, that the doggs had brocken. A great storne had brocken the great gabule of the hyge awter iii. panis, and had cast doun Plunckets armys, and he chaffyd at hit, and was very angry for hit, Mr. Justes Pluncket, and ther was iiij. wyndows the pany of glass was broken and loussyd wth. the great wynds and stormes of this yer." The "bargain" was for xxv*s.* viij*½d.* which he tells us "makes iris," i. e., in Irish money, "xxxv*s.* v*d.* ob."

of the individual whose memory was thus celebrated. And other cases of the same kind may be pointed out. Thus the obit of Robert Sutton, Dean of St. Patrick's, was kept on the 5th of April; see p. 19. But that he died on the 1st of April, is evident from the following inscription on a brass in St. Patrick's Cathedral :

“ Orate pro anima Magistri Roberti Sutton hujus Ecclesie Cathedralis non immerito decani, qui hujus nostre mortalitatis diem clausit extremum ; An^o. dominice incarnationis Millesimo Quingentesimo, xxvij^o. ac mensis Aprilis die primo, et sepultus est sub hoc magno marmoreo lapide, coram diui Patricii ymagine in secundo gradu a summo altari situato. Cuius anime propicietur deus. AMEN.”

Sometimes the keeping of the obit by the abbot and convent was made matter of regular purchase and stipulation, and was granted by deed, like any other legal bargain. Thus, in a volume, formerly belonging to the Abbey of St. Thomas the Martyr, Dublin (containing the Martyrology, the Rule of St. Augustine, and other ecclesiastical tractsⁿ), there is the following curious deed, on the lower margin of fol. 3, a, of the Calendar, on the page containing the month of May:

“ Memorandum quod conventio facta vi^o. die Julij Anno domini Millesimo cccc^o. lxxvij^o. inter Johannem abbatem et conventum monasterii Sancti Thome martyris iuxta Dubliniam ex vna parte, et Walterum abbatem beate Marie Virginis iuxta Dublin, Philippum Bermengham, et Jacobum Aylmer, ex parte altera, testatur quod predicti Johannes et conventus mon. predictis sabbato proprius sequenti festum Sancti Dunstani episcopi exequias videlicet Placebo et Dirige solenniter cum missa in crastino, perpetuis temporibus duraturis. Dat. die et A^o. supradicto."

Sometimes also there was a stipulation, that the obit was to be observed only for a limited time. Thus the following entry occurs at the 14 Kal. Aug. in the Calendar of the Martyrology of the Abbey of St. Thomas, just mentioned: where the obit is agreed to for twenty years only, in consideration of a legacy of ten mares of English money:

"Orate pro animabus Johannis Raynolds, patris matrisque ejus, qui obiit xix^o die Julii, et contulit nobis decem mareas Anglicane monete, cuius obitus solemnis observabitur per abbatem et suum conventum termino viginti annorum."

From all these considerations, therefore, it appears that it would be a great error to confound the obit in its ecclesiastical or monastic signification, with the day of the decease of the individual commemorated. Still, however, as a general rule, it is certain that the obit was in most cases celebrated on the day of the death. Thus we find on the 10 Kal. Sept. (the Eve of St. Bartholemew's Day), the obit of James Earl of Ormond, who is stated to have died "apud Arde anno Domini M^o.cccc^o.quinquagesimo ij^o." (p. 38); and that this was the day of his death, is proved by the following entry in the White Book of Christ Church (fol. 1, b):

"Anno Dni. M^o.cccc^o. ij^o. obiit strenuissimus Dominus Dominus Jacobus le Botiler, Comes Ormond, in vigilia Sancti Bartholomaei, apud Ard. et sepultus est in monasterio monacorum Beate Marie Virginis iuxta Dublin^o."

Also

^o See Grace's Annals, p. 162, where James Earl of Ormond is said to have died 22nd (read 23rd) Aug. 1467; which year the Editor has corrected to 1452.

On the same page above quoted of the White Book of Christ Church, are the following entries:

"Anno Domini M^o.cccc^o. lxxvij^o. in crastino Valentini decapitatus fuit strenuissimus dominus dominus Thomas Comes

Also the obit of Geoffrey Fyche, Dean of St. Patrick's, is celebrated on the 8th of April (see p. 20), which is expressly said to be the day of his death: and this is confirmed by the following inscription on a brass erected to his memory in St. Patrick's Cathedral:

“Orate pro anima Magistri Galfridi Fyche huius Ecclesie Cathedralis deeani, qui huius mortalitatis diem clausit extremum Anno dñice incarnationis Millesimocccc xxx^o septimo ac mensis Aprilis die octauo, et sepultus est in hac tumba, cuius anime propicietur deus, amen.”

Sometimes mistakes may be detected in the entries. A remarkable instance of this will be seen in the double entry of the obit of Donatus, the first Bishop of Dublin (i. e. first of the Ostmen), who died 1074. In the former, 2 Non. Maii (p. 23), he is called “Donatus primus episcopus Dublin, et fundator ecclesie nostre;” in the second, 9 Kal. Dee. (p. 51), he is called “Donatus primus episcopus Dublin.” In this latter entry the word primus is, perhaps, a mistake for tertius; and the obit is probably that of Donat O'Haingly, Bishop of Dublin, who died 1095^q.

Another singular mistake, not so easily explained, occurs in the obit of John Aleyn, Dean of St. Patrick's, who is said (p. 5) to have bequeathed to the Prior and Convent, “doctorem juris canonici vocatum Abbatem alias Panormitanum cum repertorio super eundem, una cum magno repertorio Petri Brixiensis episcopi.” Dean Aleyn’s will, however, is extant in Archbishop Alan’s register, from which it has been printed by Mr. Mason in his History of St. Patrick’s Cathedral: and it appears that the Dean directed his books, and the Repertorium amongst the rest, to be sold for the benefit of the hospital founded by him a short time before in St. Kevin’s-street, Dublin. The clause of the will relating to this matter is as follows:

“ Item volo et lego, quod summa sive Repertorium utriusque juris Domini Petri, quondam Episcopi Brixiensis, in duobus voluminibus, in deeenti forma, cum aliis voluminibus (carius quo poterunt) vendantur; et omnes pecunie ex preeiis ipsorum et omnium aliarum rerum mearum venalium, non datarum, nec legatarum, provenientes, post solutionem debitorum et legatorum meorum (si que super fuerint) remaneant et conserventur, et ad usum, utilitatem, necessitatem et sustentationem pauperum et infirmorum, presertim degentium in domo per me pro eis constructa et edificata, exponentur, in relevamen indigentie et succursum necessitatis corum.”

This discrepancy between the will and the record in the Book of Obits is very difficult to account for. The will is dated 12th Dec. 1505; and Aleyn, if we are to take the entry of his obit for the date of his death, deceased on the 2nd Jan. following: it seems unlikely, therefore, that in that short interval, he should have altered his original bequest, nor is it easy to conceive how the convent of Christ Church could have been deceived in such a matter. Perhaps in the

¹ Alani Regist., fol. 156. Mason, Append. Num. xii. This document has been printed by Mr. Mason with many inaccuracies. For instance, he makes Dean Aleyn speak of the church of St. Kevin, in Dyvelike, or Duleek, instead of the church of St. Kenan; and in the preamble of the will, the passage here given within brackets, which is supplied by Archbishop Alan in the margin, is wholly omitted: “ Considerans itaque quod [tanta est conditionis humanae miseria, quod ea quae videntur inesse hodie, possint reduci eras ad non esse verisimiliter. Nihil enim est certius morte, et incertius hora mortis: cum juxta sententiam Salvatoris incertum est et ineognitum [quoniam Dominus] veniet sero, &c.]” mean time he gave the books to the convent without altering his will : and that the mistake of the obituary notice is in the use of the word “legavit^s.”

The books were very probably printed books, which were at that time more highly prized than manuscripts : the Commentary on the Decretals of Nicholaus Tudeschus (commonly called Panormitanus), was printed in 1492 ; and no less than five editions of the Repertorium of Petrus De Monte, called Brixiensis from his bishopric, were printed before the close of the fifteenth century^t.

The

^s The following passage of Dean Aleyn's will, fixing the qualifications for admission into the poor-house lately founded by him, is curious, as illustrating the unhappy policy so long pursued, even in charities, towards the natives of Ireland : “Non tamen quoscunque pauperes, sed fideles catholicos, bone famie, honeste conversationis, et Anglice nationis, et precipue de natione Alynes, Barrettes, Begges, Hillis, Dillones, et Rodiers, in Midens, et Dublin, diocesibus originem trahentes, quos volo in dicta domo fore recipiendos, et pre ceteris anteferri.” This policy, however, of excluding the native Irish, is not to be deemed peculiar to Dean Aleyn ; for it was the rule established in St. Patrick's Cathedral, long before his time, to admit no native Irishman to any preferment there ; and this rule is spoken of as an ancient custom, and confirmed by Papal sanction, in the bull of Pope Leo X., A. D. 1515. In the “Compositio realis,” made between the Archbishop of Dublin and the Dean and Chapter, which is still the law of the Cathedral, this rule is thus approved of : “Denique tres consuetudines specialiter approbantur, Prior de Hibernicis, nacione, moribus, et sanguine, non admittendis in ecclesia prelibata, &c.” (Reg. Alani. fol. 127, b) ; and in the bull of Pope Leo X., the same regulation is thus authoritatively confirmed : “Item, consuetudo illa antiquitus observata, de Hibernicis, natione, moribus, et sanguine, non admittendis in Ecclesia Cathedrali Sancti Patri-ci prefata, quaeunque regia dispensatione non obstante, concordatum est quod vigeat, valeat, et invalescat, viridi observatione semper valitura, et super hoc, tam per Archicopum quam per Decanum et capitulum, diligentissime fiet inquisitio.” Mason's St. Patrick's, App. No. xiii. p. xviii. The custom was at least as old as 1367, when it was enjoined by the Statute of Kilkenny, “that no Irishman be admitted into any cathedral or collegiate church.” See Stat. of Kilk. and Mr. Har-diman's notes, p. 46, sq.

The Book of Obits is the only authority for many important dates in the history of Ireland during the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries; and has been much used by Ussher, Ware, Harris, Archdall, and others. Their references to it, however, are often erroneous, and some remarkable entries have been overlooked. For instance, it does not seem to have been noticed, that the Richard Strangewyll mentioned p. 57, whose anniversary was observed on the Sunday next after the feast of St. Peter ad Vincula, must have been Earl Strongbow, who was "Comes Strangulæ," of which Strangeuryll is evidently the corruption^u. Also, on the 4 Id. Maii (p. 24), we have the obit of "Dominus Henricus Marbrogh, frater nostre congregationis." From the title of Dominus it is evident, that the Henry Marbrogh here commemorated was a priest; and it is highly probable, that he was the same as Henry de Marlburgh, author of the Annals published by Camden and Hamner, who was vicar of Ballyscadan, now Balschadden, near Balbriggan, in the diocese of Dublin, a vicarage in the gift of the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, the tythes being inappropriate to the Treasurer of the Cathedral. There is no reason, except his name, for Ware's assertion, that Henry of Marleburgh was an Englishman^v; of English descent he was undoubtedly, but many of the name were settled about Swords, from an early period, and frequent mention of the family occurs in Alan's Registry.

It is to be hoped, therefore, that the publication of the Book of Obits, with ^u See his ordinary obit at 12 Kal. Maii (p. 21), "Ob. Richardus comes qui dedit nobis willam Hammundi." In the charter of King John, confirming to the abbot and convent all their possessions, and which the Register of Abp. Alan calls "Basis omnium," this grant is thus recited, "ex dono Ricardi comitis, Balihamund et Leasleran." Reg. Alan, fol. 148, b. Black Book of Ch. Ch. fol. 32, b.

with full indexes, may be of service to the student of Irish history. The utmost pains have been taken to make the text of this edition as correct as possible^w. The contractions of the manuscript have not been retained, but no other liberty whatsoever has been taken with the original. Even in cases where the manuscript is manifestly corrupt from the carelessness or ignorance of the scribe, it has been deemed better to retain such errors, than to venture, even where the correction is obvious, to adopt conjectural emendations. The reader, therefore, when he meets with these blunders, will understand that they are to be found in the original. For example, on the 3 Kal. Feb. (p. 9), we have "Brmyngham," for Birmingham, or Brimyngham. Also 6 Id. Feb. (p. 10), "Thomas Sinothe filius Thome Sinothe," ought, very probably, to be Smothe. It must be confessed, however, that in this case the manuscript may be read either way, and we find afterwards (p. 56), a special anniversary appointed for Thomas Smoth, which seems to favour the latter reading^x. So also 7 Id. April (p. 19), it is doubtful

^w Notwithstanding all the Editor's care, however, errors have crept in, which those who know the difficulty of printing from a manuscript of this sort, will best know how to excuse. Some of these are mere printers' errata, but others, it is to be feared, have arisen from an incorrect reading of the contractions of the manuscript. The following are the most important : Page 8, line 15, for "Mº. eeee. tertio," read "Mº. eeee. tertio." Page 67, line 29, for "martiris," read "matris." Page 76, line 18, for "ymprimis," read "ympnus." Page 77, line 10, for "preparationem," read "perpetrationem :" line 24, for "militibu," read "militibus." Page 78, line 11, for "gestah abentur," read "gesta habentur." Page 81, line 13, for "illa," read "ille." Page 86, line 16, for "pro," read "per." Page 93, line 12, for "et," read "est." Page 96, line 6, for "mace-rationum," read "macerationem." Page 103, line 19, for "terens," read "texens," although it is doubtful whether it be terens or texens in the manuscript.

^x See also the mention of Smothiscourte, Kal. Apr. (p. 18), and Rot. Pat. 5 Henry V., dorso 14. From one of the ancient documents of St. John's parish, Dublin (No. 37), it appears that Thomas le Mareschal, son and heir of Henry le Mareschal, of Wine-tavern-street, made a lease of a tenement in Fishamble-street, to "Thome Smothe clericio et Alicia uxori ejus."

doubtful whether the name which the editor has read “Ryan,” may not be in the manuscript Byan. Again, on the 8 Kal. Jun. (p. 26), we have “Ob. venerabilis pater dominus Thomas Crauley, Archiepiscopus Dublin, &c.” Henry Marleborough also calls him Crauley, at the year 1398, where he mentions his arrival in Ireland, but Cranley at the year 1417, when he records his death*. All other authorities call him Cranley. Crauley is, therefore, most probably an error, and this is an instance in which the editor may perhaps be accused of an over scrupulous adherence to the original: for the handwriting of that period made but a very slight difference between n and u.

On the next day 7 Kal. Jun. (p. 26), we have a “memorandum quod Alicia Gernonum tradidit majori altari, &c.,” where the editor has represented the contraction “Gernonū,” by “Gernonum.” How far he is right in this may, perhaps, admit of some doubt; but certainly the word in the manuscript is much more like Gernonū than Gernouñ; and yet num seems an unusual termination for the name, while Gernoun is common.

It is not intended to enumerate here every instance in which similar errors may be detected: the above are given lest the reader should suppose such mistakes to have been the result of carelessness in the editor or in the printer: and it will only be necessary to add to them one or two specimens from another part of the work. Thus, at 16 Kal. Dec. (p. 50), “Castrokaok” is for Castroknok, or Castleknock. In the Calendar (p. 72), 7 Kal. Jan., “Stephani Steph'i prothomartyris,” Stephani is repeated unnecessarily. In the Martyrology (p. 81), 12 Kal. Febr. we have “Augurii et Eulogii dianorum,” for “diaconorum;” 4 Id. Mart. (p. 95), “agmentauit” for “augmentavit;” and 12 Kal.

Martii

* Both the Latin of these Annals published by Camden, and the English version printed by Hanmer, call this archbishop Crauley, at the first of the above mentioned places. In the second place the English edition has Granley; a manifest erratum.

Martii (p. 89), "Marimini" for "Maximini." On the 6 Non. Martii (p. 92), "Uiuini," as the editor has read the name, may have been intended for Juuini, which would bring it nearer to Jovini, the real name as given in other authorities. So also on the next day "Etnitherii," is Emitherii, or Hemitherii, in the Roman Martyrology: of these variations of names, however, innumerable instances occur. It should, perhaps, be observed, that on the 15 Kal. Sept. (p. 37), which is now vacant, there was an entry, which has been carefully erased in the MS. Only a faint trace of the letter O at the beginning, and Ff at the commencement of a second line are now visible.

Also, p. 57 (fol. 50, a, of the manuscript), there is an erasure immediately after the third paragraph. The last word of that paragraph is followed by a mark \div and the words "verte folium," in a more recent hand of the early part of the sixteenth century. On turning the leaf we find at a corresponding mark on the next page, the paragraph which now stands fourth in p. 57; this paragraph the editor has transferred into the place of the erasure, according to the direction above quoted. And some faint traces of the erased letters which are still discernible, make it probable that the erasure was identical with this entry; the writer seems to have begun it in that place, but finding that he had not room to complete it, he erased what he had written, and inserted it on the next page, with a reference to its proper order in the series of festivals.

The last paragraph but one, p. 58, is written in a very bad hand of the sixteenth century; and the last few words of it are wholly illegible. The only word of which any trace remains looks like "Conuersio;" and may lead to the inference, that the anniversary of the Stanyhursts was kept on the Sunday next after the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul; which agrees with the order in which this entry stands, between the last Sunday in Advent, and the Sunday next

next after St. Valentine's day. But the editor did not wish to print, on a mere conjecture, a word that was not very distinctly legible, deeming it sufficient to have the fact noticed in this manner.

The words "Nec non et Alice Hazhan," at the end of the second paragraph, p. 58, are in the same hand as the entry relating to the Stanyhursts; and the whole of p. 59 (fol. 51, a, of the MS.) is in a bad hand, although, probably, coeval with the dates there recorded.

The two rude lines, at the end of p. 59, are mere scribbling. They are mnemonic lines invented to assist in applying the rule for finding the beginning of Lent. In the Martyrology of the Abbey of St. Thomas, in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, there is an elaborate treatise in monkish Latin verse, on ecclesiastical chronology, in which many such lines are to be found. To explain the use of the lines Rex fit egens, &c., would require the insertion of tables and other matter inconsistent with the design of this publication. But the following verses from the Martyrology of St. Thomas's, just mentioned, may entertain some readers, although they will scarcely be very intelligible to those who have never studied the ancient, and now almost forgotten, science of computus ecclesiasticus:

“ Meta quadragene semper fungone docetur.

It remains now only to say a few words on the age of the Book of Obits, which Ware, and, after him, Wood, Harris, and Archdall attribute to Thomas Fych, or Fitch, a canon regular and sub-prior of the convent, who died in 1517, and whose obit was celebrated on the 17th of January^y. The grounds of this opinion are, that the manuscript is certainly, from its character, not older than the latter part of the fifteenth century^z: and on comparing it with the White Book of Christ Church, which is still in possession of the Dean and Chapter, we find a very close similarity in the handwriting. That the White Book was compiled, if not written, by Fyche, is evident from the following note, in the original hand of the manuscript, fol. 57, a :

The entry of the obit of Thomas Fych, in the Book of Obits, is in a hand evidently later than the original handwriting of the manuscript;

^y See p. 7, ad 16 Kal. Febr.

^z Ware's words in the original Latin edition of his Writers of Ireland are as follow : “ Scripsit de rebus ecclesiæ sua, Lib. i. qui Liber Albus dicitur. Forte etiam Necrologium, sive liber obituuum ejusdem ecclesiae. Nam ejus tempore scriptum esse, e characteris genere liquet.” De Script. Hib. p. 81. Wood (Athen. Oxon. vol. i. 21, ed. Bliss) seems to have misunderstood these words ; for he says that the book written by Fich, De rebus ecclesiæ sua, “was sometimes in the library of Sir James Ware” [which seems to have been a pure conjecture, without any foundation], “ who saith it was usually called the White Book, and takes it to be the same with the Obital Book of that church, for in his time it was written, as by the character it appears, being at this day reserved as a great rarity in the Library of Trinity College near Dublin.” It will be seen, however, that Ware is so far from confounding the Liber Albus with the Book of Obits, that he expressly distinguishes them.

script; and as it must have been made immediately after Fych's death, we may conclude with certainty, that the work was compiled in his life-time, and therefore, most probably, under his superintendance. But, whoever was the compiler, there cannot be a question that the manuscript was written in the latter end of the fifteenth century.

THE MARTYROLOGY.

This part of the volume, as has been already observed, was probably at first unconnected with the Book of Obits, and is certainly older, although not written before the end of the fourteenth, or beginning of the fifteenth century. It is in a very large and bold hand; and in some instances the ink appears to have been revived, and the letters retraced where they had become faint.

The table, p. 60 (fol. 51, b, of the manuscript), is in red and black, as now printed; and it may not, perhaps, be out of place to remark, that it is the first specimen of this kind of printing ever executed in Ireland, and does great credit to the skill and accuracy of the Dublin University printers.

Similar tables are commonly found in ecclesiastical manuscripts of this kind, and their use is obvious to all who are acquainted with ritual chronology. It will not be necessary, therefore, to enter into any minute explanation of this and other matters occurring in this part of the volume, which have no immediate relation to the proper object of the Irish Archaeological Society. But for the sake of those readers who have not had occasion to turn their attention to such subjects, it may be desirable to state briefly, that the table on p. 60 enables us to find Quinquagesima Sunday and Easter Day, for any year within the limits for which it is calculated, i.e., from 1116 to 1647, inclusive. It will be seen, that in the Calendar, pp. 62, 63, from 6 Id. Febr. to 2 Id. Martii (that is, within the limits of Quinquagesima), there occurs the same series of letters, which is found also in the table p. 60; and again from 12 Kal. Mart. to 17 Kal. Maii (the limits of Easter), pp. 63, 64, the same letters appear. If, therefore, it be required (for example) to find Quinquagesima and Easter for the year 1119; take the column of the table which is headed, “An. Dom. M°. cxvj.” and count down to the fourth square in the vertical column; there the letter g will be found, and in the second column on the left t, the Sunday letter. Turn now to p. 62, and the letter g will be found to stand opposite to 14 Kal. Mart. or 16th of Feb., which is therefore Quinquagesima Sunday: and in p. 63, the same letter g stands opposite to 3 Kal. April, or 30th of March, which is therefore Easter Day, A. D. 1119.

If it be required to find Quinquagesima and Easter for the year 1548; take the column headed Md. xxxvi, and count down to the 13th square; there will be found the letter b in red, corresponding to the Sunday letter g: look now to p. 62, and it will be seen that the letter b in red stands opposite to 12 Kal. Mart. (18th Feb.), which is therefore Quinquagesima Sunday; and in p. 64, b in red stands at the first of April, which is therefore Easter Day.

The first column on the left, headed “Litere abjecte,” is added by a hand more recent than the rest of the table; it contains the Sunday Letters of leap years, from Jan. 1st to the intercalated day. The words “Litere Bissextils,” heading the third column, are also in the same more recent hand. It will be remarked also, that “M. ccc. xij.” heading the twelfth column, ought to be M. ccc. xii.; “M. d. vj.” in the nineteenth column, ought to be M. d. viij.: and “M. d. xij.” in the twenty-second column, is a mistake for M. d. xcii. These, however, are all errors of the original manuscript.

The “Memorandum” at the end of p. 61, is in a hand of the fifteenth century. It records the death of Maurice Fitz-Thomas, Earl of Desmond, who died in the year 1355^a, i.e. (as it appears from the statement of this note, that the feast of the Conversion of St. Paul fell on Monday), 1356^b.

Under this note was another similar entry, now illegible, of which the first word seems to have been "Memorandum."

The obit of Nicholas Clerk, 5 Id. Mart. (p. 63), is in a hand later than that of the manuscript; probably coeval with the date 1470 which it contains.

ⁿ Bishop of Sens. His festival, in the Roman Martyrology, is on the 20th of March; but in the Calendar of Sarum on Oct. 15, which is the day of his translation. See Acta SS. Mart. tom. iii. p. 144.

^o The feast of the dedication of the church built in honour of an apparition of St. Michael the Archangel. This feast was enjoined by the Council of Oxford in 1222 (Hardouin, tom. vii. 117; the chapter relating to festivals is omitted in the Acts of this Council, published by Wilkins). For an account of the church see Mabillon, Annal. Bened. tom. ii. p. 19.

^p Probably intended for St. Colman of Dromore, although his feast is generally placed on June 7. See Butler on that day; but in the "Ordo recitandi" for 1840, Dublin (Coyne), St. Colman is commemorated on the 17th of June.

^q S. Begneta, or Begnait, is not mentioned in the Martyrology of Aengus. In the calendars of two ancient manuscript Breviaries now in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, she is styled "virgo non martyr." One of these (B. 1, 3) belonged to the church of Clondalkin; the other

(B. 1, 4) to the parish church of St. John the Evangelist, Dublin. The ancient church, now in ruins, in the island of Dalkey, near Dublin, is dedicated to St. Begnet; although in Lewis's Topographical Dictionary, it is erroneously said to have been dedicated to St. Benedict. Mr. D'Alton also, in his History of the County of Dublin, improves upon the same mistake. He says (p. 885): "On the shore, in a little rocky cove, the tourist will find a ready boat to facilitate his pilgrimage to the island, where, surrounded by cliffs, and a frequently tempestuous sea, an ancient mariners' chapel was erected, and dedicated to St. Begnet or Benedict." Does Mr. D'Alton mean to say, that Begnet and Benedict were one and the same? In Alan's Register (fol. 90, b), there is the exemplification of an Act of Parliament, held in Dublin, on the Friday next after the feast of St. Luke the Evangelist, 22 Edw. IV., where it is enacted in favour of the Archbishop of Dublin: "Ordeyne est et estable par anctorite du dit parlement, que le dit Erchevesque poet amer vn marchée al dit vile de Dal-xvij. Kal. Jan. (Dec. 15), S. Monoci, abbatis^s.

 xv. Kal. Jan. (Dec. 18), S. Maigneni, episcopi^t; Gaciani, episcopi.

These, it will be seen, are almost all festivals of English or Irish saints, or else feasts of a recent institution. And it is remarkable, that many of the Irish saints thus added to the Calendar, are saints belonging to the diocese of Dublin. St. Fintan, of Howth; St. Begnet, of Dalkey; St. Dulech, or Doolagh, from whom the ancient church of St. Doolagh's derives its name; St. Monoc, or Mohenog, of Monmohennock; and St. Maignen, of Kilmainham.

But a large number of Irish saints will be found to have formed a part of the original draft of the Calendar. Of these the following is a list:

^r St. Dulech is mentioned in the Martyrology, see p. 178. To this saint is dedicated a church of some antiquity, situated in the barony of Coolock, near Balgriffin, about six miles N. E. of Dublin. This place was anciently called Clochar, or Clochar-Duiligh, as we learn from the Martyrology of Aengus, where St. Dulech is commemorated on the 17th Nov. See also Colgan, Acta SS. p. 598; and Lanigan, vol. iii. p. 359.

^s St. Senoe, or Senog, commonly called Mo-Shenog [pron. Mo-Henóg], i.e., my Senog, according to the Irish custom of expressing veneration for a saint, by prefixing the pronoun my. This St. Senog, or Mo-Henog, is the same as Mo-Sheno^g of Moghna Moshenóg. To him are dedicated the churches of Ballaghmoone, and Monmohenock, alias Dunmanoge [i.e. the fort of St. Senóg], which are now united in the Prebend of Monmohenock in St. Patrick's Cathedral. See Mason's St. Patrick's, p. 65.

^t Maignend was abbot (it does not appear that he was a bishop) of Kilmainham, near Dublin, which derives its name from him. He is said to have flourished about the year 606. His name occurs in the Martyrology of Aengus, at the 18th Dec. See also Colgan, Acta SS. p. 584 and 713. Gacianus, whose name occurs on the 18th Dec., is commemorated on the same day in the Roman Martyrology under the name of Gratianus.

^e Called in the Martyrology of Aengus
 (ad 6 Sept.), Mac Cuilmo. He was patron of Lusk; a village where there is a church of Anglo-Norman erection, which was used for a parish church until five or six years ago, when it was unroofed by a storm, and has since been suffered to become a ruin. Its ancient monuments are now broken, covered with rubbish, and exposed to every indignity; its singular square belfry, coeval with the Anglo-Norman church, and its ancient round tower, coeval with the original church of Mac Cuilinn, are rapidly going to decay, and no means exist for their restoration. In the Annals of Ulster, the death of St. Mae Cuilind is entered at the year 497; and he is there called Cinnead: “ quēr Chinneadh mic Cathmoga. n. Mic Cuilin episcopit Luska, ”
i. e., “ The repose of Cinneadh son of Cath-mogh, viz. Mae Cuilin, Bishop of Lusk.” In the Chronicon Scotorum, the same entry occurs: “ Kal. n. quēr Cumoeða mic Cathmoga. n. Maig Cuilmo eppuc Lusca.
Dēfectur foli⁹ apparatu⁹ ” (MS. Trin.
 Coll. Dublin, H. 1. 18): where Roderic O’Flaherty has rightly added in the margin the date 496; and again in the corresponding entry in the Annals of Tigher-nach, in the same volume, where the saint’s name is given thus: “ quēr Cumoeða mic Caðbaða .n. Mic Cuilinn, &c. ” That 496, and not 497, is the true date intended by the annalist, is evident from the words Kal. n. at the beginning of this entry, intimating that the first day of the year was the second feria of the week, or Monday, and from the coincidence of a solar eclipse; both which criteria agree with the year 496. Archdall makes St.

 Maceulind to have died in 497, and “ Cuynea M’Cathmoa,” as he calls him, in 498.
 His authority was Mageoghegan’s translation of the Annals of Clonmacnois, which he has misunderstood; and thus has split the saint into two. Lanigan seems to have had no other information about St.
 Maceulind except what he derived from this blunder of Archdall. “ One Mac-culind” (he says), “ and Cuynea M’Cath-moa, are spoken of as having been Bishops of Lusk, as early as the fifth century (see Archdall at Lusk): but on no respectable authority that I can discover. Colgan makes no mention of them.” It will be seen, however, that there is very respectable authority for the existence of this ancient saint, although it escaped the research of Dr. Lanigan. Butler quotes Colgan’s manuscripts, to which he appears to have had access, Lives of the Saints, Dublin (Coyne), 1833, vol. iii. p. 410.

It will be seen, therefore, that notwithstanding the conformity of divine offices established between the Irish Church and the Church of England, by the synod of Cashel, in 1172^k, many Irish saints continued to hold their places in the Anglo-Irish Calendar; and as many of those above noticed are recent insertions, it would seem as if the Church had become more Irish in this respect than it was immediately after the conquest. In the Breviaries of Clondalkin, and of the parish church of St. John the Evangelist, now preserved in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, there is a still greater number of Irish saints introduced into the Calendar. And many of these are stated to have been made double feasts, by "the constitutions of Dublin."

^g St. Barr, or Finbar, first Bishop of Cork. See Butler.

^h Malachy, Archbishop of Armagh, A. D. 1134–1137. See his Life by St. Bernard.

ⁱ In the Breviary of Clondalkin already quoted, this feast is entered thus: "S. Laurentii othohil, Archiepiscopi Dublin."

Called Buide in the Martyrology of Aengus (ad 7 Dec.) He is now called St. Baoithin, in the County of Louth; and his name has been anglicised Boice, Boyne, and Bute. From him the Abbey of Monasterboice (Monasterium Boetii), takes its name. The Four Masters record his death under the year 521. "S. Buite mac Bronnae Episcopus M^anastre ecc. un. Decembri." "S. Buite, son of Bronnae, Bishop of Monaster [i. e. of the Monastery, as this Abbey was generally called], died, the 7th of December."

^k The words of the synod are as follow: "Itaque omnia divina ad instar sacrosancte ecclesie inulta quod Anglieana observat ecclesia, in omnibus partibus ecclesie amodo tractentur. Dignum etenim et iustissimum est ut sicut dominum et regem ex Anglia sortita divinitus est Hibernia, sic etiam exinde vivendi formam accipiat meliorem." Alani Reg. fol. 155, a.

Dublin." Thus, on the 3 Non. Jul. we find in these Calendars : " S. Kevini, abbatis, duplex festum, per constitutiones Dublin." 8 Kal. Sept. " S. Michee, episcopi et confessoris, duplex festum per constitutiones." 8 Id. Sept. " S. Maculimi, episcopi et confessoris, duplex festum per constitutiones." 2 Id. Nov. " Sancte Begnate, virginis non martyris, ix Leet. per constitutiones," &c.

It would seem, therefore, that the introduction of these Irish saints was the result of an enactment made in some synod of Dublin, whose decrees, if extant, are not accessible to the writer of these remarks. The synod of Dublin¹, held under Alexander de Bicknor (ob. 1349), decreed that the festival days of the patron saints of the cathedrals of the province of Dublin, should be observed as double feasts: "Quod aliarum ecclesiarum cathedralium nostræ provinciæ in suis dioecesibus dies exitus patronorum earundem sub duplici festo et per totam provinciam Dublin cum regime chori solenniter celebrentur." This, however, only applies to the feasts of St. Brigid, St. Canice, St. Laserian, and St. Edan: and besides these, the synod makes the feast of St. Laurence O'Toole a double feast, and those of the eleven thousand virgins, and of the translation of St. Patrick, feasts of nine lessons^m. It is evident, therefore, that the constitutions cited in the above mentioned Calendars, must be those of some later synod; and that the heads of the Irish Church in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries felt strongly the necessity of restoring a considerable number of the festivals which

^m The synod held by Archbishop John de S. Paulo in 1351 (Wilkins, iii. p. 18), enacts only the observance of the feast of the Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary; the feast of St. Anne, mother of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Translation of St. Thomas à Becket, and the feast of St. Catherine, as double festivals. It is evident, therefore, that this is not the synod referred to.

which had been observed before the English conquest, and which were originally intended to keep alive the memories, and perpetuate the example of the ancient saints of Ireland.

No further remarks seem necessary on this part of the work, except to explain one or two entries which have been made here and there on the blank margins. The verses on the lower margin of p. 62 (fol. 52, b, of the manuscript), containing a rule for finding the first day of Lent, are in a hand probably of the sixteenth century. On the lower margin of the next page also, were two lines in a hand of the same period, which are now wholly illegible. On the lower margin of the page containing August (fol. 56, b, of the manuscript), is a copy of a decree of Pope Fabian (Decret. Gratiani Caus. vi. q. i. c. 18, Quicunque sciens), and on the lower margin of the next page is the canon Si quis convictus (Caus. xxii. q. 5, c. 7), but cited from “Ysidorus in libro sententiarum.” These canons both relate to perjury and its punishment: they are but partially legible, and are written in a hand of the sixteenth century. As they are evidently mere scribbling, and have no relation to the subject matter of the volume, it was not thought worth while to print them.

On pages 73 and 74 (fol. 58 of the original) are two tables; the first intended to find Septuagesima Sunday, the second to find Easter by means of the Sunday Letters and the Golden Number or prime. They are explained by short rules in the margin, and are sufficiently intelligible to every one who is acquainted with ecclesiastical chronology^a.

Then

^a There are some mistakes in these tables which shew that they were copied by an ignorant scribe: thus (p. 73), the Conversion of St. Paul is placed on the 12th instead of the 8th of the Kal. Febr.;

and the Purification on the Kal. (instead of the 4 Non.) Febr. It is remarkable, that in two exactly similar tables which occur, fol. 88 a and b, of the Black Book of Christ Church, the Conversion of St.

Then follows the Martyrology, pp. 75–132 (fol. 59–132 of the original).

There seems no reason to attribute to this Martyrology any very great antiquity. It is, in fact, the Martyrology of Ado, with considerable abridgment and some additions^o. To give an exact list of these differences, from the printed copies of Ado's work, would carry us too far from the immediate purpose of this publication. Those who are engaged in the study of hagiology, will not need the assistance which such a discussion might give them; and those to whom the subject is new would not be interested by it. It must suffice, therefore, to make some general remarks on the interpolations, additions, and other peculiarities of this Martyrology, and especially on its notices of Irish saints. It will be most convenient to treat of these in the order in which they occur, premising, that the words and passages

Paul is placed on the 10 Kal. Febr. It seems highly probable, not only from these similar errors, but from the exact similarity of the tables in form and ornament, that those in the Black Book were the sourcee from which the transcriber of the Martyrology copied his; and if so, he probably perceived the error in the day of the Conversion of St. Paul, and in attempting to correct it committed a new one, by moving the festival two days up instead of two days down. There are some other mistakes made by the scribe of the Martyrology in the table p. 73, which do not occur in the Black Book. Thus he has made the day after the Ides of March the 16, instead of the 17 Kal. April; and this error is continued for the four following days; but the first day of the next table (p. 74) is rightly 12 Kal. April. He has also omitted to mark 6 Kal. Febr. as the feast of S. Matthias. In the second table (p. 74), the golden number annexed to 12 Kal. Apr. ought to be xvi not xv. In every other respect, these tables are line for line an exact copy of the tables in the Black Book.

^o In some places Usuardus is copied; and some insertions occur (particularly of English and Irish saints), which are not to be found in either Ado or Usuard. The particulars of martyrdoms, miracles, and other legends, so frequently given at length by Ado, are in this martyrology almost always omitted or abridged.

passages which the Editor has printed in Italics, are interpolations added to the original manuscript in a more recent hand.

v. Id. Jan. (Jan. 9), p. 77, Felan. His name is variously spelt Foilanus, Filanus, Faolan, Faelan, Foelan. See Colgan (Acta SS. ad 9 Jan.), and the Martyrology of Aengus (cod. die); in this latter authority his name is spelt Faelan, and the ancient gloss adds, i.e. in Cluon Mesena i Fepab Tulach ata; intimating that his feast was celebrated at Chuain-Mesena, in the district of Feratulach^r.

Kal. Feb. (Feb. 1), p. 84, S. Brigida. The notice of St. Bridget which occurs here, seems altogether peculiar to this Martyrology. Ado's account of her is as follows: "Item apud Scotiam Sanctæ Brigidæ virginis, cuius vita miraculis claruit: quæ cum lignum altaris, in testimonium virginitatis suæ tetigisset, viride factum est." The notice in the Roman Martyrology agrees with this almost verbatim; and it is remarkable that there also Ireland is called Scotia.

It is worth noting, that in this account of St. Bridget, the compiler of the Dublin Martyrology speaks of himself in the first person: "Si enim larga ipsius præfate virginis opera cartis inserere voluisse, proprii voluminis eguisset solentia."

Colgan has collected six lives of this saint in his Trias Thaumaturga.

“ Now Bishop Etchein, was in Cluainfota Boetain in Feraibl Bile [Farbill], which is in the south of Meath. And it was to him Columb-Cille went to have the order of a bishop conferred on him. Columb-Cille sat under the tree on the west side of the church, and there asked where the cleric was. There he is, said a certain man, on the field of ploughing below. I think, said Columb-Cille, that it is not meet for us that a ploughman should confer orders on us, however let him be tested by us. When they met him, they first asked him for the ploughshare. He immediately gave it them, and the oxen continued to plough notwithstanding. The cleric is a good man, said they. Let him be tested farther, said Columb-Cille. They asked him for the outer ox. He gave it them immediately, and Bishop Etchein commanded a wild stag which was in the wood to perform the work, which he did immediately. Then Columb-Cille went up to the cleric, after having tested him, and told the business on which he came. It shall be done, said the cleric. He, then, conferred the order of a priest on Columb-Cille, and it was the order of a bishop he wished wished to have conferred on him. The cleric prayed until the next day. I regret, said Columb-Cille, the order thou hast conferred on me, however I will not change it while I live; on that account, however, no person shall ever again come to have orders conferred on him in this church. And that has been fulfilled up to this time."

xiv. Kal. Mart. (Feb. 16), p. 89, S. Confessor Berchanus. It is not easy to say what St. Berchan is here intended. The festival of Berchan, surnamed the prophet, Abbot of Cluain-Sosta (now Clonsast, in the King's County), is celebrated on the 4th of December^t; and the 12th of October is the festival of St. Berchan, otherwise Mobhi Clairenach, of Glasnevin^u. Other saints of this name are commemorated in the Irish Martyrologies on the 10th of April, 23rd of May, 5th of June, and 24th of December^v; but no St. Berchan appears in any of the authorities on the 16th of February.

xiii. Kal. Mart. (Feb. 17), p. 89, S. Confessor Fintanus, Abbot of Chuain Eidhnach, now Clonenagh, near Montrath, in the Queen's County. See p. xlvi.

xi. Kal. Mart. (Feb. 19), p. 89, S. Confessor Baithinus. Of this saint, who is by some authorities called a bishop, very little is known, except that three churches were dedicated to him, or to some of the other saints of the same name, at an early period in Ireland; one in the diocese of Meath, another in the diocese of Elphin, and a third in the diocese of Raphoe. He is mentioned in the Martyrology of Aengus, at the 19th of February, where he is called "boethme mop mannech,"

There are enumerated four of the same name,
Boethins famous, victorious ;
Viz., the son of Brennan, the son of Findach,
The son of Alla, the son of Cuanach.”

From which it appears that there were four remarkable saints of the name known to the author of the foregoing lines. See pages lxii and lxiii.

This entry contains almost all we know of St. Baithin, or Boethin, as will be seen on comparing it with what Colgan has collected^y.

prince of the royal family of Leinster, who had seven sons, all distinguished for sanctity and miracles, and all honoured in the Irish Church as saints. In the Martyrology of Aengus they are thus noticed at the Ides of March : “ Meic Neppan o n-imp,” “ The sons of Nessan, of the island,” i. e., of Inis-Nessan, in Bregia, called also in some of the authorities Inis Faithlenn, and now Ireland’s Eye. They flourished in the sixth century^b.

xvi. Kal. April (March 17), p. 96, S. Patricius, Archiepiscopus Seotorum. The notice here given of St. Patrick appears to be peculiar to this Martyrology^c. It makes no allusion to the place of his birth, his mission from Pope Celestine, nor to the earlier part of his life before his arrival in Ireland on his evangelical mission. The reasons given to prove that St. Patrick was a martyr, “ animo et summa intentione persecutio[n]es sustinendo martyr effectus,” are urged also by the author of the Tripartite Life, who says :

“ Nee incongrue martyrem dixeris, qui crucem Christi in corde ac corpore continuo gestavit : qui continuo cum magis, cum regibus, ac principibus idololatris, et cum daemonibus conflictando, corpus suum mille mortis generibus objecit, ac ad ea subeunda eorū semper habuit paratum ; et sic viventem Domino semper se exhibuit hostiam^d. ”

The allusion to the four and twenty elders, “ multiplicem vel etiam centuplicem, ut ita dicam, coronam inter viginti quatuor seniores accepit,” is in accordance with the ancient opinion, that the four and twenty elders of the Apocalypse represented the great assembly of the saints in glory.

^b Colgan has given their names and the dates of their deaths, Acta SS. ad Mart. 15, p. 609. The “ insula filiorum Nessanni ” is mentioned in the Letter of Pope Alexander III. to St. Laurence O’Toole, published by Ussher, Syll. Epist. xlviij.

^c The writer has not had any opportunity of consulting the Breviary of Aberdeen, or other ecclesiastical books of the Church of Scotland, in which it is very probable some of these notices of Irish saints may be found.

vii. Id. April (April 7), p. 103. This entry is very inaccurately written. "Vicesimus" ought evidently to be vicinus, as in the printed copies of Ado, and other Martyrologies. Hegesippus (or Esippus, as he is here called), is erroneously styled "papa," for it does not appear that he was even a bishop. The words, "Et hic constituit, ut intra actionem missarum, sanctus, sanctus, sanctus, decanteretur," are also erroneously inserted here. They evidently belong to the notice of Pope Sixtus, on the day before, where they occur in the Appendix to Ado's Martyrology.

xi. Kal. Maii (April 21), p. 107, Maelrubaus, Confessor. Maelruba was Abbot of Bangor in the eighth century. The Four Masters have the following record of his death under the year 721:

"S. Maolrubha Abb Dennchaip iap n-dul mo Albam decc, i n-a chil feirin i n-Apurcheroran, an xi Appil. Ochtemogat bliaohain ap tri miogaibh pop naibh laithibh foo a fiaoghart."

"St. Maolruba, Abbot of Bangor, after he went into Scotland, died in his own church in Apurcrossan, the 21st of April. Eighty years, three months, and nine days was the length of his life."

In the Martyrology of Aengus his festival is recorded on the 21st of April, and the following note is added in the margin:

"Moelrubai do Chenel Eoghan do, ocul i n-Alpan ata a chell. Ocul feil a efrechta po. Subtan om.. ingen Setna riup Chomgaill Denochuir a mathair; ocul i n-Abur Chresen ata a chell."

vii. Kal. Maii (April 17), p. 108. This account of St. Mark the Evangelist is copied, with some mistakes, additions, and omissions, from the Martyrology of Notker.

iv. Kal. Maii (April 28), p. 110. "Item in Iberna Sancti Roberti." These words are added in the margin in a hand of the sixteenth century. St. Robert, Abbot of Molesmes, founder of the Cistercian order, is probably intended. But his day in the Roman Martyrology is April 29; and there is another mistake in entering him "in Iberna," if that be intended for "in Ibernia," for St. Robert was a Frenchman. In the Calendar, p. 64, his day is also made to be the 28th of April; but his name is inserted there by a modern hand.

Non. Maii (May 7), p. 113. "Ciaroc et Bretanus (read Breccanus) Confessores." Ciaroc occurs, under the name of Mo-Chuaroc, in the Martyrology of Aengus (ad 7 Maii), in conjunction with Brecan:—

"Μοχουαρος οι δρεσσαν, Ωι γεραις αεγλαιμα, Σαρπας Κριτη αρ διλιο."

"Mochuaroe with Breccan,
Two heroes of purity [i.e. milites Christi]
Who loved Christ faithfully."

And on the word Breccan there is the following gloss:

"...ο Εχδρυιμ δρεσσαν i coepich Ωαιλ απαιε 7 Ωαιλ πιαται." "i. e. of Echdruim Brecaen, on the border of Dalaradia and Dailriatai^e.

Brecaen, or Breccan, was the son of Saranus, the chieftain who opposed St. Patrick in Dalaradia, and incurred the malediction of the saint^f; notwithstanding which, says Colgan: "non earuit progenie sancta^g."

Of

^e The territory of Dalaradia is stated by Mr. O'Donovan to have included the whole of the present county of Down, and that part of Antrim which lies south of the mountain Sliabh Mis, now Slieve Mish.—Battle of Magh Rath, page 39, note ^f. Dailriatai, or Dalriedia, was the north and north-west of the county of Antrim, now called the Routs. See Lanigan, vol. i. p. 217, note (24), and Ussher, Primord., p. 1029.

Of Ciaroc, Cuaroc, or Mochuaroc, there is but little known. He was evidently an Ulster saint, and therefore is not to be confounded with the Mochuaroc of Desii in Munster, whose real name was Cronan (corrupted into Cuaran, Mochura, and Mochuaroc), and whose feast is marked by Aengus on the 9th of February^b.

vii. Id. Maii (May 9), p. 114, Sanctanus, episcopus. The Martyrology of Aengus commemorates the saint at the 9th of May in these words: “Éppuc Sanctam rochla,” “Bishop Santain of good repute.” The note or gloss is as follows:

“a. o chill da leip do. ut Aengus dicit. 7 neptio ubi eft cell da leip. 7 ip leip Óruim laigille i T̄radraighe.

“i.e. He was of Kill-da-leis; as Aengus says. And I know not where Kill-da-leis is. And to him belongs Druim-Laigille in Tradraighe.

Another gloss adds:

a. Éppuc Sanctam mac oo Samuel Chendisel. Dectir ingen Muiredaig
Muiredaig maten eiur: in futuro [sic]
ut om̄it:

Éppuc Sanctain ip mo chean
Mac Samuel Chendisel,
Dectir a mat̄air cen meirg Ingen Muiredaig Munderg.”

i.e. Bishop Sanctain was the son of Samuel Chendisel (loc headed). Dectir, daughter of Muiredach Muinderg (red necked), was his mother: in futuro :[?] as the poet says:

Bishop Sanctain is my beloved,
The son of Samuel Chendisel, Dectir was his mother, without stain,
The daughter of Muiredach Munderg.”

Colgan refutes the suggestion, that Sanctanus may be identical with Sammanus, who is mentioned by the Scholiast on Fiech's Hymn, as a brother of St. Patrick. He says:

“Colitur enim Sanctanus Episcopus genere etiam Britannus die 9 Maii, in ecclesia de Kill-daleas in Lagenia, iuxta Martyrol. Taml. Aengussium et Marianum in suis Festilogiis, sed quia Pater hujus legitur fuisse Samuel Rex Britanniae

iii. Id. Maii (May 13). "Eodem die Sancte Sithe virginis." These words are added in the margin, in a hand of the sixteenth century. In the Calendar also, p. 65, her feast is added by a recent hand, "Sithe virginis ix. Iec:" and in the Calendar prefixed to the Chained Book of the Corporation of Dublin, the words "Sancta Sitha virgo" occur at 3 Id. Maii, in a modern hand. In a manuscript Breviary of the fifteenth century, in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin^m (but in the original hand of the manuscript), we find her name somewhat differently spelt, "Scite virginis, ix lc." This Breviary was written in Ireland, as appears from an entry on the first leafⁿ, and there is,

Proprietary de Sanetis is this note : "Explicit Proprium officium de sanetis secundum usum fratrum carmelitarum." Hence we may, perhaps, infer, that the writer was a Carmelite friar. His name was Maol-Isa O'Laehmayn, or, perhaps, O'Laetnayn. Tathen is evidently Thaddeus, or Tadhg, a common name among the O'Carrolls; and "Laniensis dyosis," is evidently for "Laonensis dioecesis," or Killaloe. The Annals of Ulster record the death of the O'Carroll, "i.e. John, son of Mailruanaigh O'Carroll, King of Ely," in the year 1489; and it is probable that his death gave occasion to the contest for the chieftainship of the sept, between Teague and William therefore, some reason to think that Sitha may be an Irish saint, although no other Irish Calendar to which the writer has access contains her name, nor is she mentioned by Aengus, Colgan, or any other authority. The introduction of her name into the Calendar, as appears from the recent entries in the present volume, and in the Chained Book, must have taken place, at least in the diocese of Dublin, about the end of the fifteenth century.

xi. Kal. Jun. (May 22), p. 118, S. Boethinus, abbas et confessor. This was Boethine^o, son of Finnaigh, Abbot of Inis Boethine, now Inishboheen^p, about four miles south of the town of Wicklow, in the barony of Arklow. This saint is thus mentioned in the Martyrology of Aengus, at May 22: "Boethine mac Findach," "Boethine son of Findach," upon which there is the following note:

"... o Inip Boethine a n-iapthap [read

"i. e. Of Inis Boethine in the West [read East] of Leinster; and Cred, daughter of Ronan, King of Leinster, was the mother of Boethine; and he was in Dal-Mesineorb afterwards."

The Annals of the Four Masters record the death of Ronan, son of Colman, King of Leinster, at the year 610; from which we may conclude that Boethine Mac Finnaigh flourished at the end of the sixth and beginning of the seventh century.^q

O'Carroll, of which the above memorandum is perhaps the only remaining record. The writer evidently leant to the side of Tathen, or Teague, for he gives him unhesitatingly the title of O'Carroll.

This Boethin, or Baithin, was the son of Brennan, founder of Tegh Baoithin, now Taughboyne, in the County Donegal, five miles west-south-west of Londonderry, and successor to St. Columba in the government of the abbey of Iona, A. D. 592. See above, p. lvi., and Colgan, Acta SS. p. 369; Trias Thaum. p. 488, n. 6. The Acts of St. Boethin are published by the Bollandists, Acta SS. tom. ii. Junii, p. 236.

The notice of St. Columba which appears in this Martyrology seems quite peculiar, and has not been traced to any other source or authority. The Martyrology of Aengus has the following lines on this festival :

“Ron pnaout o’on bith-larch,
I m-bith-bi lepp lamopech,
Baethine apo anglech,
Colam cille camolech.”

“They went into the eternal kingdom,
Into eternal life of brightest splendour,
Baethine the noble, the angelical,
Columb-cille the resplendent.”

The ancient word lamopech is explained by the gloss. i.e. ταῖτ- νεμαχ, a word of more modern use, signifying splendid, shining.
And upon Boethine there is the following note :

“i. Ȣoethine mac Ȣpencano, mic Fergus, mic Conall Gulban, mic Neill ix Ȣiallaig, 7 Colam Cille mac Feolimze, mic Fergus. Crimthann ainm Colam Cille priu. Eitche doni, ingen Ȣima, mic Noe, mic Etine, mic Coirpre Pileao, mic Oilella Mor, mic Ȣrecan, mic Fiac, mic Ȣaire Ȣar-

“i.e. Boethine the son of Brenand, son of Fergus, son of Conall Gulban, son of Niall of the Nine Hostages, and Columb Cille the son of Fedlim, son of Fergus. Crimthan was Columb Cille’s name at first. Now Eithne, the daughter of Dima, son of Noe, son of Etine, son of Coirpre the poet, son of Oilell Mor, son of Breccan, son of Fiac, son of Daire Barrach, son of Cathair Mor, was Columb Cille’s mother. Now Cuimine, and Minchloth, and Sinech, were the three sisters of Columb Cille.”

iii. Id. Junii (June 11), p. 125, S. Mectail. Bishop of Kilcullen : he was a contemporary of St. Patrick, who is recorded in the Tripartite Life to have placed him in the church of Kilcullen. (Vit. Trip. l. iii. c. 18.) He died A.D. 548, according to the Four Masters. His real name was Aengus, and he is said to have been called Mac Thail, i. e. filius artificis, because his father was a carpenter. See Colgan, Trias Thaum. p. 185, n. 32. The Four Masters, however, and O'Clery's Calendar, say that his name was Eoghan :

In the Martyrology of Aengus his festival is thus noted : “Fest meic Thail in noeboar,” “The festival of Mac Tail the saintly,” and the following gloss is added :

“.i. o Chill Chuilmo a Muig Ćairgen.

others, Eochaidh, the son of Barr, King

xiv. Kal. Julii (June 18), p. 127, S. Baithinus et S. Furudranus. These saints were brothers, sons of Moenan, of the race of Colla-dacha Chrioch. We know very little about them, beyond what is recorded in the following notice of them at the 18th of June, in the Martyrology of Aengus :

Sons of the chaste Meonan,
Of the beautiful^s Lann-leri^t."

And a note or gloss adds :

" i.e. Boethin and Furodran, the two sons of Moenan^u of Lann Luachair in Bre-gia."

vii. Kal. Julii (June 25), p. 129. In Scotia, S. Lugudus, abbas et confessor. This is S. Lugad, called also Luoc, Molugad, or Moluoc, Abbot of Lismore in the Hebrides^v: who died A. D. 588, according to the Annals of the Four Masters. In the Martyrology of Aengus, he is called Lamluoc:

" Lamluoc glan geloci Dian Lipp moip dealbati."

" Lamluoc, the pure, the bright,
The sun of Lismore the pleasant."

And the gloss adds :

" .i. Moluoc Lipp moip i n-Alban.

" i.e. Moluoc of Lismore in Scotland.
i.e. of Kill-Delga in Ardgall" [the Hebrides].

^s The word ligang is explained in the gloss.: " .i. alaino no cenocip," " beautiful or placid."

^t Lann-leri is supposed by Archdall (Monast. p. 722) to be the place which is now called Lynn, in the barony of Delvin, County Westmeath, near Mullingar. It was destroyed by fire, according to the Four Masters, in 968, 1002, 1050, and 1148. See Colgan, Tr. Thaum. p. 633.

^u Colgan in his list of the saints descended from Colla da Chrioich, makes Baethine the uncle of Furadran (Acta SS. p. 713). This, however, is probably a mistake of the press; for in the Trias Thaum. (p. 377, n. 63), he speaks of " Baithanus filius Mainani et frater Sancti Furadhrani, 18 Jun." The genealogy of Moenan is as follows : Moenan, son of Colgan, son of Tuatha Cruinbheoil, son of Fedhlimidh, son of Fiachra Cassain, son of Colla-dachrioich.

^v Archdall (Monast. p. 691) sets down St. Lugad as Abbot of Lismore in Ireland. Colgan, however, had guarded against this mistake, Tr. Thaum. p. 481; Conf. Acta SS. p. 193; and Lanigan, Ecel. Hist. vol. ii. p. 213, n. (102).

Non. Julii (July 7), p. 134, S. Maelruine, confessor. Founder of the monastery of Tallaght, near Dublin. He died A. D. 787, on the 7th of July, according to the Four Masters. The Martyrology of Aengus calls him “Moelpuam apeth picched,” “Moelruain who took possession of heaven.” And the gloss adds :

“a. Moelpuam o Thamlachtu; 7 “i. e. Moelruain of Tallaght; and Colman nomen matris eius, Broichpec Colman was the name of his father: and nomen matris eius; 7 erpoc h-e feim.” Broicsech the name of his mother; and he was himself a bishop^{w.}”

ii. Kal. Aug. (July 31), p. 141. This day was observed as the commemoration of the relics of Christ Church, of which an account is here given which strongly confirms the opinion already expressed, that the Martyrology is older than the Book of Obits; especially when it is observed, that the notice of the relics of St. Patrick and of St. Lawrence O'Toole is added in a very recent hand.

According to this account the relics were deposited in the cathedral by Donatus, its founder, the first (Danish) bishop of Dublin, who died 1074; and in the time of Gregory (A. D. 1121–1161) they were placed in a shrine for greater reverence and security. They consisted of portions of the cross of our Lord; of the cross of St. Peter; of his chain; of the sandals of Pope Sylvester; relics of the eleven thousand virgins; of St. Pinnosa; a portion of the vest of the B. V. Mary; of the sepulchre of our Lord, and of Lazarus; of the sepulchre of St. Audeon; relics of St. Benedict, of St. Basil, and of

of St. German; portions of the vestments of St. Olave, and of St. Herbert, Bishop of Cologne; and reliques of David the confessor.

On comparing this list of reliques with that at the beginning of the Book of Obits, it will be seen that they differ very remarkably, and must evidently have been formed at different times. The portions of the true cross, and of the cross of St. Peter, of the chain of St. Peter, and of the sepulchre of our Lord, had disappeared before the second list was made; and some of those which are common to both lists are differently described; the sandals of Pope Sylvester are spoken of in the second list as relics of Pope Sylvester: the vest of St. Mary is described as her zone; and the portion of the sepulchre of St. Audeon is entered as relics of that saint. We have seen that many of the reliques were destroyed or lost by the fall of the west window in 1461^x: so that if we suppose the Martyrology to have been written before that year, and the Book of Obits after it, no difficulty will be created by the disappearance of certain reliques: but the most remarkable circumstance is, that in the earlier list no mention is made of the miraculous crucifix, which, nevertheless, was certainly in the possession of the Prior and Convent before the coming of the English, while the Baculus JESU, and the Superaltare marmoreum of St. Patrick are omitted altogether, or only introduced by a more recent hand under the general term of relics of St. Patrick.

This would lead to the conclusion, that the original list was compiled before these treasures were obtained, in some year subsequent to the death of Archbishop Gregory, to whom it alludes, and prior to the possession of the Baculus JESU, i. e. in some year between A. D. 1161 and 1180^y. This, however, does not explain the omission of all mention of the miraculous crucifix, which, from the statement of Giraldus^z, must certainly have been in possession of the cathedral before 1160;

we may therefore conclude, either that the crucifix was not considered as a relic, or else that the relics commemorated on the 31st of July, were only those which had been in the cathedral from its foundation, which had lain, as the words would seem to imply, without particular notice or respect ("in quadam capsā latuerunt"), from the time of Donatus to that of Gregory, when they were placed, with the box that contained them, in a suitable shrine, and a festival with nine lessons was appointed in their honour.

It is impossible, however, to suppose that the MS. from which the present Martyrology is printed, can possibly be as old as the year 1180; from its character, it could not have been written much before the end of the fourteenth century. It was, therefore, most probably transcribed at that period from a more ancient manuscript, which had, perhaps, become worn, or partly illegible from use; and the transcriber copied the list of reliques as he found it, without alteration or addition.

iv. Id. Aug. (Aug. 10), p. 144, S. Blanus, abbas. St. Blaan, from whom the episcopal city of Dunblane, in Scotland, takes its name, flourished in the sixth century^a. In the Martyrology of Aengus, he is thus commemorated at the 10th of August: "Blann can Chno-Γapao," "Blann the mild of Cenn-Garad;" and the gloss says:

" .i. Ερρυκ Κινο-Γαραδ: .i. Dumblaan " i.e. Bishop of Cenn Garad: i.e. Dun-

^a See Colgan, Aeta SS. p. 234, n. 12, where he refutes Dempster's assertion that St. Blaan died in 446, by shewing that 540 is the earliest date that can be assigned to his birth.

bendal church in the rough end of the Isle of Bute, of which St. Blaan was a native. See the strange story of his birth quoted from Dempster by Colgan, Acta SS. p. 233.

xiv. Kal. Sept. (Aug. 19), p. 147, S. Moethenus, confessor. St. Mochta, Bishop of Louth, died A.D. 534. His feast was also celebrated on the 24th of March, at which day Colgan has given his life. He is mentioned under both days in the Martyrology of Aengus. At Aug. 19 he is called "Mochta mōr manth pithbe," "Mochta the great good leader^b." The gloss says, "i. e. Ēppuc Lughbaid," "i. e. of Louth," and adds the following curious poem :

"Nip bo bochta	"Poverty abode not
Do Mochta Lughbaid iipp	With Mochta at Louth in his fort

x. Kal. Sept. (Aug. 23), p. 149, "S. confessor et episcopus Cogan." This is a mistake of the manuscript for Eogan, or Eugenius, Bishop of Ardstraw, now a parish church in the county of Tyrone, diocese of Derry. He died 23rd Aug., 618, or, according to others, 57^d. In the Martyrology of Aengus two different genealogies of this saint are given in a gloss written over his name, which is as follows :

"i. Mac Ērruic Ēpc Slane Eogan, ut periti ferunt. Occup ipē pīn Mochua	"i.e. The son of Bishop Ere of Slane was Eogan, ut periti ferunt. And he is Mo- chuia

^b Siébe is thus explained in O'Clery's Glossary, and it is used in the same sense in Cormac's Glossary. Siébe Cépbhall pop a céubairt. "Cerball was a general on his expedition." Or else perhaps piébe may mean long-lived, alluding to the tradition that Mochta lived 300 years.

viii. Kal. Sept. (Aug. 25), p. 140. "Eodem die Sancti Michee, episcopi et confessoris." Here the word episcopi has been inserted by a more recent hand. See p. xlvi, note^c. Stanihurst, speaking of the church dedicated to this saint in Dublin, calls him "St. Michan, or Mighan^e;" and in Archbishop Alan's Repertorium viride, it is entered as "Ecclesia de S^{to}. Mahano." In the Calendars prefixed to the Breviaries of Clondalkin and of St. John's church, preserved in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, this saint is called a bishop.

ii. Kal. Sept. (Aug. 31), p. 151, Edamus, episcopus et confessor. Bishop of Lindisfarne; see p. xlviii, note^d. His name is generally written Aidan.

iv. Non. Sept. (Sept. 2), p. 152, Lomanus, Colmanus, et Macnisis. These saints are noticed in the Martyrology of Aengus on the 3rd, not the 2nd of September, and the first of them is called Longarad, instead of Loman. His name, however, appears to have been Lon, which received the addition of Garad from the place of his abode. The verses in which Aengus has celebrated these saints are the following:

"Colman Droma feprta
Longarad gnuian alab,
Mac Nisse co milib,
O Chonoerib maratib."

"Colman of Drom-ferta
Lon-Garad, the beauteous sun,
Mac Nisse with thousands
From the great Condere [Connor]."

In the gloss Colman is said to have been of Cluain-ferta, or Clonfert Mugaine, in Offaley a district in Leinster^f:

"a. Cluana feprta Mugaine i n-Ulib

"i.e. of Cluain-ferta Mugaine in Of-

The gloss on Longarad is as follows :

thatas h-i tuairceinte Ofrange.” “i. e. of Sliabh Mairge^g, or of Magh Thuathat in the north of Ossory.”

And in a note there is preserved a singular legend of an adventure, in which St. Columbkille comes into collision with Longarad ; and leaves a malediction upon his books. It is characteristic of this class of legends to represent the saints as vying with each other, and the superior saint often as exhibiting a vindictive spirit in the exercise of his miraculous powers. In the present case the legend contains almost all we know of Longarad, and therefore it shall be here inserted :

Mac Nisse, the founder and first bishop of the see of Connor, died in the beginning of the sixth centuryⁱ. His original name was Aengus, and he was also called Coeman Bree, as we learn from the gloss, which gives two reasons why he was named Mac Nisse; first, because his mother's name was Cnes, or Nisse; and secondly, because he was the disciple of St. Patrick, and lay in his bed, from which he was called “Mac cnip Patrac,” “The son of St. Patrick's skin!”

This

The authorities vary in the date of his death from A.D. 500 to A.D. 513. See Harris's Ware, and Colgan, Acta SS.

p. 190; the Annals of Ulster and the Four Masters place his death in 513; the Annals of Tighernach in 510; and the Annals of Inisfallen (as published by Dr. O'Conor) in 500.

^j See the curious account of his lapse into sin in his youth, and the punishment

This gloss is as follows:

“A. Cneip in̄gen Chomhaide vo Dal Cethirn a mat̄air. Uel mac en̄ip Patraic h-e ap̄ ip̄ oc Patraic no altra, A. no chotlao.”

“i.e. [he was so called because] Cnes, daughter of Conchaid of Dal Cethirn, was his mother. Or Mae enis Patraie [i.e. the son of Patrick's skin], because it was with Patrick he was fostered, i.e. with him he used to sleep.”

Another gloss gives him a different genealogy:

“Caeman ðrecc, mac Nisi, mic Ne-maindir, mic Erc, mic Echaic Mun-dremair. Ocup̄ Fobrecc ann̄ a athar. Aengus domi a cet ann̄.”

“Caeman Bree, Mac Nisi, son of Ne-maindir, son of Erc, son of Echaidh Mun-dremair. And Fobree was the name of his father. But Aengus was his first name^k.”

The Annals of Tighernach, as published by Dr. O'Conor, make Fobree his brother, not his father:

“510 Kal. iiiim. Mac Nissi, i.e. Aengus, Bishop of Connor, quievit; ejus frater Fobraech dictus est; ejus mater Cnes was daughter of Conchaid of the Dal Ceteren, a qua nominatus est Mac Cneisse.”

This, however, is very probably a mistake of Dr. O'Conor, arising from confounding p̄p̄ with p̄p̄ in the manuscript. In the Dublin copy of inflicted on him by St. Patrick, Vita Trip. part ii. c. 139 (Trias Th. p. 146).

^k There is something defective in this genealogy, as Colgan has remarked, who gives it thus: “Maenessius, qui et Coemanus, filius Fabricii, filii Fiegi, filii Maili, &c. Colitur Conneriae, ubi fuit Episcopus, 3 Septemb. Aliqui gradus intermedii videntur desiderari in ejus genealogia.” Acta SS. p. 741.

^m “Kal. iii.” This indicates that the first of January fell on Wednesday, or that E was the Sunday letter of the year; a criterion which does not agree to the year 510, but does agree to the year 514, which is therefore most probably the true date of this bishop's death; and so Roderic O'Flaherty has correctly dated this entry in the MS. of Tighernach's Annals, preserved in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin (II. 1, 18).

of Tighernach, and also in the Chronicon Scotorum, where the same entry occurs verbatim, the word is manifestly pī, pater, not frater.

It is evidently by a mistake of the manuscript that these saints have been placed on the second, instead of on the third of September; and similar mistakes are very common in this Martyrology. Thus, for example, p. 78, Pope Hyginius is commemorated on the 10th, instead of the 11th of January. Again, p. 133, the whole paragraph beginning “Apvd Alexandriam,” and ending “ad urbem Uienam,” ought to be under the 7th, instead of the 6th of July. The whole entry under the Non. Julii, beginning “Apud Asiam minorem,” and ending “capite cesus est,” ought to be under 8 Id. Julii, as it is in Ado’s Martyrology: and the entry relating to St. Zeno, under this last day, beginning “Rome: ad guttam,” and ending “ducentorum et trium,” ought to be under Non. Julii, the day preceding. The paragraph relating to St. Guddenes, or Gundenes, on the 16 Kal. Aug. (p. 137), ought to be on the following day. The entries relating to St. Arsenius, St. Justa, and St. Rufina, ought to be under the 14 (instead of 15) Kal. August; and the whole of what now appears under 14 Kal. August ought to be transferred to the following day.

ii. Non. Sept. (Sept. 4) p. 155, S. Ultanus, episeopus et Confessor. Ultan was bishop of Ardbracecan, and died A. D. 656 or 657, at the age of 180, according to the Four Mastersⁿ. In the Martyrology of Aengus, at the 4th of September, this saint is commemorated in the following lines:

This alludes to a curious legend, recording the charitable care of Ultan to the children whose mothers died of the pestilence called Buidhe ⁿ See the Four Masters, ad an. 656, and vol. ii. p. 342, sq. The Annals of Tigher-Colgan Trias Th. p. 518, note 5. Lanigan, nach record his death under the year 657.

Buidhe Chonaill, or yellow plague, which is frequently spoken of in the Irish Annals of the seventh century^o. This legend is preserved in the following note, which is given from the copy of the Martyrology of Aengus contained in the Leabhar Breac, in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy :

“ .i. Oentair .i. pubairt .i. lenib na m-ban po mairb in buidhe Chonaill. Ipre oo gnoi Ultan pineda na m-bo oo thepcas 7 loimm do daib innrib, acup a cup na m-belaib, co m-bitir na noiom ic cluici imme. If aipe fum po toga Ultan i n-aboame ren Mochta Lughdano noo cuipeo fumfa penn efti.”

“ They unite, i.e. they make happy (or merry), viz., the infants of the women who died of the Buidhe Chonaill. What Ultan used to do was to cut off the teats of cows, put milk into them, and thus did he convey it into their mouths, so that the infants used to be playing around him. It was for that Ultan was elected to the abbacy of Old Mochta of Louth, from which Fursa had been previously removed.”

To this is added the following ancient and very curious poem :

“ Diathao a dalcan,
Do Ultan eo maoi baig bi;
Rop mudairg, rop mill, po traect,
Tri caegairt baige eo a laim chli.
Diamao deag oo beirao fmu

“ To feed his nurslings,
To Ultan was a great and constant work ;
He killed, destroyed, and stranded
If it had been his right (hand) he used against them,
Ultan the noble, at that time

^o It is supposed to have been called Buidhe Chonaill, from some eminent person named Conall, who died of it; but of whose memory no other record now remains.

The allusion is here evidently to the Danes, who first made a settlement on the eastern coast of Ireland at the close of the eighth or beginning of the ninth century. The author of the foregoing poem, therefore, must have lived after that event; but it is very probable that the destruction of a fleet of 150 ships, which he ascribes to the miraculous ban of St. Ultan, may have really taken place in the seventh century, during the life-time of that prelate; if so, we have no record in our ordinary historians of so early an attempt made by the northern pirates to effect a landing in Ireland. The satirical remark also on the clergy, as neglectful of ascetic observances, is very curious, as an early specimen of the jealousy between the regulars and seculars, and indicates that the author of the poem was a monk.

xiv. Kal. Nov. (Oct. 19), p. 168, S. Auxilius, episcopus et confessor. This saint does not occur in the Martyrology of Aengus. He was probably the same who was ordained a Bishop by St. Patrick, and who gave his name to Cill Ausille (i.e. Cella Auxili), now Killossy, near Naas^s. His death is recorded in the Annals of Ulster at the year 459, and in the Annals of the Four Masters at 454. Their words are :

"St. Auxilius the bishop died in Cill-Usaille, in Liffey, the 27th of August."

It does not appear, however, from any Irish authority, that this Auxilius, the nephew and disciple of St. Patrick, was commemorated on the 19th of October. Colgan has collected such notices of him as remain, at the 19th of March, and he tells us that in some Martyrologies lished Catalogue of the Irish MSS. belonging to the Royal Irish Academy.

gies his feast was celebrated on the 16th of April, and again on the 16th of September. See above, p. lviii, and p. 98 of the Martyrology.

ii. Kal. Nov. (Oct. 31), p. 171, Foilanus, martyr. He was the brother of St. Fursæns and of St. Ultan^t. We are told by Bede (who calls him Fullanus) that St. Fursæns, on adopting the life of an anchorite, committed his monastery to the care of St. Foilan.—Hist. Eccl., lib. iii. c. 19.

The history of his martyrdom may be briefly told in the words of Dr. Smith, the Editor of Bede :

“ Hic (se. Fullanus) mortuo Furso in Brabantiam eum fratre Ultano profectus, Fossense Monasterium condidit, ejusque cura Ultano relieta in Nivialensi Parthenone, S. Gertrudis virginis contubernalis aliquandiu vixit. Demum aliquando ad Fossense Mon. Rhodio Cameracensis Dioecesis oppido proximum, fratris visendi gratia tendens, in Sylva seu Villa Sonesia a nefario homine, cum tribus sociis interemptus est pr. Kal. Nov. circa A. 656, sepelitur in Fossensi monasterio^u.”

St. Foelan is thus noticed in the Martyrology of Aengus, at the 31st of October : “ Poelan co met methli,” i. e. “ Foelan, with his many labourers ;” and the gloss adds :

“ i. břatříř Fursa 7 martyř h-e.” “ i. e. he was the brother of Fursa, and a martyr.”

torum, &c." The "quatuor coronati" are here confounded with the five martyrs who suffered before them, and upon whose day their memory was celebrated. The story of the "quatuor coronati" is thus given by Ado, after having described the passion of the five Roman martyrs—Claudius, Nicostratus, Symphronianus, Castorius, and Simplicius :

"Eodem die natale sanctorum quatuor Coronatorum, id est, Severi, Severiani, Carpophori, et Vietorini. Hi cum impellerentur ad sacrificandum, reluentes, nec consensum impiis præbentes, perstiterunt in fide. Nuntiatum est autem Diocletiano imperatori : qui illico jussit ut ante simulacrum Æsculapii ieiibus plumbatarum cæsi deficerent. Quorum corpora jussit in platea canibus jactari, et jacuerunt ibi diebus quinque. Tunc pii Christiani venerunt, et collecta corpora sepelierunt in via Lavicana, miliario ab urbe tertio, in arenario, juxta corpora sanctorum martyrum Claudii, Nicostrati, Symphroniani, Castorii et Simplicii. Passi sunt autem sexto idus Novembbris post duos tamen annos passionis horum quinque martyrum. Cum autem nomina eorum minime reperirentur, statuit beatus Melchiades episcopus, ut anniversaria quatuor Coronatorum dies sub nominibus sanctorum quinque Martyrum recoleretur; intercurrentibus tamen annis, euidam sancto viro etiam nomina eorum revelata sunt. Festivitas vero ut fuerat statuta, celebris in aliorum Martyrum festivitate permansit, ac locus quatuor Coronatorum nomine insignis."

The Dublin Martyrology appears to have followed the decree of Melchiades with literal fidelity, and to have given the names of the five martyrs to the four Coronati.

v. Id. Nov. (Nov. 9), p. 176, S. Sincha, virgo. The Martyrology of Aengus notices this saint under the 9th of November, in the following words : "Peil Sinche co raoibhe," "The feast of Sinech the wealthy," which epithet is explained by the gloss a. mptutibui, to signify wealthy, or rich, in virtues. Another gloss tells us the name of her church :

"a. Cluan Leth-tengad a. nomen ec- i.e. "of Cluan Leth-tengad, which is clericea." the name of her church."

But this place is now unknown, unless it be the same as Kill Sinche, now Kilshine, near Navan, in Meath. Colgan says: “Coluntur quinque virgines Sinchæ vocatæ, 14 Feb., 28 Sept., 5 Oct., 9 Novemb., et 4 Decemb.”^v Our St. Sinech, or Sincha, however, was of the family of St. Kieran, and therefore probably of the diocese of Ossory. Her genealogy is given by Colgan, in the Appendix to the Life of St. Kieran (ad 5 Mart.) c. iii.^w, where, by a mistake of the press, she is called Finchea, instead of Sinchea.

xv. Kal. Dec. (Nov. 17), p. 179. S. Dulech confessor. In the Calendar, p. 71, this saint is called a bishop. He was of the family of St. Mochoemoc, of the race of Connac, and his descent is given by Colgan in the Appendix to the Life of St. Mochoemoc (ad 13 Mart.) c. iii.^x See above, p. xlvi, note ¹.

Ledwich (Antiq. of Ireland, p. 145) has asserted that Doulach, or Dulech, is a corruption of Olave; that the Irish saint called Dulech is a fictitious personage, who never existed; and that the ancient church of St. Doolagh, near Dublin, is in reality St. Olave's, built by the Danes in the eleventh century. In support of this opinion he quotes Harris, who, in his History of Dublin (p. 86), speaking of Tullock's lane, which ran from the end of Fishamble-street to the Wood-quay, had said, “It derived its name from St. Olave's, corruptly called St. Tullock's or St. Doolagh's church, which stood close to it in Fishamble-street.” But it does not follow, from the fact that St. Olave's church in Dublin was corruptly called St. Tullock's, that it was also called St. Doolagh's; or that St. Doolagh's in Fingal was likewise St. Olave's.

The

The Dublin church is certainly entered as St. Olave's in all the official authorities now remaining; and that it was also popularly called St. Tulloch's appears, as we shall see presently, from the authority of Stanihurst: but we have no proof that it was ever called St. Doolagh's; still less that St. Dulech's church, built in the place which the annotator of Aengus calls Clochar Duilech, was ever at any time called St. Olave's.

The letter of Pope Alexander III. to St Laurence O'Toole^y, written in 1179, makes no mention of the church of St. Olave's in Dublin; from which, however, it does not follow that no such church was then in existence, because that letter, most probably, mentions those churches only that were in the patronage of the Archbishop. St. Olave's church was certainly standing in 1530, at which date we find it taxed under the name of "Ecclesia sancti Olavi," with an annual payment of "xiid." to the Archbishop, in Alan's Register, fol. 75 a. In the Repertorium Viride of Archbishop Alan also, written about the same time, or a few years later, it is thus noticed:

"Ecclesia de S^{to}. Olavo. Pertinens ad Abbatiam S^{ti}. Augustini Bristol, quantum ad jus patronatus, quia antiquitus Rectoria extiterat, solvens nomine procriptionum dim. Marc. Sed hodie non valet ad sustentationem vnius Caplani."^z

The church was in existence also in 1539 (30 Hen. VIII.); for it is entered under the name of "S. Ullock's" in a valuation of the benefices

^y This letter stands first in the volume of Alan's Register in the possession of His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin. It has been published, with several inaccuracies, by Ussher, Sylloge, Epist. xlviii.

^z In the Crede Miki, an ancient register of the diocese of Dublin, of which there is a very imperfect paper copy in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, St. Olave's is said to be in the presentation of the Abbey of St. Augustine, but Bristol is not added; the entry is as follows, "Ecclesia de Sancto Olavo. Valet deductis omnibus cum centesima marci. Ab. Sci. Aug." This was probably its value in the fifteenth century.

benefiees and dignities of the Church, in the city and diocese of Dublin, taken in that year, and now preserved among the MSS. of Trinity College, Dublin. No value is affixed to it, nor any rector's name, from which we may infer that it was then probably in a state of dilapidation. And we know that very shortly afterwards it was destroyed; for Stanihurst, in his account of the churches of Dublin, speaks of it in the following words:

“ Saint Tullocke now prophaned. In this church in old time, the familie of the Fitz Simons was for the more part buried. The paroch was meared from the Crane castell, to the fish shambles, called the Cockhill, with Preston his innes, and the lanes thereto adioining, which scope is now vnted to Saint John his paroch^b. ”

From these authorities, therefore, it is plain that the church popularly called St. Ulloch's, or St. Tullock's, was the same to which the more official documents give the name of St. Olave's; and that it was situated at the lower or northern end of the present Fishamble-street, near the quay^c. The Danish saint, Amlaf, Olaf, Olaus, Olavus, was called

^b Description of Ireland, in Holinshed's Chron. vol. ii. p. 22.

^c Archdall (Monast. p. 173), on the authority of Archbishop King's manuscripts (now in the Library of the Royal Dublin Society), tells us, that there was an Abbey of St. Olave in Dublin, founded by the Bristol colony, to whom King Henry the Second granted the city of Dublin, “for such of their countrymen as should be inclined to embrace the order of St. Augustine;” and that they called it from the abbey of the same order and name in their native town. “ It stood,” he adds, “ in Castle-street, on the ground whereon Sir

James Ware's house was afterwards erected, and where the buildings now called Cole's Alley have since been raised; the passage to it was from Ship-street, where is yet to be seen, in the town wall, the mark of the gate called St. Augustine's Gate.” It is evident, however, from the authorities already cited, that St. Olave's was not an abbey, but a parish church. There is also a manifest inconsistency in the account above given of its situation; for if it were in Castle-street, on the ground where Sir James Ware's house stood, and if the passage to it was from Ship-street, how could it have been in called in England St. Oley, or corruptly St. Tooley; and it is just possible that this name might in Ireland have been confounded with St. Doolagh, as it was certainly hardened into St. Ullock, or St. Tullock^d. But of this we have no direct evidence.

Still less reason is there to insinuate, with Ledwich, that St. Dulech is the same as the Danish St. Olave. To make such an assertion, without the smallest evidence, except this confusion of names, and in opposition to our ancient Calendars and Martyrologies, is to undermine the evidence of all history. St. Dulech's day is the 17th of November; St. Olave's, the 29th of July; so that there is not the smallest pretence in favour of Ledwich's conjecture.

In

Cole's-alley, a lane which runs from Meath-street to Pimlico? There can be no doubt, however, that this is all a mistake, for all the authorities place the church and parish of St. Olave's at the lower or northern end of Fishamble-street, near the Wood-quay.

Mr. D'Alton, in his History of the County of Dublin (p. 930), has increased the confusion about St. Olave, by making the ruined church of Tullagh, or Tully, near Loughlinstown, to be of Danish origin, and dedicated to St. Olave. "It is supposed," he says (by whom he does not inform us), "to have been originally built by the Danes, and dedicated to their king and patron St. Olave, who, having been king of Norway, &c." This is evidently another form of Ledwich's theory about St. Doulagh being identical with St. Olave. But Mr. D'Alton ought to have known, that Tulach in Irish signifies a hill, a word extremely common in topographical names in Ireland.

The whole of this confusion, however, is instructive. One antiquary makes a guess, to explain the corruption of St. Olave to St. Tullock; another takes occasion from this to annihilate the Irish St. Dulech, making him the same as Olave; and a third transforms Tullagh into Olave; and dedicates the church there to the Danish saint. Strange alchemy of antiquarian ignorance; a hill is converted first into an Irish saint, and then into a Norwegian king. Tullagh is evidently the place called "Tullachnanephseop" (Tulach n̄ eppcop, collis episcoporum), which is mentioned in the Letter of Pope Alexander III. to St. Laurence O'Toole. (Ussher, Syll. Epist. xlvi). The ancient parish church at Tullagh was dedicated neither to St. Olave nor to St. Dulech, but to St. Bridget: Colgan, Tr. Th. p. 625.

^d There is still a Tooley-street in London, in which St. Olave's church stands.

In the Martyrology of Aengus, Dulech is entered at the 17th of November, where he is called “Dulech can Clochar,” “Dulech the mild of Clochar,” and a gloss adds :

"... o Clocháin Duilig, spia Fael-drum an-deapp. ... tab Sord Colaim Cille."

xi. Kal. Dec. (Nov. 21), p. 181. S. Columbanus abbas. In this notice of St. Columbanus the scribe has ignorantly written "enuio" for Bobio. He has also omitted a clause in his panegyric of the saint, and thus made nonsense of the sentence. In the printed copies of Ado's Martyrology it stands thus: "qui multorum cœnobiorum fundator, et innumerabilium pater extitit monachorum, &c." For the life and writings of Columbanus, see Fleming's Collectanea Sacra, and Butler's Lives of the Saints, at Nov. 21.

vii. Kal. Dec. (Nov. 25), p. 182. S. Finnchua, confessor. This saint appears to have been originally of Bangor, in the County Down, but finally settled at Brigown, near Fermoy, County Cork. He is thus noticed in the Martyrology of Aengus:

“Cúio h-i Croich can fepano Finnoch o Óri Dobuno.”

“He settled at Croich, a fair territory
Finnchu of Bri Gobhainn [Brigown].”

On Croich there is the following note:

¹⁴ "i. e. in Croich, the name of a river in Mugdorna [Cremorne]"^{ad.}

On Finnchu there is this gloss:

"i.e. Mochua Finn, in the territory of Fera Magh Fene [Fermoy]."

From this it would seem that he was originally called Chua, surnamed Finu, and by transposition Finn-Chua. A very ancient Life of this Saint in Irish, although unfortunately imperfect, is preserved in the Book of Lismore, of which there is a copy in the Library of the Royal Irish Academy.

v. Kal. Dec. (Nov. 27) p. 183. S. Secundus, called in Irish Sechnall, and in most of the Latin Lives of St. Patrick, Secundinus. He was the son of St. Patrick's sister, and his constant companion in his missionary labours. From St. Sechnall the town of Dunshaughlin (Domnach-Sechnaill, Basilica Secundini), in the County Meath, where he was buried, takes its name; he died A. D. 448. He was the author of the celebrated alphabetical hymn in praise of St. Patrick, so often mentioned in the life of that saint, which Colgan has published from an ancient manuscript of the Liber Hymnorum, now in the College of St. Isidore, at Rome^f.

In the Martyrology of Aengus St. Sechnall is thus commemorated at the 27th of November :

“Spucum ecnai co n-aime Sechnall mmo ap flarthi.”

“A stream of wisdom with nobility;
Sechnall the crown of our chief [i.e.
of St. Patrick].”

And a Latin gloss gives his descent thus :

“Sechnall filius Restitui Secundini;
7 de Longabardia devectus erat; 7 Se-cundinus nomen eius erat ibi.”

“i.e. Sechnall, filius Restitui Secundini; et de Longabardia devectus erat; et Se-cundinus nomen ejus erat ibi.”

Another gloss adds :

“a. o Domnach Sechnall; 7 mac
petchar Patrac h-e; a. mac do Li-

“i.e. “of Domnach Sechnaill; and he was the son of Patrick's sister, i.e. the son of Liaman.”

The Preface to the hymn of St. Secundinus already alluded to makes him the son of Darerea, not of Liaman: but on this subject see Colgan, “ Tóp oip vap cech tēp-muip,

Having thus concluded these—perhaps somewhat tedious—notices of the Irish saints commemorated in the present volume, the writer feels that some apology may be necessary for the number and length of his quotations from the Irish Martyrology ascribed to Aengus the Culdee. That work, however, is one of the most important primary sources of our information on the subject, and the present seemed a favourable opportunity for calling attention to its very curious and valuable contents. Its wild and singular legends, the illustrations it affords of the ancient topography of Ireland, the many notices it contains of manners and customs and obsolete superstitions, and its great importance to the Church History of Ireland during the whole period from the death of St. Patrick to the tenth century, must give it a very uncommon interest in the eyes of every one who can value the ecclesiastical literature of the middle ages. Perhaps the extracts which have here been made from it, may be the means of procuring for the Irish Archaeological Society the funds necessary for so great an undertaking as its publication, with a translation, and illustrative notes. We hear of individual noblemen and gentlemen placing thousands of pounds at the disposal of the literary clubs of Scotland, for the publication of Chartularies and other documents comparatively modern, and of little more than local value ; when will the rich and noble of Ireland exhibit an equal zeal for the preservation of the ancient learning and literature of their country ?

The only general remark that seems called for in reviewing the Dublin Martyrology is this : that the state of its text, the gross errors, not in the names of saints and places only, but in grammar and syntax, which it exhibits, are calculated to leave an impression upon the reader by no means favourable to the learning and intelligence of the good old priors and monks of the Convent of the Holy Trinity, Dublin. They were bound by their rule to the constant reading of this work in Chapter, and the fact that they could go on for years reciting it, without discovering or correcting any of the monstrous blunders it contains, seems scarcely consistent with the existence of any tolerable knowledge of Latin (to say nothing of ecclesiastical history) in any of their members, for a century at least before their dissolution.

The Martyrology is followed (pp. 194-237) by “Evangelia per totum annum in Capitulo dicenda,” containing short lessons to be recited in Chapter, from the Latin Fathers, on the Gospels for the holidays and Sundays throughout the year. They seem to be, in many cases, only the first one or two sentences of the lesson appointed to be read, especially in the portion containing the “Evangelia de sanctis,” p. 217, sq. This part of the volume is separately paged in a hand of the early part of the sixteenth century, and where the same lesson recurs, references are made, in the same hand, to the leaf where it is found at full length; these numbers are given in brackets in the margin, from p. 217 to the end.

Then follows the Rule of St. Augustine (pp. 237–240) or rather the first half of it; the chapters, De castitate, De fraterna correctione, De justa distributione, De doctrina sana, and De requisitis ad S. Religionem, being all omitted. And here we may notice another circumstance which gives rise to a suspicion that the convent of the Holy Trinity was not, for some time before its dissolution, in a very high or perfect state of discipline. The law of the order required that the Rule should be read through once in the week: “ut autem vos in libello, tanquam in speculo possitis inspicere, ne per oblivionem aliquid negligatur, semel in septimana vobis legatur.” The Prior and Convent of Christ Church, however, seem to have contented themselves with the weekly reading of the first half of the rule only; for, notwithstanding the omissions that have just been specified, the present copy of the rule is divided into six portions, one for each day of the week; so that, unless they read all the remainder from some other book on Sundays, the discipline of reading the whole rule once every week was not honestly or fully observed.

Books similar to that of which an Irish specimen is now, as is believed, for the first time, submitted to the learned world, were in common use in monasteries during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. For greater convenience the obituary, the martyrology, and the rule, were generally bound together in the same volumeⁱ, from which they were daily read in Chapter. The following extract from Cardinal Bona^j will give, in a few words, a correct account of the antiquity and origin of this class of liturgical books:

“ In

This will explain the Liturgical sentences and collects which occur in smaller type at the end of the Rule, p. 240, and which, in the MS., are written in a more recent hand of the fifteenth century. It will be seen, that they indicate a form of reading the Martyrology, which is, for substance, the same as that above described.

The Martyrology, however, continued to be in use (at least for a short time) after the dissolution of the conventional establishment, and after the church had been restored to its original constitution, which it still retains, of a Dean and Chapter of secular canons^a. This will appear from the following minute, taken from a MS. Chapter Book of the Cathedral, in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin^b:

“Yt is ordayneid and made that syxe mynor viccars appointed to saye or cellebrate Roode masse and singe Jhū masse in lente tyme, and one ladie masse dailye, that yf anie one of that nomber doe make defaulte or be absente in tyme of servinge his torne, the rest that doo attend the service to haue the devident of the absent emong them. ^a In 1538, the convent was converted into a secular church, consisting of a dean, a chaunter, chancellor, treasurer, and six vicars choral; to which, in 1544, Archbishop Browne added three prebends, viz. St. Michael's, St. Michan's, and St. John's. This alteration was, in fact, a restoration of the original constitution of this church, as it stood before Archbishop Laurence O'Toole converted its secular canons into canons regular of the order of Arras, in 1163. See Lord Leonard Gray's letter to Cromwell, 19 Jan. 1538, where he says: “It may pleas the same to be advertisid that the hows callid Christes Churche within the Kinges citie of Dublin, is scituate in the highe place of the same, like as Poules in London, where the comen congregations of Parlia-mentes and greate Counsailles hath bene used to be celebratid; being visitid by the Kinges Comyssioners, was founde origanly to be foundid a secular church metropolytane. And they shall execute the Queere dailie, as well Sondayes as Fferiall daies and all principall Fleasts. And likewyse yf it shall hapen anie of the said masses to be vndone by negligencie, they to incurre the penaltie aforsaid to be yeven to the vicars boord. Also the three dignities shall execute the service all double feasts and magis duplex by the yeare, and singe the masse of the same. The Deane knowinge his charge."

This minute is signed by "Hughe Dublin, Chauncellor; Thomas Lockwood, Deane; Christopher Rathe, Chauntor; Jo. Harman, Chauncellor; E. Keedyth, Thesaurer; Xpofer More, Deanes Viccar; Michaelis Dartiz, Chauntor's Viccar; Edw. Elles, Chauncellor's Viccar; Nich. Corr, Thesaurers Viccar; Ro. Lydd, prebend; Tho. More, pre-

^p The name of an ecclesiastical habit is here evidently applied to denote the office of which that habit was the distinguishing mark. And it is also mentioned again in the same sense in another regulation of the chapter: "Item, that no prebend, or Calaber Ames, or other viccar, shall walke in the churche in tyme of divine service without the abyte." The amice (almucium, or almutia, almiacum, in French aumusse), is thus defined by Du Cange: "Amiculum, seu amictus quo canonici caput humerosque tegebant;" it is not to be confounded with the amictus, now commonly called amice, which was used by all priests, and also by bishops, as well as by the canons of cathedrals. The amictus was also called amitus and amita, and is probably intended by "the abyte," in the regulation just quoted. The writer is unable to explain why the amice, or almucium, was called "calaber." The term probably denotes either the colour or the material of which the vestment was made, which either came, or was supposed to come from Calabria. Du Cange quotes from Rymer, tom. vii. p. 356, col. 2: "Indumentum federatum Calabre," where he supposes Calabre to mean "Pelles ex Calabria." And again (sub v. Calabrinus) he quotes "Stat. MSS. eccl. Tull. in unum collecta ann. 1497, fol. 10. r^o." where the following rule occurs: "Vicarii vero et capellani seuriolis nigris communibus, non Calabrinis, [utantur]?" from which we may, perhaps, infer, that some particular kind of fur was intended.

bend; Sir Wa. Jordan, Vycar; Sir W. Dermot, vicar; Nicholas Beg, Conduct." These regulations, therefore, were made during the archiepiscopate of Hugh Corwen, Archbishop of Dublin, and Lord Chancellor of Ireland, and during the deanery of Thomas Lockwood, who governed the Cathedral from the 1st of December, 1543, to his death, in April, 1565^p.

Obits continued to be entered in the Necrologium long after the dissolution of the monastic establishment. And it is remarkable, that those who had received letters of fraternity from the Prior and Convent were entered as "frater (or soror) nostre congregacionis," by the Dean and Chapter. See, for example, the obits of Richard Forster, "frater nostre congregacionis" in 1548 (p. 35); of John Dowgan, "aurifaber frater nostre congregacionis" in 1550 (p. 7); of Alicia Cruce, "soror nostre congregacionis," and of Alicia Byrrsall, "soror, &c.," in 1551 (p. 50); and of Patrick Barnewell, "de gratia Dei frater, &c.," in 1552 (p. 50). Many other obits were entered during this period, of persons who are not styled fratres or sorores, as will be seen from the dated obits; the latest of these is the obit of Rosina Holywood, wife of Arland Usher, who gave a silver cup of twenty ounces weight, for the common table of the vicars, and died 20th June, 1558 (p. 29). Other entries made after the suppression of the convent, will be found in the following pages of the present volume; under the years 1546, p. 20; 1547, pp. 8, 28, 45, 49; 1548, p. 46; 1549, p. 24; 1550, pp. 13, 15, 18, 33; 1552, p. 31; 1554, p. 19; 1556, p. 54; and 1557, pp. 7, 9, 52.

It appears also, from the following entry in the Diary of Sir Peter Lewis, Chantor of the Cathedral, which is bound up in the volume, already quoted, in the Library of Trinity College (Class. E. Tab. 3, No. 21), that the practice of ringing the month's mind was kept up in the case of Christopher Rathé, who signed the foregoing document as Chaunter, and who appears to have died in 1565 :

1565. 17 Sept. "Not. that Mr. Richard Fyan gave me halffie a boffe to the massons for Sir Crystoffyr Rathé's soule, and I most ryngē his mynd wth the belles v pelle."

And yet this was subsequent to an order of the Lords Justices for the discontinuance of certain holidays, as we learn from the following note in the same Journal, under the date of Wednesday, 20th June, 1565:

"Note that this present day Sir Nicolas Arnold L. Justes send to M^r. Fyane the mayre of Dublin, be the consayll of my Lord Primat Adam Loftus, and my Lorde of Myeth Hywghe Brady, ii of the Quenys hey comyssyoners, send to all the paryshe churches in Dublin that they schuld not kepe corpus xpi day hally day, but that ewry man and womane schuld work as they dide ewry other worker day in the wyeke, a pone a great penallytie and dyspleassure of thecouncil. Tady Hellyer wroght in the sklattynge of the church this thursday, and wth hym iij workmen in his taske."

And yet on the following day, Thursday, 21st of June, we find this note :

"Not. that this corpus xpi day I had no workmen of the massons with me to work, kept hally."

And on the 25th of August following:

"Saturday 25 of Augoust, Sancte Myghan's day, hally day wth all my massons, except Donyll ogge and his boy wroght all this day hewing of } xij.
stonys in the churche tyll night, the waggis per diem," }

From these entries, therefore, we may fairly conclude that the Book of Obits and Martyrology ceased to be used in the Church of the Holy Trinity in or shortly before the year 1565.

The writer of the foregoing observations cannot conclude without expressing his thanks to His Grace the Archbishop of Dublin, for access to the original volume of Archbishop Alan's Register, which is preserved amongst the muniments of the See: also to the Dean and Chapter of Christ Church, for a most liberal permission to examine all the existing records of the cathedral, a permission, however, of which his other avocations allowed him to avail himself only to a very limited extent. The thanks of the Irish Archaeological Society are likewise due to the Provost and Senior Fellows of Trinity College, Dublin, for the use of the original manuscript from which the present volume has been published.

The writer has further to express his regret, that in consequence of Mr. Crosthwaite's removal to London, the duty of completing the present volume, by the addition of these introductory remarks, devolved upon him. The book having been announced by the Council for the year 1843, before they foresaw the delay that has unavoidably taken place in its publication, it became necessary to complete it with as little further loss of time as possible; and the foregoing observations have, therefore, been put together with a haste, which deprives them of much of the value which might have been given them, had time permitted a more extended and deliberate examination of accessible authorities. In the translation and correction of the Irish authorities, much valuable assistance was received from Mr. O'Donovan and Mr. E. Curry.

Since the foregoing sheets went to press it has been observed, that in the list of Irish saints given pp. xliii–lxxxvi, the name of Mel, first bishop of Ardagh, has been inadvertently omitted, although he is

is noticed both in the Calendar and in the Martyrology, at the 6th of February (8 Id. Feb.)

He is said to have been the son of Darerca, who is called the sister of St. Patrick, i.e. as Lanigan thinks, not his real sister, but his sister in religion, according to "the very ancient practice of designating religious women by the name of sisters"; which, he adds, was probably "the cause of mistaking some pious ladies, who lived in the time of St. Patrick, for real sisters of his".^r Certain it is, that St. Patrick, in his epistle against Coroticus, plainly intimates that none of his relations had accompanied him into Ireland^s; so that we must either doubt whether Darerca was his actual sister, or else deny the truth of what Jocelyn tells us, that Mel, Moch [an error for Rioch], and Munis, the sons of his sister Darerca, attended St. Patrick in his missionary labours.^t

The tradition, however, is, that St. Mel was the nephew of St. Patrick, and that he was by him consecrated bishop of Ard Achadh, now Ardagh, about the year 454, where he built a monastery, over which he presided himself^u, in the double character of bishop and abbot, according to the custom of the primitive Irish Church.

Many legends of him, from the lives of St. Patrick and St. Brigid, have been collected by Colgan in his life of St. Mel^v. In the life of St. Brigid, attributed to St. Ultan, Mel and Melchu are spoken of as having been bishops before they arrived in Ireland, and as having come from Britain^w. They are said by some authorities to have been

“Bishop Moel, a royal diadem.”

And the gloss records the singular legend, that St. Brigid, of Kildare, was by him consecrated a bishop; it is as follows :

“ι. in Αρδ Αχαδ i Τεβέα ατα ερποc
Μοελ. Ομερπα ριυp Ρατραις ματεωp

“i. e. Bishop Moel is in Ard Achadh in Teffia. Darerca, sister of St. Patrick, was Bishop Moel's mother: and it was he that gave degrees to Brigid, and they were the degrees of a bishop, and they are on her successor after her.”

This strange story, “futilis fabella,” as Colgan calls it, is supposed by him to have originated in a confusion between Confirmation and Orders; for we learn from the Calendar of Cashel, that it was from St. Mel that St. Brigid received confirmation: “Sanctus Mel est, qui sacramentum confirmationis Beatæ Brigidæ contulit^y.”

The fable, however, seems to have been framed with some design of exalting the authority of St. Brigid's successors, as the concluding words of the above extract manifestly imply. And this is still more evident from the following curious note, which occurs at the end of the month of February, in the copy of the Martyrology of Aengus, which is preserved in the Leabhar Breac:

“Rob ail οm νο δημιγιτ γρασα αιθ-

Lanigan doubts this, and supposes Mel and Melchu to be one and the same.—

to Brigh Ele^z, accompanied by seven nuns, having heard that bishop Moel was there. And when they arrived there, they found that the bishop was not there, but that he had gone into the country of the Hy-Niall. She set out, therefore, on the next morning, and, guided by Mac Caille, over Monaid Fathnigh^a. Brigid caused the bog to become a fine grassy plain for them. When they came near to the place where bishop Moel was, Brigid said to Mac Caille that he should place a veil upon her head, so that she should not appear without a veil in the presence of the clergymen, and that is the veil which is here commemorated. When she had arrived, then a column of fire ascended from her head to the roof^b of the church. When bishop Moel then saw that, he inquired who those nuns were. Mae Caille said, this is the illustrious nun of the Lagenians, i. e. Brigid. She is welcome, said bishop Moel: it was I, said he, that prophesied of her while in her mother's womb, and it is I that shall confer degrees upon her. On a time that bishop Moel came to the house of Dubthach, ^z Brigh Ele, sometimes called Cruachan Brigh Ele, is a well known hill in the King's County, on the frontiers of Offaly and Fertullagh. It is now generally called Broghan Hill, and contains slight traces of the ruins of the church of St. Mac Caille, who put the veil over St. Brigid's head. The situation of this hill was unknown to Lanigan, and even to Colgan.

thach^e, he saw Dubthach's wife in grief, and asked the woman what ailed her.
I have cause of grief, said she, because Dubthach regards more the bondmaid that performs ablutions for you, said she, than he does me. Marvel not at that, said bishop Moel, for thy seed shall serve the seed of the bondmaid,
i. e. Brigid. What did the nuns come for, said bishop Moel. To have the degree of repentance conferred upon Brigid, said Mac Caille. Then the degrees were conferred upon Brigid, and it was the degrees of a bishop that bishop Moel conferred on her. It was then that Mac Caille placed a veil upon the head of Brigid. So that from that time the successor of Brigid is entitled to have the degrees of a bishop conferred upon her;
and while the degree was being conferred, Brigid was holding the leg of the altar in her hand. And there were seven churches burned and that leg in them, and it was not burned, i. e. sed servata est per gratiam Brigidae. Dieunt alii, that it is in Fer-Tulach, that church is to which bishop Moel went. Ut alii putant."

Here it is distinctly stated, that Brigid went to St. Mel to have “the degree of repentance” (grado atshrigé, gradum paenitentiae), conferred upon her, and that St. Mel, by some mistake, or as the legend would seem to intimate, by a divine impulse, consecrated her a bishop! The word gradus is commonly used in mediaeval Latinity to denote ecclesiastical rank or order; but it does not appear very

very clearly whether in the legend before us, “gradus pœnitentia” signifies what we would now call “taking the veil.” At all events, whether the writer meant to say, that Bridgid went to bishop Mel with this purpose, or, as is not improbable, for confession, certain it is, that by the words spada eppuc, “the degrees of a bishop,” he did not intend confirmation, as Colgan conjectures^d; for he plainly asserts, that Bridgid was consecrated a bishop, and that her successors were thereby also entitled to receive episcopal authority. It is not improbable, however, that the tale may have originated in the way Colgan suggests; and that it was taken advantage of to exalt the dignity of the abbess of Kildare, which at least will prove the antiquity of the story.

The foregoing note contains also some other legends, in a somewhat different form from that in which they are usually given by the biographers of St. Bridgid. Mac Caille, who is said by Cogitosus^e to have been the bishop from whom St. Bridgid received the veil, is there spoken of as if he were her attendant or servant, and not as an ecclesiastic, or at least not as a bishop; and the veil, which she directed him to throw over her, is said to have been intended as a mark of respect to the bishop and clergy, into whose presence she was about to be admitted. In this part of the story, however, there seems some confusion, as if two different versions of it were combined together; for in another place Mac Caille is said to have placed the veil upon her head after she had received “the degree” from bishop Mel.

^e Vita S. Brigid, c. 3. The life ascribed to St. Ultan (cap. 18), represents Mac Caille as the disciple of St. Mel, who announces to his master the arrival of St. Bridgid and her companions, and says to St. Mel, “Eece virgines sanctæ foris sunt, que volunt velamen virginitatis de tua manu accipere.”

To return, however, to the history of the bishop himself. Little more is known of him except the date of his death, which is given by the Four Masters under the year 487, thus :

“S. Mel eaprog Aproachaino-Tearba” “S. Mel, bishop of Ardagh, in Teffia, Deinceipul Patricie o'ecce.” a disciple of Patrick, died.”

The Annals of Ulster also record his death under the same year, in Latin, thus :

“Kal. ian. 6^a. f. l. 2. A. D. ccclxxxvij. (iii. de. xcii). Quies Sancti Meil episcopi in Ard Achuth.”

It is well known, however, that these annals are dated a year behind the common Christian era, an error which the chronological characteristics of the years which they themselves supply, often enable us to correct. Here the annalist marks the year by “Kal. ian. 6^a. f.” i.e. the calends of January fell on the sixth feria, or Friday, and therefore, the Sunday letter was C, a criterion which agrees to the year 488, not to 487. We may, therefore, fix 488, with Ussher and Ware, as the date here really intended by our annalists^f.

St. Mel is said by Jocelin to have written a book, De Virtutibus et Miraculis S. Patricii, during the life-time of the saint, which is, however, lost^g.

As a suitable termination to this Introduction, there is annexed a wood-cut of the seal used by Stephen de Derby, Prior of Christ Church in the fourteenth century. It has been drawn in outline by Dr. Aquilla Smith, from an impression in very perfect preservation annexed to a deed, dated May 14th, 1379, in the possession

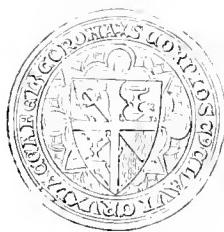

^f The letters “l. 2,” in the above entry, denote that 2 was the lunar cycle of the year, according to the computation adopted by the annalist; and the date within brackets, 4692, is the year of the world

sion of the Prebendary and Churchwardens of the parish of St. John the Evangelist, Dublin; for access to which, and to some other similar documents, the writer has to return thanks to the Rev. Edward Abbott. Archdall has committed a double mistake in stating that Stephen de Derby died in 1377, and in quoting the Book of Obits as authority for the year of his death. Monast. Hib. p. 164. It is evident from the deed here referred to, that he was living in 1379; and the Book of Obits mentions his death under the 6 Kal. Aug. (see p. 34), but assigns no year. The shield on the seal contains the instruments of our Saviour's Passion, and the legend is simply their names: SCORPIO SC^U. CLAVI CRUX LANCEA FEL ET CORONA.

Sed tantum ydola destruendo, aras ac eorum templa ritus cultusque subuertendo, uirum fortem, id est, dyabolum alligauit; et arma eius ac spolia abstulit, id est, gentilium animas diaboli cultu ad seruictium Christi perduxit. Vnde etiam animo et summa intentione persecutiones sustinendo martyr effectus, apostolus et predictor in conuertendo gentis ad fidem constitutus, episcopus baptizando, ungendo, crismatizando, et episcopos, presbiteros, diaconos, ceterosque gradus ecclesie ordinando perfectus; uigilias, ieumia, et larga elemosinarum opera, ceteraque queque secundum apostolum episcopatui conueniunt, omnia in omnibus factus, ut omnes inheri-faceret exercendo, multiplicem uel eciam centuplicem ut ita dicam, coronam inter uiginti quatuor seniores accepit. Vnde eciam non solum in cimiterio in quo sanctum eiusdem beati Patricii corpus sepulture traditum fuerit, uerum eciam in omni loco ubique que fuerit ipsius nomen inuocatum, mirande uirtutes et clara mireacula huc clarius resulgent. Sed cui humana fuerant obsequia dengata, celestia fuerunt munera concessa. Nam nix desuper puelle corpus corpus asperit, ut quod ex utraque parte oppositus ignis ardoris sui incendio conflagrauerat, niuali candore coopertum diuina gratia dealbaret. Sicque a Christianis reuerenter ablata, et deuotione debita sub sacro altari deposita, miraculorum gloria illustratur. Deinde naui imposta cum ducentis uiris, et quingentis uiginti feminis, ut demergerentur in mari, perlata est ad insulas Palmarias. Vbi per manus et pedes extensa, et ligata ad palos fixos, et circa medium eius ignis accensus est, in quo martirium consummavit. Et omnes, qui cum illa uenerant, uariis interfectionibus martirium celebrarunt. Inter quos omnes unus erat, nomine Eutichianus, innocentissime nature, qui sublatis sibi, cum diues esset, omnibus facultatibus, tacuit, nichil cogitans, nichil que metuens, nisi hoc, ne facultates ac diutias fidei perderet. Interfecto autem Dominicano, et extis eius ob nimiam crudelitatem recisis, sub imperatore Nerua rediit Ephesum. Et quia concussam, absente eo, per hereticos uidit ecclesie fidem, confessim hanc descriptam in euangelio suo uerbi dei eternitate stabiluit. Ibique usque ad Traianum principem perseverans, totas Asie fundauit rexisque ecclesias. Et confectus senio, sexagesimo octauo post passionem domini anno, mortuus est, et iuxta eandem urbem sepultus. Eodem die; ordinatio episcopatus sancti Iacobi fratris domini. Qui ab apostolis primus ex Iudeis Ierosolimis est episcopus ordinatus, et medio pasea martirio coronatus.

- A. Rome; natalis sancti Siluestri pape, Donati, Pauli, Senonis. Passio sancti Columbe uirginis. Que superato igne, gladio cesa est, sub Aureliano imperatore. Cartagine; Celestini, Saturnini.

IN illo tempore : cum esset desponsata mater Ihesu Maria Ioseph, antequam conuenirent, imuenta est in utero habens de spiritu sancto. Cum desponsata esset mater Ihesu Maria Ioseph. Que fuit necessitas ut desponsata esset Maria Ioseph? nisi propterea qnatius hoc sacramentum diabolo celeretur, et ille malignis fraudis commenta aduersus desponsatam uirginem nulla penitus innenisset.

In illo tempore : Pastores loquebantur ad iuniorum, Transeamus usque Bethleem, et uideamus hoc uerbum quod factum est, quod dominus ostendit nobis. Nato in Bethleem domino Saluatore sicut sacra euangelii testatur historia; pastoribus qui in regione eadem erant uigilantes uigilias noctis super gregem suum, angelus domini cum magna luce apparuit, exortumque in mundo solem iusticie, non solum celestis uoce sermonis, uerum eciam claritate lucis diuine astruxit.

In principio erat uerbum, et uerbum erat apud deum, et deus erat uerbum. Quia temporalem mediatoris dei et hominum, hominis Ihesu Christi, natuitatem, que hodierna die facta est, sanctorum uerbis euangelistarum, Mathei nidelice, et Luce, manifestatam cognouimus, libet etiam de uerbi diminitatis eius eternitate, in qua patri manet semper equalis, beati Iohannis euangeliste dicta scrutari, qui singulari priuilegio mernit castitatis, ut ceteris alieis diuinitatis ipsius caperet simul et patesceret archanum.

In illo tempore : Dicebat Ihesus turbis Iudeorum, et principibus sacerdotum. Ecce, ego mitto ad uos prophetas, et sapientes, et scribas, et ex illis occidetis et crucifigetis. Hoc quod ante dixeram, uos implete mensuram patrum uestrorum, ad personam domini pertinere, eo quod occidendum esset ab eis ; potest et ad discipulos eius referri.

In illo tempore. Dixit Ihesus Petro : Sequere me. Conuersus Petrus, uidit illum discipulum, quem diligebat Ihesus, sequentem, qui et receibuit in cena super pectus eius. Lectio sancti euangelii, que nobis lecta est, fratres mei, tanto maiori a nobis intentione debet per singula uerba pensari, quanto magna gratie superne dulcidine tota redundat. Commendat enim nobis beatissimus euangelista et apostolus Iohannes, priuilegium amoris precipui, quo ceteris amplius meruit a domino honorari

In illo tempore : Angelus domini apparuit in somnis Ioseph, dicens : Surge, et accipe puerum et matrem eius, et fuge in Egiptum, et esto ibi, usque dum dicam tibi. Futurum est enim, ut Herodes querat puerum ad per dendum eum. De morte pretiosa martyrum Christi innocentium, sacra nobis est, fratres karissimi, euangelii lectio recitata, in qua tamen Christi omnium martyrum pretiosa est mors designata. Quod enim paruuli occisi sunt, significat per humilitatis meritum ad martirij perueniendum gloriam, et in qua, nisi conuersus fuerit quis, et effectus ut paruulus, non possit animam dare pro Christo.

In illo tempore : Cum consuminati essent dies octo, ut circumcideretur puer, uocatum est nomen eius Ihesus, quod uocatum est ab angelo, priusquam in uto conciperetur. Sanctam uenerandamque presentis diei memoriam, paucis quidem uestibus euangelista comprehendit, sed non pauca celestis misterii uirtute grauidam reliquit. Exposita namque natuitate dominica, cuius gaudia mox angeli dignis laudibus extulerunt, pastores deuota uisitatione celebrarunt, omnes, qui tune audiere, mirati sunt, nos quoque pro modulo nostro, prout potuimus, proxime, domino largiente, congruis missarum ymnorumque sollempniis exegimus, subiuixit atque ait : Et post quam consummati sunt dies octo, ut circumcideretur puer, uocatum est nomen eius Ihesus.

In illo tempore : Erant pater Ihesu et mater admirantes super his que dicebantur de illo. Congregemus in unum ea, que in ortu domini Ihesu dicta scriptaque sunt de eo, et tunc scire poterimus singula queque digna esse miraculo. Quamobrem mirabitur et pater. Sic enim appellatus est et Ioseph, quia nutricia eius fuit. Mirabatur et mater, super omnibus qui dicebantur de illo.

Cvm natus esset Ihesus in Bethleem Iude in diebus Herodis regis, ecce magi ab oriente uenerunt Ierosolimam, dicentes : Vbi est qui natus est rex Iudeorum ? Vidimus enim stellam eius in oriente, et uenimus adorare eum. Sicut ex lectione euangelica, fratres, audiatis, celi rege nato, rex terre turbatus est, quia nimirum, terrena altitudo confunditur, cum celstido celestis aperitur.

Edmondus Hedyan. anno dⁱ. M^o.cccc. nong^{mo}.

In illo tempore : Venit Ihesus a Galilea in Iordanem ad Iohannem, ut baptizaretur ab eo. Lectio sancti Euangelii, quam modo, fratres, audiuius, magnum nobis, et in domino et in seruo, dat perfecte humilitatis exemplum. In domino quidem, quia cum sit dominus deus, non solum ab homine seruo baptizari, sed eciam ipse ad hunc baptizandus uenire dignatus est : in seruo autem, quia eum sciret preeursorum se ac baptistam sui saluatoris esse destitutum, memor tamen proprie fragilitatis, iniunctum sibi humiliter excusauit officium. dicens : Ego debeo a te baptizari, et tu uenis ad me.

In illo tempore : Cum esset Ihesus annorum xxicim ascendentibus illis Ierosolimam, secundum consuetudinem diei festi, consummatisque diebus, cum redirent, remansit puer Ihesus in Ierosalem, et non cognoverunt parentes eius. Aperte nobis est, fratres karissimi, sancti Euangelii lectio recitata, neque opus est, ut in ea quid expōndo, sed potius ammonendo, loquamur.

In illo tempore : Nuptie facte sunt in Chana Galilee, et erat mater Ihesu ibi. Quod dominus noster atque saluator ad nuptias uocatus, non solum uenire, sed et miraculum ibidem, quo conuias letificaret, facere dignatus est, exceptis sacramentorum figuris celestium, etiam iuxta literam, fidem recte credentium confirmat.

In illo tempore : Cum descendisset Ihesus de monte, secute sunt eum turbe multe. Et ecce leprosus ueniens, adorabat eum, dicens :

Domine, si uis, potes me mundare. Docente in monte domino, discipuli uenerunt ad eum, sicut alacres, sicut domestici, sicut proximi, sicut amici, uel fratres. Ideo ait et dominus ad eos. Vos estis sal terre, et uos estis lux mundi.

In illo tempore : Ascendente Ihesu in nauiculam, secuti sunt eum discipuli eius. Et ecce motus magnus factus est in mari, ita ut nauicula operiretur fluctibus. Ingrediente domino in nauicula, secuti sunt eum discipuli eius; non imbecilles sed firmi, et stabiles in fide, mansueti et pii, spernentes mundum, non dupplici corde sed simplici. Hii ergo secuti sunt eum, non tamen gressus eius sequentes, sed magis sanctitatem comitantes, et iusticiam eius sectantes.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis. Simile factum est regnum celorum homini, qui seminauit bonum semen in agro suo. Dimittit ergo turbam Ihesus, et domum reuertitur, ut accedant ad eum discipuli sui, et interrogent, quod populus merebatur audire, nec poterat. Nam dimissis turbis, uenit in domum, et accesserunt ad eum discipuli eius dicentes : Ediscere nobis parabolam zizanniorum agri.

In illo tempore : postquam impleti sunt dies purgationis Marie, secundum legem Moysi, tulerunt Ihesum in Ierosalem, ut sisterent eum domino. Sollempnitatem nobis hodierne celebritatis, quam, quadragesimo dominice nativitatis die, debitum ueneramus officiis, maxime eiusdem domini nostri saluatoris, simul et intemeratae genitricis eius, humilitate dedicatam, sacra euangelii lectio designat, exponens eos, qui nichil legi debebant, implendis se legalibus per omnia subdidisse decretis.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis parabolam hanc. Simile est regnum celorum homini patrifamilias, qui exiit primo mane conducere operarios in vineam suam. In explanatione sua multa ad loquendum sancti Euangelii lectio postulat, quam uolo, si possum, sub breuitate perstringere, ne nos et extensa processio et prolixa expositio uideatur onerare. Regnum celorum patri familias simile dicitur, qui ad excolandam vineam suam operarios conduceit.

In illo tempore: cum turba plurima conuenirent ad Ihesum, et de ciuitatibus properarent ad eum, dixit per similitudinem. Exit qui seminat, seminare semen suum. Lectio sancti Euangelii quam modo, fratres karissimi, audistis, expositionem non indiget, sed ammonitionem. Quam enim per semet ipsam ueritas exposuit, hanc discutere humana fragilitas non presunit. Set est quod sollicite, in hac ipsa expositione dominica, pensare debeatis, quia si nos uobis semen uerbum, agrum mundum, uolucres demonia, spinas diuitias significare dicemus, ad credendum nobis forsitan mens uestra dubitaret.

In illo tempore: Assumpsit Ihesus duodecim discipulos suos, et ait illis: Ecce ascendimus Ierosolimam, et consummabuntur omnia, que scripta sunt per prophetas de filio hominis. Redemptor noster, preuidens ex passione sua discipulorum animos perturbandos, eis longe ante, et eiusdem passionis penam, et resurrectionis sue gloriam, predicit, ut cum moriente, sicut predictum est, cernerent, etiam resurrectum non dubitarent. Sed quia carnales adhuc discipuli, nullo modo ualebant capere uerba misterii, uenitur ad miraculum.

In illo tempore: Ductus est Ihesus in desertum a spiritu, ut temptaretur a diabolo. Et eum iejunasset quadraginta diebus et quadraginta noctibus, postea esuriit. Dubitari a quibusdam solet, a quo spiritu sit Ihesus ductus in desertum, propter hoc quod subditur, assumpsit eum diabolus in sanctam ciuitatem, et rursus assumpsit eum in montem excelsum.

In illo tempore: Egressus Ihesus, secessit in partes Tyri et Sidonis. Et ecce, mulier Chananea, a finibus illis egressa, clamabat dicens: Miserere mei domine fili David; filia mea male a demonio uexatur. Mira res! Ecce mulier, caput peccati, arma diaboli, expulsio paradisi, delicti mater, corruptio legis antique. Ecce mulier ueniebat ad dominum Ihesum: mulier alienigena, de gentibus nouella plantatio. Mirum negotium!

In illo tempore: Erat Ihesus eiciens demonium, et illud erat mutum, et cum cieciisset demonium, locutus est mutus, et admirata sunt turbe. Demoniacus iste, apud Matheum, non solum mutus, sed et cecus esse narratur, curatusque a domino, ita ut loqueretur et uideret. Tria generalia signa simul in uno homine perpetrata sunt. Cecus uidet; mutus loquitur; possessus a demone liberatur.

In illo tempore: Abiit Ihesus trans mare Galilee, quod est Tyberiadis, et sequebatur eum multitudo magna, quia uidebant signa, que faciebat, super hiis qui infirmabantur. Qui signa et miracula domini ac saluatoris recte, cum legunt uel audiunt, accipiunt, non tam in his, quod foris stupeant, attendunt, quam quid horum exemplo ipsi interioris agere, quid in his misticum perpendere debeant, inspiciunt.

In illo tempore: dixit Ihesus turbis. Quis ex uobis arguit me de peccato. Si ueritatem dico, quare non creditis mihi? Qui est ex deo, uerba dei audit. Pensate, fratres karissimi, mansuetudinem dei, relaxare peccata uenerat, et dicebat. Quis ex uobis arguet me de peccato.

In illo tempore: Cum appropinquasset Ihesus Ierosolimis, et uenisset Bethphage ad montem Oliueta, tunc misit duos discipulos suos, dicens eis: Ite in castellum quod contra uos est, et statim inuenietis asinam alligatam, et pullum cum ea. Soluite et adducite mihi. Mediator dei et hominum, homo Christus Ihesus, qui pro humani generis salute passurus, de celo descenderat ad terras; appropinquante hora passionis, eiusdem appropinquare uoluit loco passionis, ut eciam per hoc claresceret, et quia non inuitus sed sponte pateretur.

In illo tempore: Maria Magdalene, et Maria Iacobi, et Salome, abuentes, emerunt aromata, ut uenientes ungerent Ihesum. Et ualde mane una sabbatorum ueniunt ad monumentum, orto iam sole. Multis uobis lectionibus, fratres karissimi, per dictatum loqui consueui, sed quia lascescente stomacho, ea que dictaueram legere ipse non possum, quosdam uestrum minus libenter audientes intueor.

In illo tempore: Duo ex discipulis Ihesu ibant in castellum, quod erat in spatio stadiorum sexaginta ab Ierosalem, nomine Emaus. Et ipsi ipsi loquebantur ad inuicem, de his omnibus que acciderunt. In cotidiana nobis sollempnitate laborantibus pauca loquenda sunt, et fortasse hec utilius proderunt, quia sepe et alimenta que minus sufficiunt, audiūs sumuntur. Lectionis ergo euangelice summatim sensum statui, non per singula uerba discutere, ne delectionem uestrā ualeat sermo prolixior expositionis onerare.

In illo tempore : Stetit Ihesus in medio discipulorum suorum, et dixit eis : Pax uobis : Ego sum : nolite timere. Conturbati uero et conterriti existimabant se spiritum uidere. Et dixit eis : Quid turbati estis, et cogitationes ascendunt in corda uestra. Uide manūs meas et pedes meos, quia ego ipse sum. Gloriam sue resurrectionis dominus et redemptor noster paulatim discipulis, et per incrementum temporis, ostendit, quia nimirū tanta erat uirtus miraculi, ut hanc repente totam capere fragilia mortalium pectora non possent.

In illo tempore : Manifestauit se iterum Ihesus discipulis suis, ad mare Tyberiadis ; manifestauit autem sic. Erant autem simul Symon Petrus, et Thomas qui dicitur Didimus, et Nathanael qui erat a Chana Galilee, et filii Zebedei, et alii ex discipulis eius duo. Dicit ei Symon Petrus : Uado piscari. Dicunt ei : Uenimus et nos tecum. Lectio sancti Euangeli que modo in auribus uestrīs lecta est, fratres mei, questione animum pulsat, sed pulsatione sua uim discretionis indicat. Queri et enim potest, cur Petrus, qui pisator ante conuersiōnem fuit, post conuersiōnem ad pīcationem rediit, et cum ueritas dieat : Nemo mittens manū suā in aratrum, et aspiciens retro, aptus est regno dei, Cur repectiit, quod dereliquid.

In illo tempore: Maria stabat ad monumentum foris plorans. Dum ergo fleret, inclinavit se, et prospexit in monumentum, et uidit duos angelos in albis sedentes, unum ad capud, et unum ad pedes, ubi positum fuerat corpus domini Ihesu. Maria Magdalene, que fuerat in cinitate peccatrix, amando ueritatem, lauit lacrimis maculas criminis, et nox ueritatis impletur, qua dicitur: Dimissa sunt ei peccata multa, quoniam dilexit multum.

In illo tempore: Undecim discipuli abierunt in Galileam, in montem ubi constituerat illis Ihesus. Et uidentibus eum, adorauerunt: quidam autem dubitauerunt. Et accedens Ihesus, locutus est eis dicens: Data est michi omnis potestas in celo et in terra. Euangelica lectio, fratres karissimi, quam modo audiuimus, et iuxta literam gaudio plena refulget; quia triumphum redemptoris nostri, simul et redemptionis nostre dona, plano sermone describit: et si hanc enucleatus pertractare uelimus, gratiorem in littera fructum spiritalis sensus inclitum esse comperimus.

In illo tempore: Vna sabbati Marie Magdalene uenit mane, cum adhuc tenebre essent, ad monumentum, et uidit lapidem sublatum a monumento. Tractus longa molestia stomaehus diu me caritati nestri de lectionis euangelice loqui expositione exhibuit. Vox namque ipsa a clamoris uirtute subcumbit. Et quia a multis audiri non ualeo, loqui, feteor, inter multos erubisco, sed hanc in me uerecundiam reprehendo.

In illo tempore : Cum esset sero die illo una sabbatorum, et fores essent clausae, ubi erant discipuli congregati propter metum Iudeorum, uenit Ihesus, et stetit in medio, et dixit eis : Pax uobis. Prima lectionis huius euangelice questio animum pulsat, quomodo post resurrectionem corpus dominicum uerum fuit, quod clausis ianuis ad discipulos ingredi potuit. Sed sciendum nobis, quod diuina operatio, si ratione comprehenditur, non est ammirabilis, nec fides habet meritum, cui humana ratio prebet experimentum.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Ego sum pastor bonus. Bonus pastor animam suam dat pro ouibus suis. Mercennarius autem, et qui non est pastor, cuius non sunt oves proprie, uidet lupum uenientem, et fugit, et dimittit oves. Audistis, fratres karissimi, ex lectione euangelica eruditionem uestram, audistis ex lectione euangelica periculum nostrum. Ecce enim is, qui non ex accidenti dono, sed essentialiter bonus est, dicit, ego sum pastor bonus ; atque eiusdem bonitatis formam, quam nos imitemur, adiuingit, dicens : bonus pastor animam suam dat pro ouibus suis.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Modicum et iam non uidebitis me, et iterum modicum et uidebitis me, quia uado ad patrem. Leta domini et saluatoris nostri promissa, fratres karissimi, cordis auditu percipere debemus ; sedulaque intentione persistere, quatinus ad hec contingere mereamur. Quid est enim, quod merito lecitus audiatur, quam perueniri posse, ad regnum quod nunquam possit auferri.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Vado ad eum qui me misit, et nemo ex uobis interrogat me quo uadis. Sed quia hec locutus sum uobis, tristitia impleuit cor uestrum. Sicut ex lectione euangelica, fratres karissimi, audiuius, dominus et redemptor noster, imminentie sue passionis articulo, discipulis et gloriam ascentionis, qua ipse post mortem et resurrectionem erat glorificandus, et aduentum spiritus sancti, quo illi erant illustrandi, patefecit, quatimus instante hora passionis eiusdem, minus pro illius morte dolerent, quem post mortem ad celos subleuandum non dubitarent.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Amen, amen, dico uobis, siquid petieritis patrem in nomine meo, dabit uobis. Usque modo non petistis quicquam in nomine meo. Petite et accipietis, ut gaudium uestrum plenum sit. Potest mouere infirmos auditores, quomodo in capite huius euangelice lectionis, discipulis saluator promittat, si quid inquiens petieritis patrem in nomine meo, dabit uobis; cum non solum nostri similes multa, que patrem in Christi nomine uidentur petere, non accipient.

In illo tempore : Recumbentibus undecim discipulis, apparuit illis dominus Ihesus, et exprobrauit incredulitatem illorum, et duritiam cordis ; quia his, qui uiderant eum resurrexisse, non crediderunt. Quod resurrectionem dominicam discipuli tarde crediderunt, non tam illorum infirmitas, quam nostra, ut ita dicam, firmitas fuit. Ipsa namque resurrectio, illis dubitantibus per multa argumenta monstrata est. Que dum nos legentes agnoscimus, quid aliud quam de illorum dubitatione solidamur ?

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Cum uenerit paracclitus, quem ego mittam uobis a patre, spiritum ueritatis, qui a patre procedit, ille testimonium perhibebit de me. Et nos testimonium perhibebitis, quia ab initio mecum estis. Ex multis euangeli locis inuenimus, quia discipuli, ante aduentum sancti spiritus, minus capaces erant ad intelligenda archana diuine sublimitatis, minus fortes ad toleranda aduersa humane prauitatis, sed eis adueniente spiritu sancto, cum augmento diuine agnitionis, data est etiam constantia uincende humane persecutionis.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Si quis diligit me, sermonem meam seruabit. Et pater meus diligit eum, et ad eum ueniens, et mansionem apud eum faciemus. Libet, fratres karissimi, euangelice uerba lectionis sub breuitate transcurrere ; ut post diutius liceat in contemplatione tante solemnitatis immorari. Hodie namque spiritus sanctus repentina sonitu super discipulos uenit, mentesque carnalium in sui amorem permutauit. Et foris apparentibus linguis igneis, intus facta sunt corda flammantia, quia dum deum in ignis uisione percipiunt, per amorem suauiter arserunt.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Sic deus dilexit mundum, ut filium suum unigenitum daret, ut omnis, qui credit in ipsum, non pereat, sed habeat uitam eternam. Saluator noster, fratres karissimi, qui ad redemptionem humani generis in hunc mundum uenire dignatus est, satis euidenter euangelicis sermonibus nobis insinuari dignatus est, dicens : Sic enim deus dilexit mundum, ut filium suum unigenitum daret.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Amen, amen, dico uobis, qui non intrat per hostium in ouile ouium, sed ascendit aliunde, ille fur est et latro. Qui autem intrat per ostium, pastor est ouium. De illuminato illo, qui natus est cecus, sermo ad Iudeos domini exortus est. Huic itaque lectioni hodiernam esse contextam, scire debuit, et commoueri caritas uestra.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Nemo potest uenire ad me, nisi pater, qui misit me, attraxerit eum. Magna gratie commendatio. Nemo uenit nisi tractus. Quem trahat, et quem non trahat, quare illum trahat, et illum non trahat, noli uelle iudicare, si non uis errare.

In illo tempore : Conuocatus Ihesus duodecim apostolis, dedit illis uirtutem et potestatem super omnia demonia, et ut languores cuarent. Concessa primum potestate signorum, misit predicare regnum dei, ut promissorum magnitudinem attestaretur eciam magnitudo factorum, fidemque uerbis daret uirtus ostensa, et noua facerent, qui noua predicarent.

In illo tempore : factum est in una dierum, et Ihesus sedebat doceens. Et erant Pharisei sedentes. Vbi dominus sedens docuerit, quando, scribis et Phariseis consendentibus, paraliticum curauit, Lucas breuiandi gratia preteriit, sed Matheus et Marcus qui narrant, questionem facere uidentur, quoniam quidem Matheus in ciuitate sua, Marcus in Capharnaum, hoc eum fecisse testantur.

In illo tempore : Surgens Ihesus de synagoga, introiuit in domum Symonis. Soerus autem Symonis tenebatur magnis febribus. Cum intrauit Ihesus in domum Petri, audistis ex lectione euangelica, fratres karissimi, soerus Petri tenebatur magnis febribus. Domus Petri, quod dicitur, uetus lex intelligitur: soerus autem Petri, synagoga. Filia synagoge, ecclesia gentium accipitur.

In illo tempore : Erat homo ex Phariseis, Nichodemus nomine, princeps Iudeorum. Hie uenit ad Ihesum nocte, et dixit ei. Rabbi, scimus quia a deo uenisti magister. Nemo enim potest hec signa facere, que tu facis, nisi fuerit deus eum eo. Sicut ex lectione sancti euangelii, fratres karissimi, audistis, princeps Iudeorum uenit ad dominum nocte, cupiens, seereta eius allocutione, plenus discere mysteria fidei, cuius aperta ostentione signorum, aliquatenus iam rudimenta pereoperat.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Homo quidam erat diues, et iniduebatur purpura et bisso, et epulabatur cotidie splendide. Et erat quidam mendicus, nomine Lazarus, qui iacebat ad ianuam eius ulceribus plenus, cupiens saturari de mieis, que eadebant de mensa diuitis, et nemo illi dabat. In uerbis sacri eloquii, fratres, prius seruanda est ueritas hystorie, et postmodum requirenda spiritalis intelligentia alligorie. Tunc namque algorie fructus suauiter carpitur, cum prius per historiam ueritatis radice solidatur.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis similitudinem hanc. Homo quidam fecit cenam magnam, et vocauit multos. Et misit seruum suum hora cene dicere imitatis, ut uenirent. Hoc distare, fratres karissimi, inter delicias corporis et cordis solet, quod corporales delicie, cum non habentur, graue in se desiderium accidunt, eum uero habite eduntur, comedentem protinus in fastidium per societatem uertunt.

In illo tempore : Accesserunt ad Ihesum publicani et peccatores, ut audirent illum. Et murmurabant Pharisei et scribe, dicentes, quia hic peccatores recipit, et manducat cum eis. Estiuum tempus, quod corpori meo nulde contrarium est, loqui me de expositione evangelii, longa mora interneniente, prohibuit; sed non quia lingua tacuit, ardere caritas cessauit.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Estote misericordes, sicut et pater noster misericors est. Nolite iudicare, et non iudicabimini. Hoc loco nobis nichil aliud preeipi existimo, nisi ut ea facta, que dubium est, quo animo fiant, in meliorem partem interpretetur.

In illo tempore : Cum turbe irruerent ad Ihesum, ut audirent uerbum dei, et ipse stabat secus stagnum Genezareth. Stagnum Genezareth idem dicunt esse quod mare Galilee, uel mare Tyberiadis, sed mare Galilee ab adiacente prouintia dictum, mare Tyberiadis a proxima ima ciuitate, que olim Cennereth vocata. sed ab Herode tetrarcha instaurata, in honorem Tyberii Cesaris, Tyberias est appellata.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Amen dico uobis, nisi habundauerit iusticia nostra plusquam Seribarum et Phariseorum, non intrabitis in regnum celorum. Amen, quippe, dico uobis, donec transeat celum et terra, iota unum, aut unus apex, non preteribit a lege, donec omnia fiant. Dum enim fiunt eciam illa, que adiunguntur ad perfectionem, multo magis fiunt illa, que premissa sunt ad inchoationem.

In illo tempore : Cum turba multa esset cum Ihesu, nec haberent quod manducarent, conuocatis discipulis, ait illis : Misereor super turbam, quia ecce iam triduo sustinent me, nec habent quod manducent. Turba triduo dominum sustinet, quando multitudo fidelium, peccata que perpetravit per penitentiam declinans, ad dominum se, in opere, in locutione, atque in cogitatione conuertit.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Attendite a falsis prophetis, qui ueniunt ad uos in uestimentis onium, intrinsecus autem sunt lupi rapaces. Paulo superius spatiosam et latam uiam nominauit, hoc nunc apercius falsos prophetas ostendit, per quos multi in perditione abominabilem abierunt. Qui primo in Iudea multi apparuerunt, et modo perfidia totum repleuerunt mundum.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Homo quidam erat diues, qui habebat uillicum, et hic dissimilatus est apud illum, quasi dissipasset dissipasset bona ipsius. Quis sit uillicus iniquitatis, qui domini uoce laudatur? eius cum uellem scire rationem, et de quo fonte processerit, reuoluui volumen euangelicum, et inter cetera repperi, quod, appropinquantibus saluatori publicanis et peccatoribus, ut audirent eum, murmurabant Pharisei et scribe, dicentes: Quare hic peccatores suscipit, et comedit cum eis?

Iu illo tempore: Cum appropiuasset Ihesus Ierosalem, uidens ciuitatem, fleuit super illam, dicens, quia si cognouisset et tu, Et quidem in hac die tua, que ad pacem tibi, nunc autem abscondita sunt ab oculis tuis. Lectionem breuem sancti euangelii, breui, si possum, uolo sermone perecurrere, ut illis in ea prolixior detur intentio, qui sciunt ex paucis multa cogitare. Quod slente domino illa Ierosolimorum subuersio describatur, a Uespasiano et Thyto, Romanis principibus, facta est, nullus qui hystoriam euersionis eiusdem legit, ignorat.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus ad quosdam, qui in se confitebant tanquam insti, et aspernabantur ceteros, parabolam istam. Duo homines ascendebant in templum, ut orarent, unus Phariseus, et alter publicanus. Quia parabolam dominus, qua semper oraret et non deficere docebat, ita conclusit, ut diceret, ueniente iudice difficile fidem in terra reperiendam; ne quis sibi forte de superuacna fidei cognitione, uel eciam confessione blandiretur, mox altera iuncta parabola diligentius ostendit, a deo fidei non uerba examinanda, sed opera, inter que nimirum opera, maxime regnat humilitas.

In illo tempore: Exiens Ihesus de finibus Tyri, uenit per Sydonem ad mare Galilee, per medios fines Decapoleos. Surdus ille et mutus, mutus, quem curatum a domino modo, cum euangelium legeretur, audiimus, genus designat humanum, in hiis qui ab errore diabolice deceptionis, diuina merentur gratia liberari, Obsurduit namque homo ab audiendo nite uerbo, postquam mortifera serpentis uerba, contra deum tumidus audiuist.

In illo tempore : dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Beati oculi qui uident, que uos uidetis. Non oculi scribarum et Phariseorum, qui corpus domini tantum uidere, sed illi oculi sunt beati, qui eius possunt cognoscere sacramenta, de quibus dicitur, et reuelasti ea paruulis. Beati oculi paruolorum, quibus et se et patrem reuelare et filius dignatur.

Et factum est, dum iret Ihesus in Ierusalem, transibat per medium Samariam et Galileam. Et cum ingredieretur quoddam castellum, occurserunt ei decem uiri leprosi. Leprosi non absurde intelligi possunt, qui scientiam uere fidei non habentes, uarias doctrinas profitentur erroris. Non enim uel abscondunt impericiam suam, sed pro summa peritia proferunt in lucem, et iactantiam sermonis ostendunt. Nulla porro falsa doctrina est, que non aliqua uera intermisceat.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Nemo potest duobus dominis seruire. Quia non ualet simul transitoria et eterna diligere. Si enim eternitatem diligimus, cuncta temporalia in usu, non in affectu, possidemus. Aut enim unum odiet, et alterum diligit, aut uni adhærebit, et alterum contempnet. Hec uerba diligenter consideranda sunt. Nam qui sint duo domini, consequenter exponit, dicens : Non potestis deo seruire et mammone.

In illo tempore : Ibat Ihesus in ciuitatem que uocatur Naym, et ibant discipuli eius cum illo, et turba copiosa. Naym ciuitas est Galilee, in secundo miliario Thabor montis, contra meridiem, iuxta Endor, qui est uicus grandus, in quarto miliario eiusdem montis, ad meridiem. Et ibant cum illo discipuli eius, et turba copiosa. Cum autem appropinquaret porte ciuitatis, ecce defunctus efferebatur, filius unicus matris sue.

In illo tempore : Cum intraret Ihesus in domum cuiusdam principis Phariseorum sabbato, manducare panem, et ipsi obseruabant eum. Ydropolis morbus ab aquoso humore uocabulum trahit. Grece autem aqua, ydor uocatur. Est autem humor sub cutaneis de uitio nesice natus, cum inflatione turgente, et anhelitu fetido.

In illo tempore : Interrogauit Ihesum unus de Seribis, quia uidebat illos conquirentes. Et uidens quam bene illis responderet, interrogauit eum, quod esset primum omnium mandatum. Et interrogauit eum unus legis doctor. Conuenerunt, ut multitudine uincerent, quem ratione superare non poterant. A ueritate nudos se esse professi sunt, qui multitudine se armauerunt.

In illo tempore : Ascendens Ihesus in nauiculam transfretauit, et uenit in ciuitatem suam, et ecce, offerebant ei paraliticum in lecto iacentem. Christum in humanis actibus diuina gessisse mysteria, in rebus uisibilibus inuisibilia exercuisse negotia, lectio hodierna monstrauit. Ascendit, inquit, in nauiculam, et transfretauit, et uenit in ciuitatem suam. Nonne ipse est, qui fugatis fluctibus maris profunda nudauit, et Israeliticus populus inter stupentes undas sicco uestigio, uelud montium concua, transiret.

In illo tempore : loquebatur Ihesus cum discipulis suis in parabolis, dicens : Simile factum est regnum celorum homini regi, qui fecit nuptias filio suo. Textum lectionis euangelice, fratres karissimi, nolo, si possum, sub breuitate transcurere, ut in fine eius ualeam ad loquendum largius uacare. Sed querendum prius est, an hec apud Matheum ipsa sit lectio, que apud Lucam sub appellatione cene describitur. Et quidem sunt nonnulla, que sibi dissona esse uideantur, quia hic prandium, illic cena memoratur.

In illo tempore : Erat quidam regulus, cuius filius infirmabatur Capharnaum. Hie, cum audisset, quia Ihesus adueniret a Iudea in Galileam, abiit ad eum, et rogabat eum, ut descenderet, et sanaret filium eius. Lectio sancti euangeli, quam modo, fratres, audistis, expositione non indiget. Sed ne hanc tacite preterisse uidcamur, exhortando potius quam exponendo, in ea aliquid loquamur.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis parabolam hanc. Simile est regnum celorum homini regi, qui uoluit rationem ponere cum seruis suis. Familiare est Syris, et maxime Palestinis, ad omnem sermonem suum parabolas iungere, ut quod per simplex preceptum teneri ab auditoribus non potest, per similitudinem exempli teneatur.

In illo tempore : Abeuntes Pharisei consilium inierunt, ut caperent Ihesum in sermone. Et obseruantes miserunt insidiatores, qui se iustos simularent, ut caperent eum in sermone, et traducerent eum principatui et potestati presidis. Querentes dominum comprehendere principes sacerdotum et scribe, timuerunt populum, atque ideo quod per se non poterant, presidis manibus efficere temptabant, ut uelud ipsi a morte eius uiderentur immunes.

In illo tempore : Loquente Ihesu ad turbas, ecce, princeps unus accessit, et adoratur eum, dicens : Domine, filia mea modo defuncta est. Ecce uir uenit, cui nomen Iairus, et ipse princeps synagoge erat. Priori lectioni, quam de abiectione synagoge, fideque ecclesie, atque iterum instaurazione sinagoge sumus interpretati, consequenter archisinagogi filia monens subiungitur.

In illo tempore : Cum subleuasset oculos Ihesus, et uidisset maximam multitudinem uenientem ad se, dixit ad Philippum : Vnde ememus panes, ut manducent hi. Miracula, que fecit dominus noster Ihesus Christus, sunt quidem diuina opera, et ad intelligendum deum de inuisibilibus ammonent humana mentem. Quia enim ille non est talis substantia, que uideri oculis possit, et miracula eius, quibus totum mundum regit, uniuersamque creaturam amministrat, assiduitate uiluerunt, ita ut pene nemo dignetur adtendere opera dei mira et stupa in quolibet seminis grano, secundum ipsam suam misericordiam seruauit sibi quendam, que faceret oportuno tempore, preter usitatum cursum ordineque nature, ut non maiora sed insolita uiuendo stuperent, quibus cotidiana uiluerant.

In illo tempore : Cum appropinquasset Ihesus Ierosolimis, et uisisset Bethphage ad montem Oliueti, tunc misit duos discipulos, cens eis : Ite in castellum quod contra uos est, et statim inuenietis asinam alligatam, et pullum cum ea. Soluite et adducite michi. Puto res ipsa exegit, ut queramus frequenter quidem Ihesus uenit in Ierosalem, sicut Iohannes testatur : nunquam tamen sibi adhibuit ministeria iumentorum, nec ramorum uirentium circa se ornamenta constituit, nec ad terribilem laudem sue diuinitatis animos populi excitauit, nisi modo, quando, ut pateretur, ascendit.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Erunt signa in sole, et luna, et stellis, et in terris pressura gentium pre confusione, sonitus maris et fluctuum. Dominus ac redemptor noster paratos nos inuenire desiderans, senescentem mundum que mala sequantur demuntat ; ut nos ab eius amore compescat. Appropinquante eius terminum, quante percussionses preueniant innotescit, ut si deum metuere in tranquillitate nolumus, uicinum eius indicium uel percussiōnibus attriti timeamus.

In illo tempore : Cum audisset Iohannes in uinculis opera Christi, mittens duos de discipulis suis, ait illi, Tu es qui uenturus es, an aliud expectamus ? Querendum nobis est, fratres karissimi, Iohannes propheta et plusquam propheta, qui uenientem ad Iordanis baptismata domini ostendit, dicens : ecce, agnus dei, ecce, qui tollit peccata mundi : qui et humilitatem suam, et diuinitatis eius potentiam considerans, dicit, qui de terra est, de terra loquitur, qui autem de celo uenit, super omnes est, cur in carcere positus, mittens discipulos, requirit, tu es qui uenturus es, au aliud expectamus ? tanquam si ignoraret quem ostenderat, et an ipse sit, nesciat, quem ipsum esse prophetando, baptizando, ostendendo, clamauerat.

In illo tempore : Miserunt Iudei ab Ierosolimis sacerdotes et le- [1] uitas ad Iohannem, ut interrogarent eum, tu quis es. Et huius nobis lectionis uerbis, fratres karissimi, Iohannis humilitas commendatur, qui cum tante uirtutis esset, ut Christus credi potuisset, elegit solide subsistere in se, ne humana opinione raperetur inaniter super se. Nam confessus est, et non negauit; confessus est, quia non sum ego Christus. Sed qui dixit, non sum, negauit plane, quod non erat; sed non negauit quod erat, et ueritatem loquens, eius membrum fieret, cuius sibi nomen fallaciter non usurpauit.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis parabolam hanc. Homo quidam peregre proficiscens uocauit seruos suos, et tradidit illis bona sua. Et uni dedit quinque talenta, alii autem duo, alii uero unum. Leetio sancti euangeli, fratres karissimi, sollicite considerare nos ammonet, ne nos qui plus ceteris in hoc mundo accepisse aliquid cernimus, ab auctore mundi inde grauius indicemur. Cum enim au- gentur dona, rationes etiam creseunt donorum.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis similitudinem hanc. Homo quidam nobilis abiit in regionem longinquam, accipere sibi regnum et reuerti. Vocatis autem decem seruis suis, dedit illis de- cem nas, et ait illis : Negotiamini dum uenio. Homo nobilis ille est cui cecus supra clamabat, fili Dauid miserere mei, et uenienti Ieroso- limam, concinebant, osanna filio Dauid, benedictus qui uenit in no- mine mine domini, rex Israel. Longinqua regio ecclesia est ex gentibus, de qua eidem homini nobili qui loquitur: Ego autem constitutus sum rex ab eo, dicitur a patre: Postula a me et dabo tibi gentes hereditatem tuam, et possessionem tuam terminos terre.

In illo tempore: Descendens Ihesus de monte stetit in loco campestri, et turba discipulorum eius, et multitudo copiosa plebis, ab omni Iudea, et Ierosalem, et Maritima, et Tyri, et Sydonis, qui nenerant ut audirent eum, ut sanarentur a languoribus suis. Electurus apostolos dominus in montana subiit, turbas uero docturus ad campestria reddit; quia non nisi in humili Christum turbe uidere sufficient. Nam hec est norma, quam secutus apostolus ait: Non potui nobis loqui tanquam spiritualibus, sed quasi carnalibus, in Christo lac uobis potum dedi, non escam.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis parabolam hanc. Simile est regnum celorum decem uirginibus, que accipientes lamen[2] pades suas, exierunt obuiam sponso et spouse. Sepe uos, fratres karissimi, ammoneo praua opera fugere, mundi huius inquinamenta deuitare: sed hodierna sancti euangelii lectione compellor dicere, ut et bona que agitis, cum magna cautela timeatis, ne per hoc quod a nobis rectum geritur, fauor aut gratia humana requiratur, ne appetitus laudis surripiat, et quod foris ostenditur, intus a mercede uacuetur.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis: Amen, amen, dico uobis, nisi granum frumenti cadens in terra mortuum fuerit, ipsum solum manet. Se ipsum autem dicebat granum mortificandum et multiplicandum.

multiplicandum. Mortificandum infidelitate Iudeorum, multiplicandum in fide populorum. Iam uero exhortans ad passionis sue secunda uestigia; qui amat, inquit, animam suam, perdet eam.

In illo tempore: Dixit Symon Petrus ad Ihesum: Ecce nos reliquimus omnia, et secuti sumus te. Quid ergo erit nobis. Grandis fiducia. Petrus piscator erat: diues non fuerat: cibos manu et arte querebat; et tamen loquitur cum fiducia, reliquimus omnia. Et qui non sufficit tantum relinquere, iungit quod perfectum est: et secuti sumus te. Fecimus quod iussisti: quid igitur dabis premii?

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis: Simile est regnum celorum decem uirginibus, que accipientes lampades suas exierunt obuiam sponso et spouse. Hanc parabolam, id est, similitudinem, decem uirginum satuarum atque prudentium, quidam simpliciter in uirginibus interpretantur, quarum alie, iuxta apostolum, et corpore et mente sunt uirgines, alie uirginitatem tantum corporum reseruantes, uel cetera opera non habent proposito suo similia, uel parentum custodiam seruare, nichilominus mente nupserunt.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis: Sint lumbi uestri precineti, et lucerne ardentes in manibus uestris. Et nos similes hominibus expectantibus dominum suum, quando reuertatur a muptiis. Sancti euangelii, fratres karissimi, aperta nobis est lectio recitata, sed ne aliquibus ipsa eius planicies alta fortasse videatur, eam sub breuitate transcurrimus, quatinus eius expositio ita nescientibus fiat cognita, ut tamen scientibus non sit onerosa. Quia uiris luxuria in lumbis bis sit, feminis in umbilico, testatur dominus, qui de diabolo ad bea-[3] tum Iob loquitur, dicens : Uirtus in lumbis eius, et fortitudo illius in umbilico uentris eius.

In illo tempore : Uenit Ihesus in partes Cesaree Philippi, et interrogauit discipulos suos, dicens : Quem dicunt homines esse filium hominis. Lectio sancti euangelii quam, fratres, audistis, tanto intentius cogitanda ac sine obliuione est ingiter retinenda, quanto constat, quia magnam nobis fidei perfectionem commendat, magnam eiusdem perfecte fidei, contra omnia temptamenta, robur eque demonstrat. Si enim scire uolumus, quomodo in Christum credi oporteat, quid lucidius eo quod ait ad eum Petrus ? tu es Christus filius dei uiui.

In illo tempore : facta est contentio inter discipulos Ihesi, quis eorum uideretur esse maior. Dixit autem eis Ihesus : Reges gentium dominantur eorum, et qui potestatem habent super eos, benefici uocantur. Sicut bonis esse moris solet, in scripturis semper exempla patrum precedentium, quibus ad meliora proficiant, quibus agnitis de suis actibus humiliant inquirere, sic ex contrario reprobi, siquid forte in electis reprehensibile repperiunt, quasi suas ex eo nequicias obtecturi, aut pro iusto defensuri, libentissime solent amplecti. Ideoque multo ardenter legunt, quod facta est contentio inter discipulos Christi, quis eorum uideretur maior, quam quod multitudinis credentium erat cor unum et anima una.

In illo tempore : Dixit Symou Petrus.

In illo tempore : Missus est angelus Gabriel a deo in ciuitatem Galilee, cui nomen Nazareth, ad uirginem despousatam viro, cui nomen erat Ioseph, de domo Dauid, et nomen uirginis Maria. Exordium nostre redenptionis, fratres karissimi, hodierna nobis sancti euangelii lectio commendat, que angelum de celis a deo missum narrat ad uirginem, ut nouam in carne natuitatem filii dei predicate, per quam nos, abiecta uetustate noxia, renouari, atque inter filios dei computari possimus.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Uos estis sal terre. Quod si sal euamuerit, in quo salietur. Ad illud respicit quod superius dixit, quia doctor omnibus uirtutibus debet esse ornatus. Debet esse pauper, ut auariciam libera uoce castiget. Debet esse semper suspirans et lugens, si non sua, vel aliena delecta, ut confundat eos, qui nec peccare dubitant, priusquam peccent, nec postquam peccauerint, tristantur quia peccauerunt.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis. Ego sum uitis [4] uera, et pater meus agricola est. Iste locus euangelicus, fratres, ubi se dicit dominus uitem, et discipulos suos palmites, secundum hoc dicit, quod est caput ecclesie, nosque membra eius, mediator dei et hominum, homo Christus Ihesus. Vnius quippe nature sunt, uitis et palmites. Propter quod, cum esset deus, cuius nature non sumus, factus est homo, ut in illo esset uitis, humana natura, cuius et nos homines palmites esse possemus.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Non turbetur cor uestrum. Creditis in deum, et in me credite. In domo patris mei mansiones multe sunt. Erigenda nobis est, fratres, ad dominum maior intentio, ut uerba sancti euangelii, que modo in auribus nostris sonuerunt, eciam mente capere, uteumque possimus. Ait enim dominus Ihesus Christus : Non turbetur cor uestrum. Creditis in deum, et in me credite. Ne mortem tanquam homines timerent, et ideo turbarentur, consolatur eos, eciam denm se esse constans. Creditis, inquit, in deum, et in me credite.

In illo tempore : Erat homo ex Phariseis : ut supra in dominica sancte Trinitatis.

In illo tempore : Accessit ad Ihesum mater filiorum Zebedei cum filiis suis, adorans et petens aliquid ab eo. Qui dixit ei : Quid uis? Ait ei : Die, ut sedeant hii duo filii mei, unus ad dexteram tuam, et unus ad sinistram in regno tuo. Vnde opinionem regni habet mater filiorum Zebedei, ut eum dominus dixerit, filius hominis tradetur principibus sacerdotum et seribis, et condemnabunt eum morte, et tradent gentibus, ad deludendum, et flagellandum, et crucifigendum, et ignominiam passionis timentibus discipulis muntiaret, illa gloriam postulat triumphatis ?

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Uos estis sal terre. Quod si sal evanuerit, in quo salietur? Debemus pensare continue, quid ad sanctos apostolos dicitur, et per apostolos nobis, uos estis sal terre. Si igitur sal sumus, condire mentes fidelium debemus. Uos igitur qui pastores estis, pensate quia domini animalia pascitis. De quibus perfecto animalibus deo per psalmistam dicitur: Animalia tua habitabunt in ea. Et sepe uidemus quod, petra salis brutis animalibus ponitur, ut ex eadem salis petra lambere debeant, et meliorari. Quasi ergo inter bruta animalia, petra salis debet esse sacerdos in populis.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Hoc est preceptum meum, ut diligatis inuicem, sicut dilexi uos. Cum cuncta sacra eloquia dominicis plena sunt preceptis, quid est, quod de dilectione, [5] quasi de singulari mandato, dominus dicit : Hoc est preceptum meum, ut diligatis inuicem, nisi quia omne mandatum de sola dilectione est, et omnia unum preceptum sunt? Quia quiequid precipitur, in sola caritate solidatur.

In illo tempore : Egrediente Ihesu de templo, ait illi unus ex discipulis suis; Magister aspice quales lapides, et quales structure. Egressus Ihesus de templo, ibat. Et accedunt ad eum discipuli eius, ut ostenderent ei edificia templi. Ipse autem respondens dixit eis. Videtis hec omnia? Amen, dico uobis, non relinquetur lapis super lapidem, que non destruatur. Iuxta hystoriam manifestus est sensus. Recedente autem domino de templo, omnia legis edificia et compositione mandatorum ita destructa est, ut nichil a Iudeis possit impleri, et capite sublato, uniuersa inter se membra compugnent.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Ponite in cordibus uestris, non premeditari, quemadmodum respondeatis. Ego enim dabo uobis os et sapientiam, cui non poterunt resistere et contra dicere omnes aduersarii uestri : nolite terrei, nolite pertimescere. Uos ad certamen acceditis ; sed ego prelior. Uos uerba editis ; sed ego sum qui loquor. Sequuntur : Trademini autem a parentibus, et fratribus, et cognatis, et amicis ; et morte ex uobis afficietur.

In illo tempore : Elizabeth impletum est tempus pariendi, et perperit filium. Et audierunt uicini et cognati eius, quia magnificauit dominus misericordiam suam cum illa, et congratulabantur ei. Precursoris domini natuitas, sicut sacratissima lectionis euangelice prodid hystoria, multa miraculorum sublimitate refulget, quia nimirum decebat, ut ille, quo maior inter natos mulierum nemo surrexit, majore pre ceteris sanetis in ipso mox ortu uirtutum iubare claresceret. Senes ac diu infeundi parentes dono nobilissime prolis exultant.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Attendite a fermento Phariseorum quod est ypocrisis. Nichil autem opertum est, quod non reueletur, neque absconditum, quod non sciatur. Attendite a fermento Phariseorum, quod est ypocrisy. Ad hoc fermentum pertinent omnia, que, recumbens apud Phariseum, superius disputauerat, de quo et apostolus precepit : Itaque epulemur non fermento ueteri, neque in fermento malicie et nequitie, sed in azimis sinceritatis et ueritatis.

In illo tempore : Respondens Symon Petrus.

In illo tempore : Iussit Ihesus discipulos suos ascendere in nauiculam, et precedere eum trans fretum, donec dimitteret turbas. Dominus discipulis precepit transfretare, et compellit ut ascendant nauiculam. Quo sermone satis ostenditur, inuitos eos a domino recessisse, dum amore preceptoris, nec puncto quidem temporis ab eo volunt separari. Et dimissa turba, ascendit in montem solus orare. Si fuissent cum eo discipuli, Petrus et Iacobus et Iohannes, qui uiderant gloriam transformati, forsitan ascendissent in montem cum eo.

In illo tempore : Conuocatis Ihesus duodecim discipulis suis, dedit eis potestatem spirituum immundorum, ut eicerent eos, et curarent langorem et omnem infirmitatem. Benignus et clemens dominus ac magister, non iniuidet seruis atque discipulis uirtutes suas. Et sicut ipse curauerat omnem langorem et omnem infirmitatem, apostolis quoque suis tribuit potestatem, ut curent omnem langorem et omnem infirmitatem. Set multa distantia est, inter habere, et trahere; donare, et accipere. Iste quodecumque agit, potestate domini agit: illi si quid faciunt, imbecillitatem suam, et uirtutem domini confitentur, dicentes: In nomine Ihesu, surge et ambula.

In illo tempore : Rogabat Ihesum quidam Phariseus, ut manducaret cum illo. Et ingressus domum Pharisei, discubuit. Et ecce mulier, que erat in ciuitate peccatrix, ut eognonuit, quod recubuisset in domo domo Pharisei, attulit alabastrum unguenti, et stans retro secus pedes eius, lacrimis cepit rigare pedes eius, et capillis capitum sui tergebat, et osculabatur pedes eius, et unguento ungebat. Cogitanti michi de Marie penitentia, flere magis libet, quam aliquid dicere. Cuius enim uel saxeum pectus, ille huius peccatricis lacrime ad exemplum penitendi non emolliant. Considerauit namque quid fecit, et noluit moderari quid faceret. Super coniuantes ingressa est; non iussa uenit; inter epulas lacrimas obtulit. Dicite quo dolore ardet, que flet, et inter epulas non erubescit.

In illo tempore: Accessit ad Ihesum. folio iii.

In illo tempore: Uenit Ihesus in partes Cesaree Philippi, et interrogauit discipulos suos, dicens: Quem dicunt homines esse filium hominis? Non dixit, Quem me dicunt esse homines? ne iactanter de se querere uideretur: sed, Quem dicunt homines esse filium hominis? Sic de se, quasi de alio loquens. Ita debent agere prelati sancte ecclesie. Debent interrogare subiectos, cuius opiniois habentur a populo. Si bone opinionis, crescant in melius; si uero malam famam habent, corrigant, que correctione digna sunt.

[7] In illo tempore: Dicebat Ihesus turbis Iudeorum et principibus sacerdotum: Eeee ego mitto ad uos prophetas, et sapientes, et scribas, et ex illis occidetis et crucifigetis. Uere missi sunt sapientes aduersus hereticos patres nostri, sapientes autem litterati, quorum sapientia non in sensibus carnalibus posita est, et in lingua adquisita per exercitationem carnalem, sed sapientes circa dei timorem, rem, sapientes circa noticiam ueritatis, sapientes animo non corpore, corde non ore, fide non uerbis.

In illo tempore : Assumpsit Ihesus Petrum, et Iacobum, et Iohannem fratrem eius, et duxerit illos in montem excelsum seorsum, et transfiguratus est ante eos. Euangelica lectio, dilectissimi, que, per aures corporis, interiorem mentium nostrarum pulsauit auditum, ad magni sacramenti nos intelligentiam uocat, quam aspirante gratia dei facilius assequemur, si considerationem nostram ad ea, que paulo superius sunt narrata, referamus. Saluator enim humani generis deus Christus, condens eam fidem, que impios ad iusticiam, et mortuos reuocat ad uitam, ad hoc discipulos suos doctrine monitis et operum miraculis imbuebat, ut idem et unigenitus dei, filius hominis credetur. Nam unum horum sine alio non proderat ad salutem.

In illo tempore : Amen, amen, dico uobis, nisi granum frumenti.

Folio 5. Attendite a fermento Phariseorum.

In illo tempore : Intravit Ihesus in quoddam castellum, et ecce mulier quedam, Martha nomine, exceptit illum in domum suam. Et huic erat soror, nomine Maria. Uerba domini nostri Ihesu Christi, que modo ex euangelio recitata sunt, ammonent nos, esse unum aliquid, quo tendamus, quando in huius seculi multitudine laboramus. Tendamus autem, ad huc peregrinantes, nondum manentes. Ad huc desiderando, nondum fruendo.

In illo tempore : Audivit Herodes tetrarcha famam Ihesu, et ait pueris suis : Hic est Iohannes baptista, et surrexit a mortuis. Natalem, fratres karissimi, beati Iohannis baptiste diem celebrantes, oportet ut non solum constantiam passionis illius pia deuotione recognamus, sed et eorum a quibus passus est maliciam nobis in arma nec tamur salutis. Tunc et enim scripturis sanctis utiliter animum intendimus, cum non solas in eis uirtutes, ac premia iustorum, uerum eciam uitia uindictamque reproborum, ad incitamentum nobis bene agendi proponimus.

Liber generationis Ihesu Christi filii Dauid, filii Abraham. Mattheus apostolus et euangelista suscepisse intelligitur, incarnationem domini secundum stirpem regiam, et pleraque secundum hominem facta et dicta eius exequi. Vnde et in principio euangelia sui taliter exorsus ait: Liber generationis Ihesum Christi. Quo exordio suo, satis ostendit, generationem Christi secundum carnem se suscepisse narrandam. Secundum hanc enim Christus filius hominis est, quod eciam seipse sepissime appellat, commendans nobis, quod misericorditer dignatus sit esse pro nobis.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus turbis : Nunc iudicium est mundi, nunc princeps huius mundi eicietur foras. Cum igitur dixisset, Nunc princeps huius mundi eicietur foras, et ego, inquit, si exaltatus fuero a terra, omnia traham post me. Que omnia ? nisi ex quibus ille eicietur foras. Non autem dixit, omnes, sed omnia. Non enim omnium est fides. Non itaque hoc ad uniuersitatem hominum retulit, sed ad creature integritatem, id est, spiritum et animam et corpus ; et illud quod intelligimus, et illud quod uidemus, et illud quod uisibiles et contractabiles sumus.

In illo tempore : Vidit Ihesus hominem sedentem in theloneo, Matheum nomine, et ait illi : Sequere me. Legimus, apostolo dicente, quia omnes peccauerunt, et eagent gloria dei, iustificati gratis per gratiam ipsius. Qui et iterum in estimabilem eiusdem gratie magnitudinem commendans, ait ; Vbi autem habundauit peccatum, super habundauit gratiam ; quia nimis, quanto grauiorem dominus in electis suis peccatorum languorem curauit, tanto ampliorem cunctis gratie sue populis potentiam ministrauit.

In illo tempore : Accesserunt discipuli ad Ihesum dicentes. Quis putas maior est in regno celorum ? Quod sepe monui, etiam nunc obseruandum est, cause querende sunt singulorum domini delictorum atque factorum post inuentum staterem, post tributa reddita: quid sibi uult repentina apostolorum interrogatio? In illa hora accesserunt discipuli ad Ihesum, dicentes: Quis putans maior [9] est in regno celorum? Quia audierant pro Petro et domino, id est tributum redditum, ex equalitate precii arbitrati sunt omnibus apostolis Petrum esse prelatum, qui in redditione tributi domino fuerat comparatus, ideoque interrogant quis maior sit in regno celorum.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis: Bonus homo de bono thesauro cordis sui, profert bonum, et malus homo de malo thesauro cordis sui profert malum. Idem thesaurus cordis, quod radix est arboris; et quod de corde profertur, idem quod arboris fructus.

Folio .2. Sint lunbi uestri precineti.

Folio .1. Descendens Ihesus de monte.

In illo tempore: Designauit dominus et alios septuaginta duos discipulos, et misit illos binos ante faciem suam in omnem ciuitatem et locum quo erat ipse uenturus. Dominus et saluator noster, fratres karissimi, aliquando nos sermonibus, aliquando operibus ammonet. Ipsa et enim facta eius precepta sunt, quia dum aliquid tacitus facit, quid agere debemus innotescit. Ecce enī, binos in predicationem nem discipulos mittit, quia duo sunt precepta caritatis, dei, uidelicet, amor, et proximi. Et minus quam inter duos caritas haberri non potest.

In illo tempore : Dicebat Ihesus turbis Phariseorum et principibus sacerdotum. Ue uobis qui edificatis monumenta prophetarum, patres autem nestri occiderunt illos. Non monumenta prophetarum ornare, sed interfectores prophetarum imitati sceleris est. Iudei ergo prophetarum monumenta edificando, patrum suorum facta, qui eos occiderant, arguebant, sed paterna facinora emulando, dum Christum apostolosque illius insecuruntur in se ipsos sententia retorquebant, eadem uidelicet ipsique in parentibus dampnabant.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Hec mando uobis, ut diligatis inuicem. Per hoc intelligere debemus, hunc esse fructum nostrum de quo ait, Ego uos elegi ut eatis, et fructum afferatis, et fructus uester maneat. Et quod adiunxit : ut quod cunque petieritis patrem in nomine meo det uobis, tunc utique dabit nobis si diligamus inuicem, cum et hoc ipsum ipse dederit nobis qui nos elegit; non, habentes fructum; quia non eum nos elegeramus, et posuit nos ut fructum afferamus, hoc est, inuicem diligamus.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis. Si quis uenit ad me, et non odit patrem suum, et matrem suam, et uxorem, et filios, et fratres, et sorores, adhuc autem et animam suam, non potest mens [10] esse discipulus. Si consideremus, fratres karissimi, que et quanta sunt, que nobis promittuntur in celis, uilescent animo cuncta que habentur in terris. Terrena namque substantia superne felicitati comparata, pondus est non subsidium. Temporalis uita eterne uita comparata, mors est potius dicenda quam uita.

In illo tempore : Uidens Ihesus turbas, ascendit in montem. Et cum sedisset, accesserunt ad eum discipuli eius, et aperiens os suum, docebat eos dicens : Beati pauperes spiritu, quoniam ipsorum est regnum celorum. Si queritur quid significat mons, bene intelligitur significare maiora precepta iustie, quia minora erant que Iudeis data sunt. Unus tamen Deus per sanctos prophetas et famulos suos, secundum ordinatissimam distributionem temporum, dedit minora precepta populo, quem timore adhuc alligare oportebat, per filium suum maiora populo quem caritate liberare conuenerat.

In illo tempore : Dicebat Ihesus discipulis suis. Cum audieritis prelia et seditiones, nolite terreri. Oportet primum hec fieri, sed nondum statim finis. Dominus ac redemptor noster parituri mundi percurrentia mala denuntiat, ut eo minus perturbent uenientia, quo fuerunt prescrita. Minus enim iacula feriunt, que preuidentur. Et nos tolerabilius mundi mala suscipimus, si contra hec per prescientie clipeum munimur. Ecce enim dicit : cum audieritis prelia et seditiones, nolite terreri.

Folio .i. Homo quidem peregre : ut supra.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Nemo lucernam accendit, et in abscondito ponit, neque sub modio, sed super candelabrum, brum, ut qui ingrediuntur lumen uideant. De seipso dominus hec loquitur ostendens, et si supra dixerit, nullum generationi nequam nisi signum Ione dandum, nequaquam tamen lucis sue claritatem fidelibus occultandam. Ipse quippe lucernam accendit, qui testam humane nature flamma sue diuinitatis impleuit.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis. Si quis uult post me uenire, abneget semet ipsum, et tollat cruelem suam, et sequatur me. Quia dominus ac redemptor noster nouus homo uenit in mundum, noua precepta edidit mundo. Uite enim nostre ueteri in uiciis enutrite, contrarietate opposuit nouitatis sue. Quid enim uetus, quid carnis homo nouerat, nisi sua retinere, aliena rapere si posset, con- [11] cupiscere si non posset?

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis parabolam hanc.
folio .1. Simile est regnum celorum de eem uirginibus.

In illo tempore: Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis parabolam hanc. Homo quidam peregre proficiseens uocauit seruos suos, et tradit illis bona sua. Et uni dedit quinque talenta: alii autem duo: alii uero unum. Homo iste pater familias haut dubium quin Christus sit, qui ad patrem post resurrectionem uictor ascendens uocatis apostolis doctrinam Euangelicam tradidit, non pro largitate et parcitate alteri plus et alteri minus tribuens, sed pro accipientium uiribus, quomodo et apostolus, eos qui solidum cibum capere non poterant, lacte potasse se dicit.

In illo tempore : Ambulans Ihesus iuxta mare Galilee uidit duos fratres, Symonem, qui uocatur Petrus, et Andream fratrem eius. Audistis, fratres karissimi, quia ad unius iussionis uocem Petrus et Andreas relictis retibus secuti sunt redemptorem. Nulla uero hunc facere adhuc miracula uiderant, nichil ab eo de premio eterne retributionis audierant, et tamen ad unum domini preceptum hoc, quod possidere uidebantur oblii sunt.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Nolite arbitrare quia ueni mittere pacem in terram. Non ueni pacem mittere, sed gladium. Supra dixerat quod dico nobis in tenebris dicite in lumine, et quod in aure auditis, predicate super teeta : nunc infert quid post predicationem sequatur ad fidem Christi.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis. Ecce ego mitto uos sicut oues in medio luporum. Estote ergo prudentes sicut serpentes, et simplices sicut columbe. Ecce ego mitto uos sicut agnos inter lupos. Contraria sunt ista animalia, ut alia ab aliis deuorentur. Sed bonus pastor lupos gregi suo timere non nouit, ideoque isti discipuli non non in predam, sed ad gratiam diriguntur, sollicitudo enim pastoris boni efficit, ut lupi in agnos audire nichil possint.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Nichil opertum quod non renelabitur, et occultum quod non scietur. In presenti seculo multorum uitia nesciuntur, sed de futuro tempore scribitur, quando iudicabit dominus occulta hominum, et illuminabit latebras tenebrarum et manifesta faciet consilia cordum. Hic est sensus. Nolite timere persecutorum scuiciam et blasphemancium rabiem, quia ueniet dies iudicij, in quo et uestra uirtus, et eorum nequicia demonstrabitur.

In illo tempore : Thomas, unus de duodecim, qui dicitur Didimus, non erat cum eis quando uenit Ihesus. Dixerunt ergo ei alij discipuli, uidimus dominum. Uidebat tangebatque hominem et confitebatur deum quem non uidebat. Sed propter hoc, quod uidebat atque tangebat illud iam remota dubitacione credebat. Dicit ei Ihesus. Quia uidisti me credidisti. Non ait, tetigisti me. Sed, uidisti me, quoniam generabilis quodammodo sensus est uisus.

Bonus homo de bono thesauro,

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Uigilate, quia necessitis qua hora dominus uester uenturus sit. Hie aperte ostenditur, quare dominus diem iudicij superius ignorari dieat, scilicet ut unus quisque seruorum illius ita uigilet quasi altera die suspectus sit indicari.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis : Simile est regnum celorum thesauro abscondito in agro, quem qui innenit homo abscondit, et per gaudio illius uadit et uendit uniuersa que habet et emit agrum illum. Celorum regnum, fratres karissimi, sicreco rebus simile dicitur, ut ex hiis que animus nouit, surgat ad incognita que non nouit, quatinus exemplo uisibilium se ad inuisibilia rapiat, et per ea que usu didicit, quasi confricatus ui calescat, ut per hoc quod seit, notum diligere discat et incognita amare.

In illo tempore : Dixit Ihesus discipulis suis parabolam hanc. Simile est regnum celorum decem uirginibus que accipientes lampades suas exierunt obuiam sponso et spouse. Que sunt decem uirgines quarum sunt quinque prudentes et quinque fatue, non facile indagari potest. Uerum tamen secundum ea que continet ipsa lectio, quam caritati uestre eciam hodie uolui recitare, quantum mihi dominus intellectum dignatur, non mihi uidetur ista parabola, uel similitudo, ad eas solas pertinere, que propria et excellenciore sanctitate uirgines in ecclesia nominantur, quas eciam usitaciore uocabulo sanctimoniales appellare consueuimus, sed nisi fallor hec similitudo ad uniuersam ecclesiam pertinet, quamvis et si illas solas intelligerimus que sanctimoniales uocantur, numquid decem sunt.

In illo tempore : Sedente Ihesus super montem Oliuet, accesserunt ad eum discipuli secreto dicentes. Dic nobis quando hec erunt, et quid signum aduentus tui et consummaciones seculi. Sedet Ihesus in montem Oliueti, ubi uerum lumen nascebatur. Et accedunt ad eum eum discipuli secreto, qui misteria et futurorum reuelacionem scire cupiebant, et interrogant tria, quo tempore Ierosalem destruenda, quo uenturus Christus, quo consummatio seculi sit futura.

Hec sunt que ut obseruetis precipimus in monasterio constituti. Primum propter quod in unum congregati estis, ut unanimes habitetis in domo; et sit uobis anima una, et cor unum in deo, ut non dicatis aliquid proprium, sed sint uobis omnia communia. Et distribuatur unicuique nestrum a preposito uestro uictus, et tegumentum, non equaliter omnibus, quia non equaliter ualetis omnes, sed pocius uni[cui]que sicut cuique opus fuerit. Sic enim legitur in actibus apostolorum, quia erant illis omnia communia, et distribuebatur unicuique sicut cuique opus erat.

Quia aliquid habent in seculo quando ingressi sunt monasterium, libenter illud uelint esse commune. Qui autem non habent non euanterant in monasterio, que nec foris habere potuerunt; sed tamen infirmitati eorum quod opus est tribuatur, eciam si paupertas eorum quando foris erant, nec ipsa necessaria poterat inuenire. Tantum non ideo putent se esse felices, quia inuenierunt uictum et tegumentum, quale foris inuenire non poterant, nec erigant ceruicem, quia sociantur eis ad quos foris accedere non audebant; sed sursum cor habent, et terrena uana non querant, ne incipiunt esse monasteria diuitibus utilia, non pauperibus, si diuites illic humiliantur, et pauperes illic inflantur.

Sed rursus eciam qui aliquid esse uidebantur in seculo, non habent fastidio fratres suos, qui ad illam sanctam societatem ex paupertate uenerunt. Magis autem studeant non de parentum diuitum dignitate, sed de pauperum fratrum societate gloriari. Nec extollantur si communi uite de suis facultatibus aliquid contulerint, nec de suis diuiciejs magis superbiant, quia eas monasterio parcuntur, quam si eis in seculo fruerentur. Alia quippe quecumque sunt iniqua in malis operibus exercecentur ut fiant, superbia uero eciam bonis operibus insidiatur ut pereant. Et quid prodest dispergere dando pauperibus et pauperem fieri, cum anima misera superior efficitur diuicias contempnendo quam fuerat possidendo. Omnes ergo unanimiter et concorditer uiuite, et honorate in uobis deum iuicem, cuius tempora facti estis. Oracionibus instate, horis et temporibus constitutis.

In oratorio nemo aliquid agat, nisi ad quid est factum; unde et nomen accepit. Ut si forte aliqui eciam preter horas constitutas, si eis uacat et orare voluerint, non eis sint impedimento, qui ibi aliquid agendum putauerunt. Psalmis ympnis cum oratis deum, hoc uersetur in corde quod profertur in noce. Et nolite cantare, nisi quod legistis esse cantandum. Quod autem ita scriptum est, ut non cantetur, non cantetur.

Carnem uestram domate ieuniis et abstinenacia esce quantum ualitudo permittit. Quando autem aliquis non potest ieumare, non tamen extra horam prandij aliquid alimentorum sumat, nisi cum egrotat.

Cum acceditis ad mensam donec inde surgatis, quod uobis secundum consuetudinem legitur sine tumultu et contencionibus audite. Nec sole uobis fauees sumant cibum, sed et aures esuriant uerbum dei.

Qui infirmi sunt ex pristina consuetudine, si aliter tractentur in iuctu, non debet alijs molestum esse, nec iniustum uideri eis, quos fecit aliqua consuetudo forciores. Nec illos feliciores putent, quia sumunt quod non sumunt ipsi ; sed sibi pocius gratulentur, quia ualent quod non ualent illi.

Et si eis qui uenerunt ex moribus delicacioribus ad monasterium aliquid alimentorum, uestimentorum, operimentorum datur, quod aliis forcioribus et ideo felicioribus non datur, cogitare debent, quibus non datur quantum de sua seculari uita illi ad istam descendenterint quamuis usque ad aliorum qui sunt corpore firmiores frugalitatem peruenire nequauerunt. Nec debent uelle omnes quod paucos uident amplius accipere, non quia honorantur, sed quia tolerantur, ne contingat detestanda peruersitas, ut in monasterio ubi quantum possunt flunt diuites laboriosi, fiant pauperes delicati.

Sane quemadmodum egrotantes necesse habent minus accipere ne grauentur, ita et post egritudinem sic tractandi sunt, ut ciecius recrecentur, eciam si de humilima seculi paupertate uenerunt, tanquam hoc illis contulerit recentior egritudo, quod dinitibus anterior con-

suctudo. Sed cum uires pristinas reparauerint, redeant ad felicior-rem consuetudinem suam, que famulos dei tanto amplius decet, quanto minus indigent. Nec eibi eos teneat uoluptas, iam uegetatos, quos necessitas leuarat infirmos. Illos estiment delicati diciores, qui in sustinenda parcitate fuerint forciores. Melius est enim minus egere quam plus habere.

L I T U R G Y O F S A C R E M E M O R Y .

Non sit notabilis habitus uester, nee affectetis uestibus placere, sed moribus. Quando proceditis simul ambulate. Cum ueneritis quo itis, simul state. In incessu, statu, habitu, et in omnibus motibus uestris nichil fiat, quod cuiusquam offendat aspectum, sed quod uestram decet sanctitatem.

Et aliorum plurimorum sanctorum martirum confessorum atque uirginum.

Precioea est in conspectu domini mors sanctorum eius. Isti et omnes sancti, et electi dei intercedant et oreant pro nobis peccatoribus ad dominum deum nostrum. Ut nos mereamur ab eo adiuuari et saluari, qui in trinitate perfecta uiuit et regnat deus, per omnia secula seculorum. Amen. Deus in adiutorium. Domine ad adiuuandum. iij. Gloria patri et filio. Et sit splendor domini dei nostri super nos et opera manuum nostrarum dirige super nos, et opus manuum nostrarum dirige. Oremus. Dirigere, et sanctificare, et regere dignare Domine sancte, pater omnipotens, eterne deus, hodie et cotidie, corda et corpora nostra in lege tua sancta, et in operibus mandatorum tuorum, ut hie et in eternum, te auxiliante, semper salui, sani, et liberi esse mereamur. Per Christum dominum nostrum. Amen. APPENDIX.

THE following account of the order and method of proceeding in a monastic Chapter is taken from Martene's learned work, De Antiquis Monachorum Ritibus, lib. i. cap. v. It is inserted here because it will fully explain to such readers as may not have access to other sources of information, the manner in which the Martyrology and Book of Obits were used in the devotional exercises of the Convent.

“ I. Capitulum vocamus eam Monachorum congregationem, quæ mane fit in Monasteriis ad Martyrologii, Necrologii, Sacraeque Regulae lectionem, eulparum emendationem, ac laboris injunctionem distributionemque, a capitibus seu superioribus cœnobiorum qui simul cum aliis conveniebant, ut volunt nonnulli, seu quod verius erediderim, a Regule Capitulo quod in ea legebatur, ita appellatam; ex quo factum est, ut tam ipsa congregatio, quam locus ubi fieret, ac res quæ in ea tractarentur Capitulum nuncuparentur: qua de re fuse satis Haef. lib. 8. 1. disq. 1.

“ II. Tempus congregandi Capituli duplex apud nostros [sc. Benedictinos] reperio; post Primam scilicet, et post Tertiam. Primum assignat antiquissimus ordo conversationis monasticæ c. 3. quod suæ ad Canonicos Regulae inseruit Chrodegangus Mettensis Episcopus c. 18. Similiter Antiquæ consuetudines S. Benedicti Amianensis Abbatis tom. 4. Analectorum^a, de quo etiam Ardo discipulus ejus in vita illius n. 52. scc. 4. Instituit ut ‘expleta Prima in unum congregati solvant capitulum.’ Item antiquum S. Justinæ ceremoniale p. 1. c. 16. præscribens ut Prima dicta, et Missa matutinali, fiat capitulum; denique Bursfeldenses in ceremoniali dist. 1. c. 4. E contra tempus alterum notatur in vita S. Geremari Abbatis Flaviacensis n. 15. scc. 2. ‘Tertia vero hora diei post lectionis disputationem in capitulo ante pedes omnium prostratus, &c.’

et apud Adrevaldum in l. Mir. S. Benedicti in Gallia c. 28. sœc. 2. ‘Residentibus hora diei tertia, post lectionem capituli regularis Sanctorumque memoriam, &c.’ At S. Dunstanus in Regulari concordia Monachorum Sanctimonialiumque utrumque tempus decernit c. 1. et 5. scilicet aestate post Primam, hyeme post Tertiam: Dunstano subserbit S. Lanfrancus in statutis c. 1. §. 1. et 5. Idemque videtur est in antiquis S. Germani a Pratis consuet. et in lib. Usnum Cisterciens. c. 70. et 74. et quidem ut mihi videtur, omnino ad mentem S. Benedicti, nam cum ideo inter alia convocetur capitulum, ut in eo fiat laboris distributio, et ex Regulae Benedictinae cap. 48. a Pascha ad Cal. Octob. post Primam, et a predictis Calendis post Tertiam laborandum sit, recte omnino aestate post Primam, hyeme post Tertiam capitulum instituitur.

“III. Locus capituli erat claustro contiguis ad Orientem: ‘In claustris conventuum,’ infit Petrus Blesensis, ser. 25., ‘quatuor loca cum propriis deputantur officiis: In latere claustri Occidentali est Scholaris subjectio: in eo quod contingit ecclesiam lectio moralis: in ipsa ecclesia meditatio spiritualis; ad orientem in capitulo correctio materialis?’ Hinc ordo antiquissimus conversationis Monast. rationem ad capitulum veniendi describens. ‘Veniant,’ inquit c. 3., ‘omnes ad capitulum, et conversi ad orientem salutent crucem,’ et antiquum Affligenensis Monasterii Rituale part. 1. c. 3. ‘Quilibet in medio capituli inclinet se profunde ad orientem’ et revera in omnibus antiquis nostræ congregationis Monasteriis, in quibus mansi, ita esse perspexi. In Fontanellensi Monasterio S. Ansegisus ‘Jussit condere dominum juxta absidam Basilicæ sancti Petri ad plagam Septentrionalem, quam conventus seu curia, quæ græce Belunterion dicitur, appellari placuit propter quod consilium in ea de qualibet re perquirentes convenire fratres soliti sint,’ ut habetur in ejus vit. n. 9. sœc. 4. part. 1. p. 635. At in antiqua Monasterii S. Galli delineatione nullus est capituli locus, sed omnes capitulares actus in ipso claustro tractabantur, in ea parte scilicet quæ respiebat ad Septentrionem, eratque ecclesia continua.

“IV. Porro congregabatur capitulum ad signum squillæ seu campanulæ ab ipso Preposito sive Priore pulsatum, ut discimus ex concordia Dunstani c. 1. ‘Facto signo a Priore convenientes ad capitulum, &c.’ clarius ex statutis Lanfranci c. 1. §. 1. ‘Tunc jubente Abbatte, Prior sonet signum minimum, deinde omnes cant in capitulum.’ Ex consuetudinibus Germaniae MS. nu. 4. ‘Capitulum Prior minimum signo et collationem, sed breviter percusso annuntiet;’ ex lib. Usnum Beccen-sium: ‘Omnibus festis diebus dicta Prima, et facto parvo post psalmos familiares spatio, sonat Prior minus signum ad convenientem in capitulo tamdiu donec Miserere mei, dici possit.’ Apud Cistercienses tamen capituli signum dabat ipse Sacrista: ‘Post Missam matutinalem,’ inquit c. 70. ‘in lib. Usnum Sacrista pulset signum ad convocabandum fratres in capitulum.’

“V. Vocati autem ad capitulum convenientebant non quidem tumultuatim; sed, ut ait Lanfrancus in statutis c. 1. §. 1. ‘Duo et duo sicut sunt Piores; Majores primo, postea infantes;’ et quidem Priore ipso praecedente ex concordia Dunstani c. 1.; Recitantes interim aliquas preees, ut decernunt Cassinenses in declarationibus ad cap. 17. his verbis: ‘Secundum antiquam nostram consuetudinem dieta Prima immediate processionaliter exeundo de Ecclesia commemorationem facimus de fratribus defunctis, familiaribus, et benefactoribus nostris, eum psalmo De profundis, et oratione Deus revivis largitor, &c. pergimus in capitulum.’

“VI. Intrantes capitulum, principalem primo locum, deinde seipsos invicem salutabant, tum sedeabant: ‘Convenientes ad capitulum,’ inquit Dunstanus in conc. c. 1., ‘ipso praecedente, versa facie ad orientem salutent crucem, et ceteris undique fratribus se vultu inclinato humiliant.’ Similiter antiquus ordo conversationis Monastice c. 3. ‘Veniant omnes ad capitulum, et conversi ad orientem salutent crucem, et ceteris fratribus se undique humiliant;’ et antiquum Afligeniensis Monasterii Rituale pr. part. c. 3. ‘Venientes autem ad capitulum antequam ad suas sessiones eant, quilibet in medio capituli inclinat se profunde ad orientem.’ Idem observabant Carthusienses, ut patet ex antiquis eorum statutis part 1. c. 36. et part 2. c. 12. ‘Intrantes et exeuntes de capitulo ad crucem nudatis capitibus inclinamus;’ idem habent in nova coll. stat. 2. part. cap. 8. n. 1. Ubi obiter observabis antiquum morem crucis in medio capituli collocandæ: Cistercienses vero hac de re sic statuunt lib. Usuum cap. 70. ‘Fratres autem auditio signo convenient in capitulum, inclinantes ante sedes suas, et cum sederint, humiliant se mutuo; veniente vero Abbatе, vel quolibet alio, qui capitulo tenere debet, ei omnes assurgant, inclinantes tantum Abbatи transeunti, eoque sedente resideant: Sed ille qui juxta Abbatem sessurus est, humiliet se profunde de loco suo versus Abbatem, nec tamen super genua vel articulos; et sic resient.’

“VII. Congregati omnes atque in unum sedentes ad actus capitulares procedebant, ex quibus tres dumtaxat memorat Radulphus Tungrensis in lib. de Observantia Canonum prop. 14. ‘In officio autem capituli quod fit post Primam fiunt tria: Primo memoria SS. in recitatione Martyrologii cum versu Pretiosa, et capitulo Sancta Maria. Secundo memoria defunctorum in anniversariis recitandis cum Miserere mei Deus, et collectis. Tertio quia tune ad labores diurnos præparari debemus, addunt preees congruentes dieendo ter: Deus in adjutorium, &c.’

“VIII. Sed multo plures capitulares actus jure recensere possumus. 1. Lectionem Martyrologii cum collecta sequenti. 2. Divini invocationem auxiliū ad reliquos diei actus per V. Deus in adjutorium, &c. 3. Lectionem Regulæ aut alieniū homiliae. 4. Commemorationem defunctorum et benefactorum per Lectionem Necrologii. 5. Commemorationem item benefactorum viventium cum precibus. 6. Officialium institu-tionem. 7. Culparum correctionem. 8. Laboris injunctionem. De quibus singillatim et breviter pro modulo nostro.

“IX. Primus itaque actus capituli assignatur Lectio Martyrologii, Aquisgranensi synodo statuente can. 66. ‘Ut ad capitulum primitus Martyrologium legatur;’ quæ tamen lectio antea in usu fuisse, docet antiquus ordo conversationis Monasticae, patetque ex vita Sancti Wandonis Abbatis Fontinellensis, qui suo Monasterio legitur dedisse ‘codicem in quo continetur Regula S. Benedicti, et S. Columbani, et Martyrologium;’ quia nimirum una cum Regula legebatur mane in capitulo, Spicileg. Tom. 3^b.

“X. Circa hanc Martyrologii lectionem observandum: Primo quod lector in medio capituli constitutus benedictionem postulabat ad legendum: ‘Et petat benedictionem lector, et recitentur nomina Sanctorum,’ inquit Ordo conversationis Monasticae, ann. 1659, Neapoli editus; Et liber Usuum Cisterciensium e. 70. ‘Lector vero veniens ante analogium aperiat librum, et inclinet se ad benedictionem.’ Et Bursfeldenses in ordin. e. 11. ‘Procedat in medium qui lecturus est, ad benedictionem humiliter se inclinaus; qua data resideant; sed nemo ante præsidentem.’ Hinc etiam in antiquo Cassinensi Breviario MS. a nobis jam toties citato, precibus, quæ Martyrologii lectionem subsequi solent, præmittitur ista Benedictio; ‘Dies et actus nostros in sua paece disponat omnipotens Dominus;’ quæ in MS. S. Dionysii consuetudinibus incipit sic: ‘In riam mandatorum, estque a puerō petenda.’ Et tamen ex antiquis Germaniæ consuetudinibus MS. ad solm̄ Prioris Sacerdotis mutum legi debet Martyrologium: ‘Facto signo itur ad capitulum, et sedentibus eunetis, Prior Sacerdos dat lectori signum ut legat;’ sed neque in Concordia Dunstani, neque in Decretis Lantfranci, neque in MS. consuetudinibus S. Germani a Pratis ulla fit mentio petenda benedictionis ad lectionem Martyrologii.

“XI. Secundo eos semper annunciant Sanctos, quorum natalis dies in diem sequentem incideret, sive ut habet antiquus ordo conversationis Monasticae e. 3. ‘quorum festa erastina dies excipiet;’ quibus diem mensis et lunæ præmittebant: ‘Pulsabitur ad capitulum,’ inquit MS. consuetudines S. Germani a Patris, ‘et legentur calendas et pronunciantur qualis sit luna, et quota fuerit, et annunciantur festivitates Sanctorum.’ Et cærimoniale Bursfeldensium e. 11. ‘Lector legat lectionem de Martyrologio, præmittens quotam mensis et lunæ juxta computationem Kalendarii, et pronuntiatur non præsens dies, sed semper erastinus.’

qui jussu Caroli Magni compilavit Martyrologium, reperit singulis diebus plusquam trecenta festa concurrere; ideo statutum fuit ut diceretur: et aliorum plurimorum Sanctorum Martyrum, &c.^c Tuncque, ut ait liber Usum Cisterciens. c. 70. ‘Surgant fratres, et vertant se ad orientem dicentes versum qui in collectaneo habetur, id est Pretiosa in conspectu Domini, Sacerdote hebdomadario incipiente; quem sequebatur dicenda a Sacerdote oratio: ‘Ipsi et omnes Sancti Dei intercedant pro nobis, ut mereamur a Deo adjuvari, qui vivit et regnat in saecula saeculorum Amen.’ Cui quidem orationi religionis ac devotionis ergo in Beatissimam Dei Genitricem præmissum est a recentioribus Sacratissimum B. Marie nomen hoc modo: Sancta Maria et omnes Sancti, &c. Neque enim reperitur in antiquo ordine convers. Monasticæ, neque apud Chrodegangum in Regula Canon. neque in MS. consuet. S. Germani a Pratis, neque ceremoniali Bursfeldensi: Haec tamen additio non ita recentioris est institutionis, nam extat in MS. Breviario Cassinensi Institutionis Oratorii, in quo utrumque dicendi modum, diversis tamen in locis reperi^e.

“XIII. Haec oratio, ut diximus, a Sacerdote dicebatur: in ordine tamen Monastico apud Haëftenum, et in MS. S. Germani a Pratis a Priore dici præscribitur, pro quo in editione Neapolitana habetur Presbyter. Haec sunt præcipue quæ Martyrologii lectionem spectant saltem pro diebus quotidianis.

“XV. Primo hujusmodi preces non erant simplex præparatio ad laborem manuum, ut existimant forte nonnulli; sed ad omnes diurnos actus respiebant; ut satis indicant ista collectae verba: Dirigere et sanctificare . . . hodie corda, &c. Ad laborem vero manuum in fine capituli, post emendatas culpas, iterum dicebatur tertio X. Deus in adjutorium meum.

“XVI. Secundo hic versus nocturno silentio finem imponebat, ut discimus ex ordine Monasticæ convers. Neapoli edito, ubi post orationem: ‘Ipsi et omnes Sancti, sequitur: Deinde dicatur versus ad solvendum silentium, id est Deus in adjutorium meum intende, &c.’ et de hoc versu intelligendum puto locum illum ex consuetudinibus a Benedicto Abbe Anianensi suis in Monasteriis institutis tom. 4. Anal. ‘Et nocturnum silentium semper ab eis custodiri sive iutus, sive foris sint, quousque in capitulo

^c It will be seen from p. 240, where this versicle occurs, that the name Sancta Maria was not added to the prayer Isti et omnes Sancti, &c. in the Convent of the Holy Trinity; nor in the Monastery of St. Thomas the Martyr, as appears from the extract given, p. xc. of the Introduction to this volume.—Eo.

capitulo versum dicant.' Ubi etiam obiter notandum est olim nocturni silentii finem aliquujus signi sonitu indicatum fuisse, ut discimus ex Adelerio Monacho in Appendice ad lib. Mirac. S. Benedicti in Gallia ab Adrevaldo c. 40. sæc. 2. Bened. p. 292. 'ut vero se lux diei terris clara infudit, fratribus somno experrectis, idem sonitu fusilis tabulae, olim reseranda locutionis gratia compactæ, Abbatem Theotbertum cum reliquis adsciscens,' &c.

"XVII. Tertio versus ille : Deus in adjutorium meum, ter a Priore vel Sacerdote ex integro diebatur ; terque item a congregatione repetebatur, ut patet ex antiquo Ordine conversationis monastice : 'Dicatur versus ad solvendum silentium, id est Dens in adjutorium meum intende : Domine ad adjurandum me festina tribus vicibus, Priore incipiente, cæteris autem respondentibus id ipsum tertio.' Extat hac de re capitulum undecimum Monachorum Sangallensium in hac verba sæc. 4. Bened. part. 1. pag. 741. 'Ut versus ad capitalum, id est Deus in adjutorium meum a Presbytero ter, terque a congregatione repetitus dicatur, et dicta gloria, post hoc non adjungant alleluja:' Accedit cæremoniæ Bursfeldensium ; in quo præscribitur c. 11. ut a Sacerdote 'subsequatur versus Deus in adjutorium meum intende, quem tertio dicit ex integro, et toties repetitur a conventu, addita post ultimam repetitionem Gloria Patri.' Dunstanus vero non ita clare rem enuntiat, cum decernit in cone. c. 1. ut predictus versus 'tertio repetatur ab omnibus Priore incipiente.' In MSS. S. Dionysii consuetudinibus si dies privatus non fuerit, hic versus præcipitur omitti.

"XVIII. Quarto ad Litaniam seu Kyrie eleison flectebant genua, surgebantque ad orationis Dominicæ conclusionem : Ita in antiquis Germanicæ consuetudinibus MS. quod confirmat capitulum 12. Monachorum Sangallensium, loco cit. 'Ut Kyrie eleison oratur in capitulo, utrumque genu flectentes consona voce tribus tantum vicibus dicant, id est Kyrie eleison : Christe eleison : Kyrie eleison. Similiter in refectorio sed sine genuflectione ;' Et antea antiquus Ordo conversationis monastice : 'Et flectentes genua oreut, et dicat Prior Et ne nos inducas in tentationem, ceteri respondeant Sed libera ;' surgentes iterum dicant versum pariter Respice in seruos tuos usque in finem psalmi, subjungentes Gloria Patri ;' Similiter concordia Dunstani c. 1. 'Et flectentes genua si tempus dictaverit : dicente vero Priore Et ne nos inducas surgant omnes, erectorque vultu dicant Respice in seruos, suljungentes Gloria humiliato capite ;' Liber Usuum Cisterciensium c. 70. 'Prosternantur super sedes superiores, aut incurvantur super genua secundum tempus, dicentes simul Kyrie eleison et quando Sacerdos dixerit : Et ne nos inducat in tentationem erigantur, donec Sacerdos dicat : Dirigere et sanctificare, et tue incurvantur.' Denique cæremoniæ Bursfeld : 'Deinde letaniam scilicet Kyrie eleison : Christe eleison : Kyrie eleison : alternatim per choros dicant, et consequentur prostrati aut pro temporis qualitate incurvati sub silentio “ XIX. Quinto denique oratio Dirigere ita effertur in antiquo ordine conversationis Monasticae edit. Neapol. Dirigere et sanctificare digneris Domine Jesu Christe fili Dei vivi hodie corda et corpora nostra in via tua, et in operibus munum tuarum, ut hic et in aeternum per te salvi esse mereamur Salvator mundi, qui rixis et regnas in seculu sacerdorum Amen. In antiquo autem Breviario Monasterii Cassinensis Institutionis Oratorii ita: Dirigere et sanctificare, et custodire dignare Dominus Deus omnipotens Rex cari et terre hodie corda et corpora nostra, sensus, sermones, et actus nostros in lege tua, et in operibus mandatorum tuorum, ut hic et in aeternum per te salvi esse mereamur, qui rixis et regnas. Brevius in Breviario MS. S. Germani a Pratis: Dirigere et sanctificare dignare Domine Sancte Pater omnipotens aeternae Deus hodie corda et corpora nostra in lege tua et in operibus mandatorum tuorum, ut hic et in aeternum te auxiliante semper salvi esse mereamur. Haec oratio ex antiquo Ordine conversationis monast. a Priore est dicenda; ex lib. usum Cistere. a Sacerdote; ad quam ex eodem libro, et carem. Bursfeld. semper incurvari debent omnes. Ea finita, Prior ex eodem ordine monastico subjungebat Adjutorium nostrum in nomine Domini; ceteri respondebant, Qui fecit corylum et terram.

“ XX. Tertius capitularis actus praedicas preces agebat, post quas immediate sequebatur lectio Regulae de qua satis multa in Commentario ad Regulae c. 66. Ad hanc sedebant omnes, ita tamen ut prius assideret, qui capitulo praeerat; in cuius fine subjungebat Lector: Tu autem Domine; sed nullam initio videtur petuisse benedictionem. Praelectum Regule capitulum exponebat Prior, aut cui jussarat ille, ut genuinus ejus sensus omnibus innotesceret.

^d The collect Dirigere does not appear to have been used in the Chapter of St. Thomas's. See Introduction, p. xc. But it was in use in Christ Church, and will be found in the summary of the prayers used in Chapter, which is given p. 240 of the present volume.—ED.

^e The reader will observe that this is also the case in the present volume.—ED.

“XXII. Lectionem Regulæ vel homiliæ excipit in MS. Sancti Germani a Pratis consuetudinibus, et cerem. Bursf. lectio Necrologii, cuius tamen nulla fit mentio neque in antiquo ordine Monastico, neque in concordia Dunstani, neque in statutis Lantfranci, neque in MS. consuetudinibus Germanie: nihilominus videtur Necrologiorum usus satis antiquus; nam Regis Oswaldi depositionis diem annotatum fuisse in codice defunctorum legimus apud Bedam l. 4. hist. Angl. c. 14, quem etiam Annalem vocat; et ante Bedam Bertigrannus episcopus Cenomanensis, in testamento suo, illustris Parisiensis S. Vincentii monasterii abbatem rogat, ut nomen meum, inquit, in libro vite recitetur, apud Mabillonum tom. 3. Analectorum pag. 121. Jam vero nonnullæ hac de lectione minutiae sunt observandæ.

“XXIII. Primo. Ante quoseunque adnunciatabantur Abbatum obitus, si ea die contigisset: Deinde Monachorum, tum externorum qui speciali aliquo beneficio in Necrologio monasterii meruissent inscribi, quamvis in nonnullis promiseue insererentur Necrologiis.

“XXV. Tertio, ad nomen Abbatis præmittebatur ubique vox Domini, non item ad monachorum, qui puro ac nudo nomine recitabantur^f.

“XXVII. Quinto, Monachis monasterii inserebantur aliorum etiam cœnobiorum ascetæ cum quibus societatem habebant, aut omnes, aut aliqui tantum, quibus ex conventione ita concessum erat. Sie V. Beda ad Eadfridum Episcopum fratresque Lindisfarnenses scribens rogat in pref. d. vit. S. Cutberti n. 2. ut ‘me defuncto pro redēmptione animæ meæ quasi pro familiaris et vernaculi vestri orare, et missas facere, et Nomen meum inter vestra scribere dignemini.’ Cudbertus Abbas Wiremutensis in epist. ad Lullum Archiepiscopum, quæ inter Bonifacii epistolæ 95. ‘nomina fratrum quæ ad nos misistis, cum nominibus hujus Monasterii fratrum dormientium in Christo scripta continentur.’ Et in litteris Societatis inter Sabulense et Solemniaeense Monasterium, quæ extant sæc. 2. p. 1093.: ‘Nomina vero defunctorum fratrum Stabulensis cœnobii Martyrologio Solemniaeensi conscripta per singulos dies cum suorum fratrum anniversariis recitabuntur.’

^f This and the preceding rule are not observed in the present Necrology, where the anniversaries of the Priors are entered under the word obii, and without the title Dominus.—ED.

XXVIII. Sexto. In Necrologiis Monachorum inscribantur etiam Sancti ab Ecclesia ut tales reeogniti; nonnulla hae de re exempla profert Haefrenus l. 8. t. 1. disp. 4. et in nostro S. Germani a Pratis Necrologio Kalend. Januarii reperitur depositio Domini Odilonis Abbatis.

“XXIX. Septimo. Cum benefactorum nomina recitabantur, collata etiam ab his Monasterio proferebantur beneficia preeesque pro ipsis dicendæ: Extat hujus rei exemplum in Necrologio S. Germani a Pratis: ‘Pridie idus Januarii obiit . . . Hugo Marescallus, anniversarium ejus et amicorum suorum, et Episcopi Johannis Belmaicensis Abbas Hugo totumque capitulum singulis annis perpetuum faciendum concesserunt: Per Odonem enim clericum nostrum praedit. Hugonis filium datum est Ecclesiae Beati Germani lignum Dominicæ crncis. In die vero obitus prænominati Odonis anniversarius iste annis singulis celebrabitur.’ Idem patet ex litteris Richardi Archiepiscopi et totius conventus ecclesiæ Cantuariensis ad Ludovicum Francor. Regem, in quibus grates praedicto Regi referunt, suffragia sua, ac preces per plurimas concedunt, atque promittunt, ‘ut autem nulla oblivione deleri debeant in posterum hæc omnia, in Martyrologio nostro, inquit, scribi fecimus, et singulis annis die recordationis vestrae relegenda statuimus.’ Extant apud Reynerium de Apost. Bened. in Angl. appendice 3. p. 254

“XXX. Octavo. Unius et ejusdem defuncti per plures dies commemoratione aliquando fiebat, cuius rei exemplum nobis suppeditat Hugonis 3. Abbatis S. Germani a Protis, qui anno 1182. obiit, quædam charta foundationis seu institutionis sui anniversarii, in qua inter alia hæc decernit: ‘Præter hæc etiam ut per illos sex dies qui sunt inter primum anniversarii diem et octavum, quotidiana de nobis fiat in capitulo memoria, et ibi nos conventus sicut in prima die et octava specialiter et nominatim absolvat.’

“XXXI. Nono. Ad majorem rei firmitatem et securitatem qui anniversaria sibi instituebant atque fundabant, chartas hujusmodi foundationis in capitulo legi quotannis aliquando volebant, ut patet ex eadem praedicti Hugonis charta, in cuius fine ita habetur: ‘Porro ut hæc omnia successorum nostrorum memoriae facilius semper occurrant, et fidelius imprimantur; præcipiendo sub prescripta statuimus conditione, quatenus hujus nostræ institutionis pagina, singulis annis in vigilia anniversarii nostri post lectionem capitulo coram omnibus in conventu legatur.’

XXXII. Undecimo. Cistercienses lib. us. e. 70. nullam videntur fecisse defunctorum speciale mentionem, sed generalem tantummodo; nam lecta Regula, et tabella officialium, lector consequenter addebat: ‘Commemoratio omnium fratrum et familiarium defunctorum ordinis nostri?’ deinde qui capitulum tenebat, subjungebat, Requiescant in pace. Respondebant Amen. Si tamen absolvendus aliquis erat defunctus, exposita sententia, sive facto sermone, ad cantoris admonitionem absolvebatur. Similiter si ultimus tricenarii dies commemorandus esset, hunc cantor commemorabat. Ita etiam si breve recens defuneti legendum foret, ab eodem legebatur.

“XXIV. Quintum capituli actum esse diximus commemorationem benefactorum viventium cum precibus pro beneficiis ab ipsis collatis; quod colligitur ex libello supplici Monachorum Fuldensem ad Carolum Magnum Imperatorem, in eius n. 1. saec. 4. Ben. part. p. 260. petunt ‘quod liceat nobis orationum, et psalmodiae, et vigiliarum modum tenere, quem Patres nostri habuerunt pro amicis nostris viventibus et defunctis, id est quotidiam precem pro te Domine Auguste et pro liberis tuis et pro omni populo Christiano, quam mane quando in unum convenimus, et capitulum de Regula eoram fratribus legebatur, exsurgentes post lectionem ter V. Deus in adiutorium meum intende adjuncta Gloria Patri cantantes, flexis genibus psalmum L. eccliminius simul cum versibus et collecta.’

“XXXV. Sextus capitularis actus a nobis designatus erat institutio ac nominatio officialium, que cum sabbato fieret in capitulo, non tam ad quotidianos ritus quam ad eos qui per hebdomadam eveniunt, spectat; ae proinde in sequentem librum remittenda videtur.

“XXXVI. Septimus erat culparum publica confessio, proclamatio, et emendatio, de qua tria nobis breviter inquirenda sunt 1. Quam sit apud Monachos antiqua. 2. Quoties et quando fuerit. 3. Quo modo.

“XXXVII. Primum quod spectat, spontaneæ ac publicæ culparum apud monachos confessionis antiquitatem ab ipsis fere vita monasticæ cunabulis repeteret licet; hanc in primis commendavit S. Basilius, docuit ac recepit S. Benedictus, aliisque perplices præscripserunt. De S. Basilio luculentum extat testimonium in serm. de Institutione Monachorum: ‘Completo die,’ inquit. serm. 1. de Instit. Mon. ‘et absoluto opere tum corporali tum spirituali; convenit ut unusquisque ante requiem conscientiam in corde suo judicet, et si quid fecit, quod non oportet, vel cogitaverit aliquid eorum, quae condemnantur, vel loquutus fuerit extra id quod deceat, vel ad orationem fuerit negligens, ad psalmiodiam tædio anxius, vel communem vitam desideravit: non abscondat delictum; sed in communii annuntiet, ut per communem orationem sanetur morbus illius, cui tale malum contigerit.’ S. Benedictus ‘Collectis fratribus inobedientem Monachum de infidelitate sua et superbia coram omnibus incepavit,’ ut scribit S. Gregorius l. 2. dial.

dial. c. 28. et in Regula c. 46. prescribit, ut si quis ‘aliquid deliquerit, aut fregerit quidpiam, aut perdiderit, vel aliud quid excesserit, et non veniens continuo ante Abbatem, vel congregationem, ipse ultro satisfecerit et prodiderit delictum suum, dum per alium cognitum fuerit, majori subjaceat emendationi.’ S. Isidorus ter in hebdomada collationem fieri præcipit, ‘et ipsa quoque collatio,’ inquit c. 8. ‘erit vel pro corrigendis vitiis, instruendis moribus, vel pro reliquis caussis ad utilitatem cœnobii pertinentibus;’ et alibi c. 15. ‘Peccatum palam commissum, palam est arguendum qui sponte culpam confitetur quam gessit, veniam promereret debet, quam expedit.’ S. Fruct. in Regula monastica communī c. 13. ‘Propter hoc ergo jugiter jubemus in collecta fratres adesse, et non plusquam septem dies interponere, et per omnes dies Dominicos mores pristinos et vitia emendare.’

“XXXVIII. Tempus ad id exercitii destinatum non unum fuit apud veteres monachos. Scribit Nebridius a Mundelheim in Antiquario monastico p. 299. diem Dominicum illi deputatum fuisse, idque post Matutinos. Diem Dominicum, ut modo vidimus, assignat S. Fructuosus; sed S. Isidorus ‘tribus’ inquit c. 8. ‘in Hebdomada vicibus fratres post celebratam Tertiam dato signo ad collectam convenient.’ S. Basilius et S. Benedictus nullum ad corrigendas culpas diem assignatum determinant quoniam id diebus singulis fieri volebant; et quidem S. Basilius completo die. S. Benedictus post Primam æstate, hyeme post Tertiam, ut communis Ordinis usus habuit; et certe olim correctas fuisse quotidie culpas, aut saltem dici potuisse, patet ex Hildenaro in Regulam S. Benedict. in c. 46. ex antiquo Ordine conversationis Monasticæ; ex antiquis Germaniæ consuetudinibus; ex Concordia Dunstani, Statutis Lantfranci, MS. consuet. Cluniacens. libro usum Cisterciensium, et Cæremoniali Bursfeldensium. Idem canonici suis præscribit Crodegangus Mettensis Episcopus in Reg. c. 18. Idque ipsum observant etiam nunc Cassinenses, exceptis tamen festis. Nunc vero Fuliensium constitutiones c. 16. tres in hebdomada dies statuunt, fer. 2. 5. et Sabb. etiam in diebus festis, nisi forte sint sermonis ad confitendas emendandasque culpas: Vallisoletani fer. 2. et 6. festo 4. capparum aut de præcepto non occupatas; Cœlestini in Const. c. 19. §. 1. duos item dies in monasteriis principalibus; 4. et 6. feria, nisi festum sit duplex; unicum in minus principalibus 4. vel 6. feriam: in Const. Cœlestinorum MSS. c. 15. singulis diebus aut saltem ter in Ebdomada 2. 4. et 6. feriis. In non conventionalibus vero bis, 4. et 6. feriis. Idem semel dumtaxat in Dominica præstant Carthusiani ex nova collect. statut. Carthus. part. 2. c. 8. n. 4. Unicam etiam huic satisfactioni feriam 6. assignat Reg. Monachorum apud Hieron. c. 9.

multa nobis suppeditant antiquus Ordo conversationis Monasticæ, MS. Germaniæ cons., Concord. Dunstani, statuta Lantfranci c. 19. I. Us. c. 70. &c.

“XL. Primo enim Ordo conversationis monasticæ præscribit, ut lecta expositaque Regula, ‘qui culpabilis est postulet veniam, et secundum modum culpæ judicium recipiat.’ Ea propter ex antiquis Germaniæ consuet. MS. Prior dicebat: Si aliquid sit loquendum, edcite, sive ut habent statuta Lanfranci, liber usum Cisterciensium, ceremoniale Bursfeldensium dist. 1. c. 4. Loquamur de ordine nostro^g.

“XLI. ‘Tunc unusquisque,’ ut prosequuntur consuetudines Germaniæ n. 33. ‘apud se tractat, si aliquid deliquerit in loquendo, in manducando, bibendo, in dormiendo; et si culpabilem per conscientiam suam se prospexerit prosternet se ad terram, confitebiturque reatum; post interrogationem tamen Prioris ita dicentis: Quid dicitis? illiusque respondentis Mea culpa, et Prioris Surgite proclamantis; post istam interrogationem reddet rationem, accipietque voluntarie sibi imperatam sententiam, aut jejunii, aut orationibus, saepe etenim præcipitur cantare septem aut tres, aut duos, aut unum, cuncta secundum modum culpæ.’ Contractus Udalricus in lib. 2. cons. Clun. c. 17. ‘Postquam ventum fuerit ad actionem capituli, si quid ei excessus aliquo modo contingit, quod alias vidit, et digne potuerit reclamare, ipse præveniens petit veniam, et illam veniam corpore toto prostrato culpamque suam fatetur, quantacumque fatetur, tamen non amplius petit veniam, præter illam quam petit.’ Fusius vero ceremon. Bursfeldensium, &c. ‘Cum aliis consuetis expeditis, præsideus dixerit: Loquamur de ordine; Mox qui se in aliquo reum noverit, surgens veniat in medium ibidem promus se in terram prosternens; et ita jaceat sinistro plus incubens lateri, manibus simul et pedibus decenter ad invicem combinatis, interrogatus autem a præsidente: Quid dicas? Respondeat: Culpam meam, et ad jussum præsidentis erectus, stans in eodem loco discoeperto et parum inclinato capite, simpliciter, absque omni palliatione, voce clara confiteatur negligutias suas. Expediant autem se primo, si illie fuerint, Noviti, Conversi, atque Hospites; deinde Monachi suo ordine incipientes a junioribus. Non prohibentur duo vel tres aut plures surgere insimul, et pro suis negligentiis veniam petere. Et cum plures fuerint simul in judicio; qui prior fuerit, in capite stet, partis dextræ ex adverso Crucifixi, et primus loquatur, et cum singuli dixerint culpas suas, judicentur, et de judicio dimittantur singulariter singuli, aut communitur pro ut casibus exigentibus visum fuerit Presidenti: Dimissi vero de judicio redeant ad loca sua. Noviti si sint, mox ut fuerint expediti, aut certe si non sit ab eis vel in eos proclamatio facienda, statim ut dixerit Præsdens: Loquamur de ordine, ipsi exeant, intrantes ecclesiam vel dormitorium: Similiter faciant hospites, ita ut Novitii nullius alterius; hospites vero duntaxat Novitiorium proclamationi intersint. Die autem quo Conversis servatur capitulum, tam novitii quam hospites ante illorum expeditionem, et illi expediti similiter exire debent ut præfertur?

“XLII. Publicam spontaneamque confessionem sequebatur occultarum culparum publica etiam denunciatio, quam proclamationem Majores nostri vocarunt, camque satis innuit ipse S. Pater Benedictus statuens, ut delictum ‘dum per alium cognitum fuerit, majori vindictæ subjaceat.’ Ab ea tamen abstinent Cassinenses, et nos eorum exemplo, licet omni tempore apud nostros usitata videatur. Proclamationis formulam hanc præscribit Trithem. in exercit. Monach. ‘Dilectus frater noster hoc vel illud commisit, rogo, quatenus emendare se propter Dominum velit.’

“XLIII. Ut autem aliquis accusatus seu proclamatus esset, statim in terra prostratus dicebat Mea culpa: extat hac de re capitulum 13. Monachorum Sangallensium, sæc. 4. Ben. part. 1. p. 742. ‘Ut in capitulo seu ubicumque quis increpatus fuerit, statim veniam petens dicat Mea culpa: et jussus surgat, et sic humiliter rationem reddat: Et si quisquam hoc facere contempserit, duplii vindictæ subjaceat;’ Et in Concordia Dunstani c. 1. ‘omnis autem frater pro quacumque caussa increpatus ab Abbatе, vel a quolibet Priore antequam verbum aliquod proferat, veniam petat, et dum a Priore interrogatus fuerit, quæ sit caussa pro qua veniam poscit, respondeat, atque suam profiteatur culpam, dieens Mea culpa Domine, hinc jussus, erigat se.’ Idem habetur in Ord. conversationis Monasticæ; et in statutis Lantfranci c. 19. ‘Interrogatus more solito qui prosternitur, ad omnes venias Mea culpa dicat;’ et in MS. consuetudinibus Cluniae. ‘in omnibus veniis quæ in capitulo petentur, dicendum vel respondendum Mea culpa ei qui capitulo tenet, cum dixit Quid dicitis?’ Denique in libro Usuum Cisterc. cap. 70. ‘Qui clamatus fuerit, mox ut audierit nomen suum, non respondens in sede sua petat veniam tenenti capitulum, eumque interroganti Quid dicitis? Respondet prostratus Mea culpa; et ad jussum illius erectus, si reus fuerit, humiliter culpam suam confiteatur, et de reliquo emendationem promittat.’

“XLIV. Cum vero proclamaretur aliquis, omnes, qui ejusdem erant nominis, prostrati in terra veniam postulabant, nisi forte singulariter aliquis designaretur; ‘Est autem consuetudo,’ inquit MS. consuet. Cluniae. ‘quod cum unus clamatur, omnes, qui ejusdem nominis sunt, cuius est ille qui clamatur, debent se præsentare, donec clamator eligat, de quo dicit, nisi ipse clamator adeo discreverit, et determinaverit, de quo dicat, ut nulla dubitatio sit; et Lantfrancus in statutis: ‘Si clamatur aliquis, qui commune cum uno aut pluribus nomen habeat, nisi clamaus ita discernat et determinet, ut nulla dubitatio possit esse, omnes qui ejusdem nominis sunt cuius est ille, qui clamatur, statim debent surgere, et ad veniam humiliter se præsentare, donec clamator determinate eligat, de quo dicat.’ Idem habent Divionenses S. Benigni cons. c. 32.

Porro ad vitandam omnem in proclamando ambagem, proclamatos aut a gradu, aut ab officiis designabant: ‘Ipsa autem determinatio,’ inquit Lantfrancus, ‘ab ordinibus vel officiis, si fieri possit, debet esse hoc modo: Dominus Edwardus Presbyter, Diaconus, Subdiaconus, Secretarius, Magister infantum vel juvenum, vel aliquid hujusmodi, non Archidiaconus, non Londoniensis, non aliquid cognominatum de saeculo.’ Taliterque designatus pronus in terra Mea culpa dicebat, et sic judicium expectabat. Illud autem judicium erat ad Abbatis arbitrium pro gravitate aut levitate culparum: ‘Postea autem,’ inquit Udalricus l. 2. cons. Chm. c. 17. ‘pro eo pro quo est reclamatus, sustinet quod Pralato videtur; vel vapulare, vel esse in culpa leviori, nam quae ad graviorem culpam pertinet, de his non loquor hae vice;’ quod prius judicium, nempe vapulare, ita describit S. Lantfrancus cap. 19. ‘Suscepturus judicium aut sola grossiori virga super staminacem verberetur, et prostratus jaceat; aut pluribus gracilioribus virgis, et nudus sedeat; utrumque ad arbitrium ejus qui praest Ordini, considerata qualitate et quantitate culpe. Dum corporalis disciplina infertur, fratres omnes inclinato capite debent esse, et pio et fraterno affectu compassionem super eum habere;’ Et liber Usuum Cisterciensium: ‘Verberandus postquam ab Abate exui jussus fuerit, mox assidat in codem loco in quo stat, et exuens encullam ponat eam ante se super genua sua, per caputum vero tunicae exerat brachia, et totum corpus usque ad cingulum, et consistens inclinato capite nihil dicat nisi tantum Mea culpa, Ego me emendabo, quod crebrius repeatat. Sed neque alius interim loquatur, nisi forte aliquis de Prioribus pro eo humiliter intercedat; qui autem eum verberat, non ccesset a verbere usque ad jussionem Abbatis; qui dum quieverit, adjuvet illum frater ad induendum, qui inditus et erectus non se moveat, donec Abbas dicat, Ite sessum; et tunc inclinans eat in locum suum.’ Et Anonymus in Vit. S. Stephani, Abbatis postea Obaz. n. 17. ‘Si quis verberandus esset; mox exuto eo, quinquagesimus incipiebatur psalmus, ut ad singulos versus singulos ictus acciperet, quod si major esset culpa, ampliores psalmi apponabantur, ut ampliori verbere sulcaretur.’ Tom. 4. Misc. Baluz. Perentiebatur autem ab eo, cui jusserset Abbas, aut Praepositus; hoc tamen observato ‘ne infantibus, vel juvenibus, aut novitiis id facere injungatur,’ ut loquitur Lantfrancus c. 9. sed neque ei qui eum proclamavit, id enim prohibent tam ipse Lantfrancus, quam editae, ac MS. consuet. Cluniacenses et S. Benigni c. 32. et liber Usuum Cisterciensium, in cuius c. 70. et illud habetur: ‘Ille qui inferioris gradus est, non debet verberare superiorum, id est Diaconus Sacerdotem, sed aequalis aequali, vel superior inferiorum.’ Porro ad vitandam omnem, quae hoc easu contingere posset, in honestatem, prescribunt Cluniacensis Monasterii consuetudines lib. 2. c. 17. ut ‘quando scilla pulsatur ad capitulum, stamineum suum undique detrahatur, et honeste componat, ut paratus sit, si aliquo modo accusatus judicium querere jubetur;’ quod idem habent Divionenses S. Benigni cons. c. 32.

“XLV. Denique circa hujusmodi proclamationes nonnulla nobis supersunt observanda. 1. Poterat unus et idem Monachus pluries in eodem capitulo proclamari: ‘Quod si alius de illo reclamaverit,’ ait Udalricus l. 2. cons. Clun. c. 19., ‘tunc quidem quoties de se reclamare audierit, toties quoque veniam petit;’ et liber Usuum Cisterc. cap. 70. ‘Quando aliquis surgit in judicium clamatus ab alio, quoties clamabitur in ipso judicio, toties satisfaciatur.’ 2. Proclamatus ab aliquo eundem vice versa proclamare non poterat: ‘Et sciendum,’ infit lib. Us. Cisterc. ‘quod qui clamatus fuerit, non faciat clamationem ipsa die super illum, qui cum clamavit,’ et liber Usuum Becc. ‘Clamatus frater clamantem se non reclamare audeat, quia videtur hoc ira dictante facere, et se revindicare.’ 3. ‘Quod si sedens et reclamationem de se audiens,’ inquit Udalriens loe. cit. ‘prius quicquid responderit, quam veniam petierit, jussus ut se prosternat in ipso froco suo, unam accipiat percussionem.’ Simile aliiquid loquuntur Divionsenses S. Benigni cons. c. 32. + Merito moment Cistercienses (lib. Us. Cist. c. 70. dist. 1. c. 15.) ut ‘nullus faciat clamationem super aliquem ex sola suspicione, nisi de hoc quod audierit, vel viderit, vel referri audierit;’ quibus consentiunt Bursfeldenses qui hujusmodi proclamationem feriis tantum sextis ab inferioribus, quotidie tamen a Præsidente fieri permittunt. Caeterum ut recte statuunt iidem Bursfeldenses ‘Caveat qui proclamat, ne hoc faciat ex aversione vel rancore, sed affectuoso fraternali dilectionis amore; non ex passione cum quadam animi indignatione, seu cordis amaritudine, sed pia magis compassione, in spiritu lenitatis, et ita honeste et modeste in proclamando se gerat, ut nec voce, nec nutu, aut signo aliquo appareat quidquam indecens in proclamante, vel distortum, unde possit perturbari proclamatus, aut scandalizari circunsedentes pusilli.’ Vid. Goffridi Abbatis Vindocinensis Opuse.

“XLVI. Quo autem animo fieri proclamatio, eodem etiam recipi debet ab eo qui accusatur: nimurum in spiritu humilitatis et lenitatis, et cum firme culpas emendandi desiderio; absit enim ut quisquam proclamationem in se factam indigne ferat; aut memores animos in accusantem se vel minimum conservet; meminisse enim debemus hujus S. Bernardi sententiae serm. in Nat. S. Joan. Bapt. ‘Nemo vitia palpet, peccata dissimulet nemo; nemo dieat: Numquid enstos fratris mei ego sum? Nemo quod in se est, æquanimititer ferat, cum viderit Ordinem deperire, minui disciplinam. Est enim consentire silere, cum arguere possis. Et scimus, quia similis pena facientes maneat et consentientis.’

functis psalmos decantabant; scilicet Verba mea: Domine ne in furore: Dilexi quoniam; Credidi; et De profundis, ut præscribunt Conc. Dunstani atque antiquæ Germaniæ consuet. manuscriptæ. Quibus finitis pulsata tabula mittebantur ad opera; et hic est ultimus capituli actus, de quo plenius ac fusius capitulo sequenti disserendum est.”
